TOYS THAT REFLECT HISTORY.

Children's Playthings Show the Spirit of the Age.

A little of every age of civilization is in its toys. The future historian will have no difficulty in reconstructing our age if he finds merely a few toys in dusty garrets or museums.

Do you know what the little children in the early days of the persecuted Christians played with? I have always thought it at once pathetic and horrible; they played with little toy instruments of martyrdom.

So to-day childhood plays with the things of science. What went overseas this year from Paris and Nuremberg were toys of wireless telegraphy, electrostatic machines, electric tramways, automobiles driven by alcohol or electricity, electric torpedo boats that plunge and come to the surface again, cinematographs, for the magic lantern is declassified, and chromatopes, that present colored and moving pictures; these scientific fancies of the moment and a dozen others.

I looked at them one and all, and amazement grew upon me. What kind of a little boy is he who plays with these somber and intricate toys?

And then I remembered that even the little twentieth century boy is one of the wise people; in his untiring wisdom he knows that toys—even rubikorf coils and geissler luminous tubes and voltmeters—are best when broken, and I foresaw for him splendid moments, inquiring, destructive.—Everybody's.

CLIMAX CHICK FEED

The best feed on earth for baby Chicks.

If you never have used this feed, you should try it. I guarantee it and if you are not satisfied that it is the best feed you ever used, you can come back and get your money. You do not lose your chicks with bowel trouble, but you will see a big difference in them over the old way of feeding them. Try this feed at my expense and you will never use anything else. I have an agent in each of the surrounding towns where you can get this feed.

Season of 1907

Fritz Will make the coming season, beginning April 1st, as follows:
From Saturday evening until Monday evening at my farm three miles south of Barada, the balance of the time at my barn in Barada. Fritz is a coach horse and is so well known here that he needs no description.

Nick Will make the season at the same place on the same dates as Fritz. Nick is a five-year-old coal black Mammoth Jack, with white points, very well proportioned and has proven to be an excellent breeder and sure foal getter. You will make no mistake in breeding to Nick if you are looking for a rangy, well built mule.

Tom Will make the season at the same place and on the same date as above described. Tom is a Black Percheron Horse five years old, weighing 1700 pounds and is well proportioned, with plenty of bone. Come and see these animals before breeding elsewhere.

TERMS: $10.00 to insure a colt to stand and suck. When horses are sold, traded or leave the vicinity, service money becomes due and payable. Care will be taken to prevent accidents but will not be responsible should any occur.

Death of Mrs. Warren O. Gandy.

The Humboldt correspondent to the State Journal of Tuesday gives the following account of the death of Mrs. Warren O. Gandy:

Relatives in this city received word of the death of Mrs. Warren O. Gandy, who was recently reported so seriously ill at her home near Peacock, Sask., Canada, that her daughter, Miss Nellie Gandy, was compelled to give up her school here and start for her bedside. Although the latter was delayed en route by snow blockades she managed to reach home several days before her mother died. Mrs. Gandy was a native of West Virginia, aged about fifty years, and came with her husband and children to this place about eleven years ago. They resided on a farm near here until two years ago, when they joined the Humboldt colony of Canada homeseekers, but ever since their removal to that point Mrs. Gandy's health has been failing steadily. The end came on March 18, and interment was made near their home. She leaves a husband Warren O. Gandy, who is a cousin to Dr. J. L. Gandy, of this city, and five children, three daughters and two sons, all of whom were with her at the end.

IDEAL PLACE FOR CHICKENS.

The mania of city people to keep chickens as soon as they move to a suburban section, even if the neighborhood is well built up, is aptly illustrated in a block of new houses in Mount Airy.

With great ideas of the character of people he was going to sell his houses to, the builder provided deep back yards with a wide alley in the rear. His avowed object was to enable the purchasers to erect automobile houses in the yards and to run the machines in by the alleys.

The houses are now all occupied, and, while not a single automobile shed appears, nearly half the yards contain chicken houses and the barnyard feature is the most conspicuous in the new section.—Philadelphia Record.

IT HAS GROWN.

"Have you ever heard Jimkins relate about the time he got halfway up Mt. Blanc with one of his little nephews and no guide?" asked one man of another.

"How long ago did he tell you about it?" was the evasive reply.

"Last March, when he just got home," said the first man.

"Well," said the other, "in the eight months since then he has climbed the rest of the way, succeeded a fainting guide and sustained a snowstorm on the summit, resuscitated two benumbed strangers on the way down, and guided the entire party to the foot, where a group of frantic relatives were waiting."—Stray Stories.

A SUGGESTION.

"Here, you!" angrily shouted the beginner at golf, "quit laughing at my game. If I hear any more impudence from you I'll crack you over the head."

"All right, sir," replied the caddy; "your cleek is de best stick to use fur dat."

BOTH PERISHABLE.

"Smoothers is exceedingly careful never never to let a woman get any strings on him."

"That's right. Not one can point to a thing he has ever given her; he never sends anything but candy or flowers."

THAT BRASS IDOL INDUSTRY.

Birmingham Finds Their Manufacture Is No Longer Lucrative.

The interesting details of the slump in brass idols at Birmingham make it plain that here once more the British manufacturer has gone down before the conquering American, says the London Daily News. The manufacturers say that there used to be a trade in idols, but that competition has "killed the industry in Birmingham." "We make brass images," said one of the idol-founders of the city, "and really they are so beautiful that I don't wonder the heathen falls down and worships them."

A curio dealer who stocks idols said that idols are still made in Birmingham. There was a certain demand for them, but it was a small one. They were made for curio dealers and were sold by them, not to the heathen, but to Christians interested in missionary work, who liked to have on their mantel pieces a "real" heathen idol. Years ago brass images were freely made for foreign agents, and, Bishop Thornton notwithstanding, I fear they would be made to-day if an order came for a supply of them.

HAS NO ROOM FOR MONEY.

President Stillman of the National City bank of New York was born in Texas, but is a clean cut Yankee from Connecticut. As president of the National City bank he is almost as powerful as the Rothschilds are in Europe.

Said one of his intimates recently: "There are no fireworks about Jim—just plain ordinary get there. And he carries the queerest lot of truck in his pockets. One day some of us made him turn out his collection.

"He had a couple of penknives, a buckeye, a shoe buttoner, a rabbit foot, two or three rubber bands, a silver pencil, a bunch of keys, a cigar puncher, a gold watch, a leather washer, a corkscrew, a seal, a memorandum book, an elevated railroad ticket, some theater passes, three safety pins, a box of matches, and a newspaper clipping."

"You haven't mentioned money."

"Money? Why, the man didn't have a cent."

GREAT SCIENTIST SAVED.

Here is a curious little story about Sir James Simson, the man who introduced the use of chloroform into surgery, and a peril which he escaped, as recorded by Lyon Playfair Simpson, when busy with his researches into the subject of anaesthetics, called one day on Playfair and asked if he had anything new likely to produce anaesthesia. Playfair had just prepared a liquid which seemed worthy of trial. Simson, who knew no fear, prepared instantly to test it on himself. This Playfair refused to allow until it had first been tried on rabbits. Two were procured and placed under the effects of the anaesthetic. Next day Simson proposed to try it on himself. "We might as well see how the rabbits have fared," said Playfair. They found both the animals dead.

OF GREEK ORIGIN.

The couch was probably introduced into Greece by the Assyrians, for it appears in the Parthenon frieze in the British museum, and the vase room there and in the Louvre give frequent illustrations of ancient Greek couches, which were made of bronze instead of wood, and also of the stuffs used in upholstering them. The Greeks in their turn taught the Romans the use of the couch, for Greek artists and workmen were employed in Rome. During meals men reclined on couches each made to hold three persons; a low rail protected the back, and three of these seats surrounded the table at an entertainment, leaving the fourth side open for service. Couches were also carried and used as litters.

SOME SATISFACTION.

The excursion train was on its return trip, filled with tired and sleepy passengers. It had come to a stop, but to those who looked out of the windows no station or other buildings were in sight. Fully ten minutes it stood, and the passengers were wondering where they were or what the trouble might be.

Just then a young man appeared at the front door of the coach. "Crackerjack!" he yelled.

"Well," said a passenger up front, "it's some satisfaction to know where we're at, anyway."

A DILEMMA.

"I wonder how it feels to have so much money you don't know what to do with it."

"I was that way once."

"Come off!"

"Sure I was. I only had so much and my creditors were demanding as much again."

HIS REAL OBJECTION.

Waitress—You needn't make such a fuss about a fly in your tea.

Customer—But there are two, I object to mixed bathing in my cup.—Tit-Bits.
