No wrong is made right because it has a precedent. We could justify horse stealing on such grounds.

In the mean time county after county instructs for Norris Brown. If the ratio keeps up there won't be enough of a contest over United States Senator to make it interesting.

George Sheldon is not receiving many instructed delegations but he will receive large and enthusiastic support from the delegates who believe in courage, integrity and ability.

The republicans of this district are entitled to all the facts of the salary grab charged against Mr. Pollard before the convention meets at Auburn. If these charges are untrue Mr. Pollard will and should be nominated. It is not serving the party right for him to say I have nothing to say. This is the time to talk. The people are entitled to know and know at once.

WHY NOT BE FAIR.

Our esteemed contemporary The News continues to offer its advice to the republicans of this county on the necessity of beating Brown. It says that Brown is backed and controlled by the Northwestern railroad and that the senatorial fight in the republican party is a mere contest between railroads. Of course the News, if it knows anything of the conditions in the state, knows that this assertion is untrue. Such statements as these are founded in prejudice and belong to that old school of yellow dog politics in which all political opponents are untrue and unworthy and all good men and true belong to our crowd.

Think back over the past and see if you can recall a single instance of the News being fair with a republican. Can you call to mind a kind word the News ever spoke of a political opponent.

Norris Brown is a republican and because thereof he must be accused of being a railroad tool and of intending to betray the people. Is there anything in his life either public or private that would justify the editor of The News in passing judgment against his honesty and integrity?

Norris Brown has been attorney General of this state but two years. Within that time he has made industry his constant familiar, not in the service of a railroad, but in the interest of the people. He destroyed the lumber trust and as a result has saved more to the people of this state than all the democratic attorney generals the state has known. Did you see any mention of this fact in the News?

Norris Brown commenced proceedings in the Supreme court against the grain trust. It was not necessary for him to do so. No one made complaint to him, he made the complaint on his own motion and in his own name. The report of the referee disclosed that the grain trust was charging one and one fourth cents on every hundred pound shipment as elevator charges. As soon as this report was filed this charge was annulled and today every Nebraska farmer who ships grain gets a one and one fourth cent cheaper rate than he did before Brown began this suit. How many hundreds of dollars were saved to the shipping public by this one act of Brown's nobody can tell. Did you see any mention of this great service in the News?

Norris Brown secured a judgment against the Burlington railroad for every dollar it owes this county for taxes. Not a tax payer in this county spent a dollar in lawyer fees in this great battle between Brown and the greatest railroad lawyers in the west. Richardson county obtained this judgment for many thousands of dollars without the expenditure of a cent. Have you ever seen a statement in the News that spoke kindly of Brown for this great service?

Not on your life. The News has never spoken of Brown except to charge him with being a railroad tool, a man who intended to violate his oath of office, if he were elected Senator, in the interest of corporations and against the people. The News has never mentioned the name of Theodore Roosevelt unless it was for the purpose of criticism or to accuse him with lack of sincerity. Why not be fair? That spirit of narrow mindedness and silly prejudice is largely responsible for the fact that the News has but little if any influence in matters political. In these latter days it is only the blind partisan who sees nothing good in an opponent. In these days when the man and his works count for so much it is the rare exception that a newspaper can be found who sees nothing good or true or honest in such men as Theodore Roosevelt and Norris Brown.

Norris Brown a tool of the Northwestern railroad? To those who know, the statement is so absurd as to make its author ridiculous. Norris Brown has never brought suit against the Northwestern if that is what is meant, and the reason is that when the taxes came due this railroad paid every dollar of its tax without a murmur. If the News cared to be fair and was sufficiently acquainted with the state conditions it would know that Norris Brown was responsible for raising the assessed valuation of this road many thousands of dollars, that when this road tried to destroy the new revenue law in order that its valuation might be cut down and its taxes less, Norris Brown went into the supreme court and defended the new revenue law and beat the attempt to destroy it.

The News should recover from its narrowness and at least try to be fair. The paper would be of more consequence if its readers did not universally think when they read a political article that the statements contained must be discounted because of the prejudice so manifest. All of the honesty and sincerity of purpose is not confined to one political party. There are brave and honest men everywhere who are working for the general good. These men deserve and receive the encouragement of every good citizen without inquiry as to what their political belief is.

The safety of a party depends not on its platform but on its candidates. Loud talks of a square deal and high sounding platforms will be as sounding brass and tinkling cymbals if the candidate is not on the square. The worst platform ever constructed could not injure the people if the man elected was an honest and a square man.
