CIVILITIES AT THE FRONT.

On Christmas Day Japanese and Russians Agree to Suspend Fight That All May Feast.

A Japanese officer serving on the Shaho has a strange and interesting story to tell of intercourse and civilities between the two armies.

The Japanese being desirous of conveying to the Russians news of the fall of Port Arthur, volunteers were invited to carry the letters. Two non-commissioned officers and two privates undertook the task. They rode out toward the enemy's lines with the intention of delivering the letters directly into the hands of the Russians, instead of depositing them at some midway point, as had been the custom hitherto. There was, however, great danger that this new method might be fatal to the little party.

But they rode off stoutly to within a thousand meters of the enemy's outpost, waving white handkerchiefs. The Russians did not fire, and the Japanese went steadily on. When they were only about 30 or 40 yards away, a party of Russians lay down in firing positions, but still the sergeants and soldiers rode on, energetically waving their white flags. Presently the Russians motioned them to lay down their arms, thinking they had come to surrender. The Japanese, however, regardless of risk, pushed on to within hand-shaking distance. Then the Russians saw that they carried several bottles of wine and boxes of cigars. On the latter was inscribed in big letters: "Tomorrow will be your Christmas day. We shall not attack if you do not. Drink and smoke to your heart's content and have a good time."

At first the Russians did not wish to accept the presents, but when they read the hearty sentences written on the boxes in their own language, they were much overcome, and there ensued an exchange of the friendliest greetings.

Then the visitors handed in their letters and spoke of the fall of Port Arthur, the news of which was received with profound discouragement. "There is no further object in the war," said the Russian soldiers. Eager questions were asked about Gen. Stoessel, and the men were much interested to hear he shortly would be on his way home. The Japanese then presented the Russians with some pictorial post cards showing how well Russian prisoners were treated in Japan.

Finally the four men rode away in safety with the rousing cheers of the grateful enemy ringing in their ears.

THE BOOTMAKER IN CHINA

Common People Very Rarely Wear This Sort of Footwear—Customs in the North.

Boots are only worn in China by officials, servants, soldiers, sailors, and special hob-nailed boots, occasionally in wet weather, by the common people. The universal form of foot-covering is a shoe, while coolies and the poorest classes have to content themselves with straw or leather sandals, or go barefoot. Women's shoes are made at home and, except in isolated cases in Shanghai, are never exposed for sale in shops. This remark does not apply to the peculiar form of shoe worn by Manchu women, which is perched on a sort of small stilt. In the north, during the winter months, the ordinary boot or shoe is often wadded or lined with sheepskin, and of late years reproductions of Chinese boots and shoes in india rubber have been imported from the United States and Germany, and found favor with Chinese at the treaty ports.

Woman's Progress in Roumania.

The post of official shorthand writer in the Roumanian parliament has for the first time been won by a woman. It was a competitive appointment and the lady applicant beat all her male rivals. Since the new government took up the reins women have made great strides in Roumania in the matter of competing with men. A short time ago the finance minister had no fewer than 15 women employed as secretaries in the central offices. There is a great outcry against the minister's manifest partiality for women clerks in his department.

Market Letter.

Stock yards, Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 27, 1906. Cattle receipts last week were 62,000 head, heaviest of any week this year, but the total for the month will still fall 25,000 head short of last August. The supply consisted mainly of cattle on the western order from Native territory, including a liberal number of stockers and feeders. Prices on fed cattle made a small advance during the week, reaching $6.40 for a few head, a new top record for the season, but grass steers and cows weakened 5 to 15 cents, stockers and feeders 15 to 25 cents lower and rather dull. The country does not seem to be ready to take hold of stockers and feeders yet, although when the price was reduced the movement was pretty lively last week, and 460 car loads went to the country during the week which is the heaviest business this year so far.

Cattle run today is 12,000 head, moderate for the season, and indications favor smaller runs this fall than last. Kansas will not send in as many cattle as usual account of more going on feed before appearing at market, and the panhandle supply is said to be a third short of last year. Market today is strong and active on all kinds, but there are no choice dry lot cattle here, best ones $5.65. Dry lot cattle are quotable up to $6.30, heavy grass steers up to $5.15, corn and grass up to $5.50, medium and light grass steers, including westerns $3.40 to $4.50. Top yearlings and heifers still sell at $5.00 to $5.00, good heifers $3.35 to $4.50, bulls $2.15 to $3.25, veals 24 to 50 cents above a week ago, best light ones $6.50 to $7.00 mixed weights $4.00 to $5.25. Stockers and feeders are moving better today, feeders $3.50 to $4.50 including good westerns at $3.75 to $4.00, stock steers $2.50 to $4.15.

The hog market is up and down but strength is dominate, market strong to 5 higher today on receipts of 6000 head. Run last week was 39,000 head, smallest week this month. Top today was for light weights of course at $6.35, but heavy weights made a small gain today over their relative bad position last week, bulk of sales $6.15 to $6.30, heavy hogs $6.05 to $6.20. In Chicago full loads of 350 pound hogs are selling $1, below prime light weights. Receipts are considerably greater than at this time last year, but the demand is stronger.

Sheep supply is not nearly up to the demand, either in killing kinds or in stuff for the country. The feeling is strong although there is not much net change in price. Receipts were all natives last week after Tuesday, run today 4000 head including some westerns. Native lambs sold at $7.50 today, not the full strength of the market, wethers $5.50, ewes $5.35 breeding ewes $5. to $5.50. Idaho yearlings wethers and ewes weighing 75 pounds went to the country last week at $5.50, range wethers for the country worth around $5.00.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate gland. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rockport, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years although I am now 91 years old." The Wrong Label.

Some newspaper men are terrible liars. In writing up a cyclone out west one of them said it turned a well in side out, a cellar upside down, moved a township line, blew the staves out of a whiskey barrel and left nothing but a bung hole, changed the day of the week, blew the mortgage off a farm, blew all the cracks out of the fence and knocked the wind out of a politician.

Women to Blame.

The women of America are astonished at and ashamed of the disclosures made in high places of dishonesty and graft.

Mothers, wives, daughters and friends feel the disgrace which has fallen upon those they supposed to be souls of honor; and those who are in no way closely connected with the exposed "grafters" still feel the shadow which has fallen upon the body politic.

Yet to a large degree the women of America stand guilty of being an incentive to the crime known today as "graft."

The desire of woman to shine socially, to wear beautiful garments and jewels, to entertain brilliantly and to do and have what other women of their acquaintance do and have, lies at the root of many a man's downfall.

Besides this fact woman's neglect to talk earnestly of absolute honesty and integrity in all dealings with the world to her men folks, whether sons, fathers, brothers or lovers, stands as a crime of omission at her door, and now today, as never before, she should realize how great her influence is, for good or ill, and begin to exert it.

At the root of every man's heart, however selfish he may be, there lies a weak spot.

He likes to believe that he is making some woman happy.

When a man fails to do this, and knows that he has failed, no matter in what other lines he has achieved great things, he feels a certain sense of humiliation and defeat.

However he may hide this fact from those who believe they understand him, however indifferent he may seem to the dissatisfaction of the woman he has failed to make happy; yet down under his exterior of indifference and perhaps selfishness lies a heartache which he endeavors to hide even from himself.

He knows that to make some woman (if not all who are under his roof) happy and contented is man's chief pride. And when he fails in this he knows he has missed his purpose.

It would be far better for the world if men talked this plainly and earnestly to the women of their household.

I have seen a man's face change from peace to pain at the thoughtless words of discontent uttered by a woman; and I have seen him cover the pain with anger and take his hat and leave the room with a disagreeable remark, which caused the woman to believe herself the injured party, and left her utterly unconscious of the effect her words produced.

Far better would it have been for the man to have said quietly: "The desire of my heart is to make you happy and to see you contented. Do not let me believe that I am failing. I am doing the best I can. Try and be happy with the home I provide and give me courage to work on. There is no pleasure in work if it fails to give you happiness."

There are few women who would fail to realize their influence in the lives of mankind if they were talked to in this manner. Once realizing it there are fewer still who would misuse that influence.

I wish every mother and every young woman who hopes to become a wife and mother would read Luther Burbank's article on "Plant and Child Life" in the Century.

This article should be printed in pamphlet form and sent by the government to every woman in America. It should be read from pulpits and discussed at women's clubs and talked to young women in seminaries and colleges.

Mr. Burbank gives scientific proofs of many statements (made many times) in these columns of the power of mothers and teachers to develop in the children under their charge whatever qualities they desire them to possess.

This very subject of "graft" is mentioned by Mr. Burbank and its prevention given.

Of course the influence exerted upon a child is more lasting and more easily bestowed than the same efforts given an adult, but there is no time in a man's life when he is beyond the influence of a loving and tactful woman with whom he associates.

The women who talk and act and live their respect for absolute integrity in a man and do not counteract it by envying the daughters and wives of the greater are doing their part toward keeping the world honest and clean.

It is not the woman lecturer, the woman writer, not the woman preacher who has the great power of moulding public thought. It is the large body of mothers, wives, daughters, sisters and sweethearts in every community. Each one of them is wielding her influence with one or more men daily, and unconsciously helping to make men honest or dishonest.

Every word you say, every comment you make upon the conditions surrounding your own neighborhood has its effect.

Be careful—realize your own responsibilities.—By Ella Wheeler Wilcox in the Houston Chronicle.
