

Second Table.

Some boys are mad when comp'ny comes to stay for meals. They hate to have the other people eat, while boys must wait and wait: But I've about made up my mind I'm different from the rest, For, as for me, I believe I like the second table best.

To eat along with comp'ny is so trying, for its tough To sit and watch the victuals when you darsent touch the stuff: You see father serving out the dark meat and the light, Until a boy is sure he'll starve before he gets a bite.

And when he asks you what you'll have —you've heard it all before— You know you'll get just what you get, and won't get nothing more: For, when you want another piece, your mother winks her eye, And so you say: "I've plenty, please!" and tell a whooping lie.

When comp'ny is a-watching you, you've got to be polite, And eat your victuals with a fork, and take a little bite: You can't have nothing till you're asked, and 'cause a boy is small Folk's think he isn't hungry, and he's never asked at all.

Since I can first remember I've been told that when the cake Is passed around, the proper thing is for a boy to take The piece that's nearest to him, and so all I ever got, When comp'ny's been to our house, was the smallest in the lot.

It worries boys like everything to have the comp'ny stay A-setting round the table, like they couldn't get away: But when they've gone and left the whole big shooting-match to me, Say, ain't it fun to just wade in and help myself? Oh, gee!

With no one round to notice what you're doing—bet your life!— Boys don't use forks to eat with when they'd rather use a knife; Nor take such little bites as when they're eating with the rest: And so, for lots of things, I like the second table best.

MOVE THE BOWELS AND WORK OFF A COLD WITH THE ORIGINAL BEGG'S LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP. BEST FOR A COUGH

We Have Them Too.

It is said of a wealthy citizen of one of Nebraska's inland villages that he moved to a great city because he wasn't appreciated. It isn't recorded that this man ever did anything for the community where he lived. He never helped a brother in distress. He gave nothing to the widows and the fatherless. To be sure he has done nothing that would justify a conviction and penitentiary sentence for highway robbery, but he has sat there and absorbed like a sponge for more than a quarter of a century until he has more than would satisfy the needs of a modest man for a hundred years. And now he wants people to "appreciate" him; not for what he is, but what he has; not for the benefit he has been to the community, but for the benefits the community has bestowed upon him. A just and upright man need never worry for the lack of recognition. If he is a lover of his kind; if he obeys the generous impulses of his heart and helps to lend cheer and comfort to the world about him, he will at least have the approval of his own conscience, and may feel reasonable certain that after he is dead his worst enemies will reluctantly admit that he was a "bully boy with a glass eye."

Still on the Map.

Our former citizen, Joseph Geiger, has not forgotten the old time friends in Falls City and his longing to once more drink from the Nemaha is shown from the following:

Canton, O., July 2, 1907.

The Falls City Tribune, Falls City, Neb.

Dear Editor:—This letter contains no dollar on subscription, although it is from a far off subscriber.

Once a week the Tribune calls at my shop and then I have the pleasure of reading of old friends and of late events that are taking place in your city. You may rest assured that my goggle eyes find every article, "yes, even the ads are news to me." I take notice the street commissioner has ordered property owners to mow their weeds, with three days time to do it in. This reminds me of the time the butter weeds grew up in the street, in front of my shop, six feet in height in a single night they were draped in black as though mourning for their lost fellow victims. If they would grow wheat in Falls City where they do weeds the place would surely be a Garden of Eden.

I find Canton a very desirable location, have built up an excellent trade in the Violin business, alone, which suits me much better than gunsmithing.

I often wish I was back in Falls City long enough to have a good talk with my old friends and patrons.

Wishing you all a prosperous future, I remain,

Very respectfully, JOS. GEIGER, 307 S. Market St.

First American Stenographer.

Rev. Oliver Dyer, the first person to master stenography in the United States, an associate editor with Robert Bonner in publishing the New York Ledger, and intimate of many prominent statesmen, and a well known author, has just died in Boston at the age of 72. He learned stenography in England personally from Isaac Pitman, and was the first stenographer in the United States senate. His protegee, Murphy, formerly his office boy, became the fastest stenographer in the world.—Publishers Aux.

A Gasoline Explosion.

Just about the dinner hour, while the immense crowd in town was enjoying itself to the utmost, Thursday B. Mellott's home in the south part of town was utterly destroyed by fire.

Mrs. Mellott and her daughter, Elsie, had left the grounds and gone home to prepare dinner for the rest of the family. They had used the gasoline stove that morning and everything was alright. One of the ladies started the generator of the gasoline stove and then applied the torch to light it. A blaze leaped up and burned fiercely for a moment and then the gasoline reservoir exploded throwing the burning liquid all over the kitchen. In a moment the drench woodwork was a mass of bluish flames which suddenly turned livid bright. Elsie Mellott's dress caught fire several times but she put it out with her hands.

The alarm was given by Mrs. J. M. Burress, and the first to get to the scene was T. C. Handley, of Nebraska City, who was a guest of the Burress home. Hoxie Howe, J. M. Burress and James Taylor arrived on his heels. They at once set to work to remove articles of furniture from the blazing structure. A few articles including a heavy piano were saved, but the fire made such rapid headway that almost everything was a total loss. A heavy wind was blowing at the time and carried burning shingles and ember for blocks.

The house was burned to the ground in a short time. The residence and contents were partially insured. It is estimated that the loss will reach $3,500. Mr. Mellott had just completed some substantial and costly improvements on the place, making it one of the most attractive cottages in the city.—Auburn Republican.

I will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my book on either Dyspepsia, the Heart or the Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart and Kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean stomach weakness, always. And the heart, and kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for sample and free book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by all dealers.

Finding Joy in Failure.

To be able to extract the flower of happiness from the weed of failure which grows in the garden of every heart is most desirable. For happiness is the chief end of human life—not pleasure, but happiness. And if the millions of the world were shut out of any hope of happiness, any jot of joy, this globe would be shodowed in Egyptian darkness rather than be full of sunshine. But they are not so shut out. No life is so full of failure that it may not be a joyful one. This is not a mere preaching. This is a fact demonstrable, an experience attainable.

If failure is a common lot, humanity need not associate failure with misery. If success is to the average man beyond his reach he need not regard success and happiness as synonymous. Neither statement is true, however much the clamor of the self-seeking world may preach it. There was an ancient prophet who cried, borne from a battle sorely wounded, "Rejoice! again I say, Rejoice!" Thus may the failures of life, at wounds resulting from struggle for humanity's upliftment, become successes. The joy comes not always or merely to the camp of the conqueror, but to the fleeing, failure, vanquished, conscious of his loss of all but honor.

An Arabic Prover.—Men are four:—He who knows not, and knows not he knows not. He is a fool; shun him. He who knows not, and knows he knows not. He is simple; teach him. He who knows, and knows not he knows. He is asleep; wake him. He who knows, and knows that he knows. He is wise; follow him.

Both Good.

A well-known physician points out the beneficial effects sure to result from walking to work. But no doubt the majority will continue to look forward to the pleasure of walking the other way.—Washington Post.

A Texas newspaper says that there is no end of fun in minding your own business, and it makes people like you better. It is better to have others stuck on you than to be stuck on yourself. Don't knock; don't get stubborn; don't roast—just jolly. Everybody likes to be jollied. Be a good fellow—it's dead easy. Help yourself along; push your friends with you. No man ever helped himself by knocking other people. You can't climb the ladder to fame by stepping on people's corns—and they are their corns not yours—and they are tender. Help everybody; get hold with both hands where there is a chance to help your town. Bury your hatchet; drop your tomahawk; hide your little hammer. Be a booster.
