

THE LIBRARY CONTEST

A number of business firms in Falls City, including The Tribune, have arranged for a voting contest to be entered into by Richardson county schools, churches, Sunday schools, societies, lodges, literary associations, or any other regularly organized bodies. The prizes to be an excellent library of 250 volumes, valued at $650.00. The library will be absolutely free of cost to the winners, and it doesn't cost the voters anything to vote. When you make a purchase for cash, or pay a bill, the firm with which you are transacting business will give you a ticket, filled out with the number of votes to which you are entitled. You write in the name of the organization for which you desire to vote, sign the ticket, and deposit it in the ballot box, according to a plan outlined below.

THE LIST OF BOOKS

- The following publications constitute the library:
- 30 vol. consolidated Ency. Library, 1 morocco.
- 10 volumes World's best orations, 4 mo.
- 10 volumes World's best orations, 8 cloth.
- 10 volumes Dickens works, cloth.
- 8 volumes Irvins works, cloth.
- 8 volumes Elliot's works, cloth.
- 7 volumes Hugo's works, cloth.
- 4 volumes Shakespeare's works, cloth.
- 4 volumes Great Republic, 4 morocco.
- 10 volumes Classic Fiction, 4 leather.
- 12 volumes Classic Fiction, cloth.
- 10 volumes Historic Novels, cloth.
- 10 volumes Famous Novels, cloth.
- 1 volume Japan Novels, cloth.
- 1 volume Prescott's Historic, cloth.
- 15 volumes Home Library, cloth.
- 107 volumes Copyright Fiction
- 250, Total Volumes.

This beautiful library will be awarded at the close of the contest, to the institution receiving the largest number of votes.

The Tribune will, besides receiving the votes out from the paper, issue one vote for every 10 cents paid on subscription at its office, either for arrears or for new subscription, or for job work or advertising.

The rules of the contest provide that each merchant shall carefully make a record of his votes on Tuesday night of each week, sending a duplicate of same over his signature to Tribune office before noon Wednesday, the merchant retaining his tickets with record, carefully filling them away to be delivered to committee on awards, appointed at the close of the contest.

"For over thirty years," writes a gentleman in Los Angeles, "I have used Arbuckle's Coffee. Many times my family has tried other coffee only to come back to our old reliable, unchangeable Arbuckle's." No other coffee has this uniform never fading aroma, I care not at what price. I have often wished I could sell you this." Many other people have the same opinion. Arbuckle's was the first roasted packaged coffee, and its sales exceed all the others put together. That it costs you less is due simply to our coffee business being so much greater than any competitors, in fact, it is larger than the next four largest firms in the world combined. We naturally can and actually do give better coffee in ARIOSIA than anyone else can give for the price; Being the standard article it is sold at the narrowest margin of profit.

Some grocers will try to sell you instead loose coffee which the roaster is ashamed to sell in a package bearing his name.

Don't take it, neither the looks nor the price indicate its cup quality. No matter where you buy Arbuckle's ARIOSIA, or what you pay for it, it's the same old uniform Arbuckle's ARIOSIA Coffee.

If your grocer will not supply, write to ARBUCKLE BROS., New York City.

Just Dad.

We happened in a home the other night, and over the door saw the legend worked in letters of red, "What is home without a mother?" Across the room was another brief "God Bless our home."

Now what's the matter with "God bless Dad?" He gets up early, lights the fires, boils an egg and wipes off the dew of the lawn with his boots while many a mother is sleeping. He makes the weekly hand-out for the butcher, the milkman, the baker, and his little pile is badly worn before he has been home an hour.

If there is a noise during the night dad is kicked in the back and made to go down stairs and find the burglar and kill him. Mother darns the socks, but dad bought the socks in the first place, and the needles and the yarn afterwards. Mother does up the fruit; well, dad bought it all and jars and sugar cost like the mischief.

Dad buys the chicken for the Sunday dinner, carves it himself, and draws the neck from the runs after every one is served. "What is home without a mother?" Yes that is all right; but "what is home without a father?"

Ten chances to one it's a boarding house—father is under a slab and the land-lady is the widow. Dad here's to you—you've got your faults—you may have many of 'em but you're all right, and we will miss you when you are gone.—Ex.

This Is Truth.

Ewing Herbert attacks the matrimonial proposition that two can live cheaper than one. He can maintain his attack, for the proposition in the abstract is a fool one. Two people cannot live cheaper than one, but this is a fact, and Mr. Herbert cannot dispute it. The average married man accumulates more of this world's goods, in a given period, than does the average single man. The average married man's money goes for necessities, and for things of permanent value. The average single man's money is "blown in," until he falls in love, when he begins to save.—Mrs. Frank Jarrell in Holton Signal.

To Avoid Wrecks.

A gentleman who has traveled much by rail and who has become very nervous over the numerous railroad wrecks and fatalities of late, declares that the danger of these wrecks might be easily lessened. He thinks the engineer has enough to do to guide his train and look after his engine, and should not be worried with orders about side-tracking, right of way, etc., and suggests that each train should carry a pilot, whose sole duty should be to keep constant lookout and take charge of all moving orders. He says that steamboats that carry as a rule, fewer passengers than trains, are generally compelled by law to have two of these licensed pilots.

He says further that greater care should be exercised in the selection of telegraph operators; that too often cheap and worthless persons are employed at $50 a month to direct the running of trains. He thinks also that all trains should carry a search light as a means of averting accidents resulting from running around curves and hills. The engine's headlight throws a straight light down the track, and this answers a good purpose, but the searchlight, throwing a light into the sky, could be seen at a distance and could be more effective.—Star.

The Dairy.

All who have operated a hand separator have noticed that there is often a wide variation in the test of the cream, even though the screw has been unchanged. We know of many cases where this was true, and the dairymen was often at a loss to account for it, though where the butter fat was shipped or sold to a local creamery the creamery man who did the testing usually came in for the major part of the blame. Many times he was charged with dishonesty or incompetency. But the variation may often be due to no fault of the tester. The variations in the test is sometimes caused by turning the separator at a higher or lower speed than was customary, by running through milk which was not of the customary temperature, or by a variation in the amount of milk that was run through a bowl in a given length of time. All these variations may occur even though the cream screw is left in its usual position. The separator should be very solidly anchored and should be exactly plumb and failure to make it so is very often the cause for disappointment. Then the milk should be separated so soon as it comes from the cow as at this time the temperature is best for ready separation of the butter fat from the skim milk. It is never advisable to allow milk to stand for any considerable length of time before separating.

Another factor which influences the uniformity of the test is the speed at which the machine is run. The same person should turn the separator each time, as he will then soon get accustomed to turning at the same speed each time. Different makes of separators require to be run at different speeds and the instructions which go with a machine should be carefully followed.

The temperature at which the milk is separated influences the test to quite an extent. As a rule, milk separated at a high temperature will show a higher test of butter fat than will be the case with milk separated at a lower temperature, hence the importance of separating while the milk is fresh from the cow and warm.—Nebraska Farmer.

Objectionable Post Cards.

Postmaster Sizer has issued the following statement relating to post cards: "Attention is called to the following order in the January, 1907, postal guide: 'In view of the large number of objectionable post cards recently deposited in the mails the attention of postmasters is especially directed to that provision of section 573 of the postal laws and regulations, reading as follows: All matter which is manifestly obscene, lewd or lascivious will, when deposited in a postoffice, be withdrawn from the mails and sent to the dead letter office. Under this rule every post card bearing a picture or language that is obscene, indecent or improperly suggestive, should be immediately withdrawn from the mails, and forwarded without delay to the fourth assistant postmaster general, division of dead letters.' There is no use to mail any such cards as it is a waste of time and money, as they will not reach the addressee, but will be withdrawn from the mails, and sent to the morgue."—Lincoln Journal.

Logan, the four-year-old son of Mrs. Ben Atwood, of Stella, shot her in the thigh with a target rifle last Saturday. The bullet penetrated the fleshy part of the inner side of the thigh, traveling through the flesh for four inches and then coming out. Mrs. Atwood and children were visiting at the home of her father, O. R. Trimmer, when the accident happened. The wound is not a serious one.

THE FALLS CITY TRIBUNE

We wondered the other night while listening to "Handels Largo" as played by a cello with orchestra accompaniment on one of our Victors, why some people would invest $250.00 in a piano they can't play, seldom see or hear, when $30.00 will buy a Victor or Edison machine, one that all can hear and appreciate because everyone on earth is more or less a musician, but only a very few are able to produce it.

Your home can be bright and merry these winter evenings. You can get the character of music that suits you best, sacred or secular.

We have fine chairs and an exclusive place to let you hear the new January records, both Edison and Victor. All are invited to call on us. Our operator is very obliging. Machines sold on easy terms.
