

The Haywood Trial.

The most amazing story of murder and general villainy that has appeared in print for many a year is that of the alleged confession of Orchard at the trial of Moyer and Haywood in Boise, Idaho. According to Orchard's story the Western Federation of Miners, under the inspiration of Haywood, maintained a veritable murder bureau. Orchard and his confederates were hired to blow up men and mines and machinery for very reasonable sums. The average mind on reading this confession is turned into confusion. On the one side, such villainy is incredible; on the otherside Orchard's statements at the time of writing have not been shaken by cross-examination. We have known that Colorado has been the victim of disturbed conditions for the last few years, but we should receive with something like apprehension the establishment of the truthfulness of Orchard's statement. For what should be thought of a great movement that would countenance, much less originate, villainies like these Orchard retails?

Baseball Delirium.

The nation is baseball mad. Both the professional and the amateur game is being played to-day as never before. That pre-eminence of baseball which men affected to think a few years since was threatened by tennis, football, if not by golf, has been more than re-established. Even college baseball seems to be assuming something like its old-time position. This is as it should be. Taken all in all there is no game quite like baseball. Either as a sur-reptitious excitement on the back lot or as machine like business of the metropolitan champions the game is brimful of skill and science and energy. The two great professional leagues have started out where they closed playing, with the Chicago teams in the lead, the position of last year's national champion being possibly the more secure. The only cloud in the sky seems to be the tendency for some of the players to lapse into Hooliganism, but even this seems likely to be checked by the attitude of the lords of the baseball world.

She "Advertised" and Received All The Credit.

Here is a fable that is well worth perusing:

There was once a duck, which faithfully stuck to business all summer and laid many dozens of large tawn colored eggs. She finally became convinced that her work was not appreciated. "She hasn't laid as many eggs as I have, nor as big, but she has books written about her and verses composed in her honor, while nobody says a word about poor me."

"Now listen," said a wise rooster, "the trouble with you is that you don't tell the public what you have done. You lay an egg and waddle off without saying a word, but that wife of mine never lays one without letting the neighbors know about it. If you want to cut any ice in this community you must learn to advertise."

Wheat 51 Bushel per Acre.

Fred Sholl living one mile north of town has a remarkable yield of wheat this year. One field of 30 acres averaged 51 bushel per acre. Now that's not so bad for old Richardson is it? Mr. Sholl is justly proud of his wheat crop this year.

SIGMUND SPAETH.

Alleged Forger Brought Back.

From Tecumseh:—Simeon Hudson, alleged forger, who was brought to Tecumseh from Kinsley, Kan., Tuesday, has been in a very talkative mood since his return. He tells of his escape from the timber south of the city when a gang of armed men from Tecumseh and one from Pawnee City were looking for him. Hudson declares he saw the men find his pony and saddle and that he was within sixty or seventy feet of a party of them at one time. He left the timber and secreted himself in the tall weeds which bordered the same. When the men had gone by he took to the road and walked to Pawnee City and boarded a train for Kansas. Hudson was sharp enough to take precautions from blood hounds, which he expected would be put on his trail and which were. He says he waded the length of a little stream which flows through the woods there to ruin the scent for the dogs.

It is said the accused man admitted to the officers while enroute to this city that he forged and cashed the checks here and that he shot Sheriff H. U. Minor.

His preliminary examination on the charge of forgery will be held in the county court tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. The complainant will be Cashier C. J. Canon of the Citizens' National Bank of Tecumseh from which institution he secured $22.

A Good Place for Reform.

The Auburn Granger invites a friendly discussion of the subject of funerals and how they should be conducted. This is equivalent to the admission that a reformation in the present manner of burying the dead is necessary and in this Brother Dundas, as usual, is on the right track. If we were asked what reformation were most urgently demanded in the conduct of funerals we should unhesitatingly recommend cutting out the mawkish custom of congregation filing past the bier and gazing with vacant stare on a mass of cold, tenantless clay that may have been denied a cheerful look or a kind word that would help to win the battle of life. When the wayside reporter passes from the stage of usefulness he requests that after the farewell look of immediate friends the casket be sealed and not made a peep show to gratify a maudlin sentiment.—Dawson Newsboy.

FREAK STATUARY IS ORDER.

Sculptor Tells of Queer Orders Given Him by His Patrons.

A sculptor was talking about freak statuary. "I turn out a lot of it," he said. "Not that I like to. I have to. So many of our millionaires have uncouth tastes. I made last fall portrait busts of a western millionaire and his wife. The wife wears spectacles, and nothing would do but I must put spectacles on her bust. I argued, but in vain. That bust stands in the millionaire's spacious library to-day and spectacles rest on its nose. I did last month a bust in colors, a bust of a young girl. The marble hair I gilded, the marble eyes I painted blue, and the marble lips and cheeks I flecked with red. A hideous thing, yet the family was immensely pleased. The freakiest of my freak statues stands in a Boston garden. It is the statue of the owner's grandfather, an old Presbyterian divine. The aged man stands in the center of a bed of Jonquils, and out of the top of his plug hat a jet of water spurts, falling into a marble basin that he holds in his hands, a basin wherein swim half a dozen goldfish. The idea of treating one's grandfather like that!"

Christening Rehearsal Struck Clergyman as New Idea.

"These college girls," said a clergyman, as he gazed at the white and superb ranks of beautiful graduates, "are a boon to the race. They introduce new ideas. I christened the other day the first baby of a married college girl. Now, babies usually cry while they are being christened, but this one was as quiet as a lamb. Throughout the ceremony it smiled up beautifully into my face. 'Well, madam,' said I to the young wife at the christening's end, 'I must congratulate you on your little one's behavior. I have christened more than 2,000 babies, but I never before christened one that behaved so well as yours.' The young mother smiled demurely. 'No wonder he behaved well,' she said. 'His father and I, with a pall of water, have been practicing christening on him for the last ten days.' The idea of rehearsing a baby for a christening! Who but a college girl would think of such a thing?"

Irreverent Yankee.

Adam Engel, a few days before he closed his historic chop house in Herald square, lunched with a Denver correspondent. "The loss of this chop house will be a great loss to New York," said the correspondent. "It will be like," he went on eloquently, "the obliteration of some historic light." "I hope," said the modest Engel, "that it won't be so bad as that. Speaking of lights, by the way, I hope that my chop house's departure won't inflict any such loss as a certain Yankee, by an uncontrollable impulse, once inflicted on a Buddhist temple in Japan. They say, you know, that a priest, showing this Yankee over an ancient shrine, led the man reverently to a small silver lamp. 'This lamp, sir,' he said, 'has not been extinguished for seven centuries.' The Yankee puffed out his cheeks and blew. 'Well,' he said, 'I guess she's out now, anyway.'"

Provocation Enough.

A deaf old gentleman dined with a family where grace was always said. When the guests were seated the host bowed his head and began to repeat the accustomed verse in a subdued, reverent tone. "Eh? What's that?" demanded the deaf old gentleman, who sat beside him. The host smiled patiently and began again, in a louder, more deprecatory voice. "Speak a little louder. I don't catch what you say," the old gentleman persisted. A low ripple of laughter went round the table. The host, his face crimson with embarrassment, raised his voice and repeated the verse. The deaf gentleman did his best to hear, but failed. He placed one hand upon his host's arm. "What did you say?" he demanded frantically. The host cast him an angry glance. "D—n it, I'm saying grace," he snapped.—Lippincott's Magazine.

"Beauty Doctors" Copy Old Rome.

Juvenal, the Roman satirist, writes indignantly of the absurd waste of time given to the care of the complexion, of the lotions and jellies and powders for the preservation of the skin. "But anything overlaid with so many oft-changed cosmetics, and a poultice with flour, both baked and boiled, shall we call it a face or a sore? This thing, swollen and ridiculous, the unfortunate husband has to contemplate—only for her lovers does she wash her skin clean." The modern beauty doctors, writes Mrs. H. W. Nevins in the Fortnightly Review, have plagiarized their methods from ancient Rome—the massage, the stroking, the oiling—and would be willing to admit that some of the most valuable secrets, including the "Roman mask," which eradicated wrinkles, are lost to them.

Easily Adjusted.

Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission, told in New York the other day a French railway story. "A traffic manager," he said, "came to the president of the line and exclaimed disconsolately: 'We are having no end of trouble with the public, sir, about those old dark blue cars. Everybody says they bump so frightfully in comparison with the new light blue ones, which, of course, run very smooth.' 'Humph,' said the president; 'we must attend to this matter at once. Have all the old cars painted light blue immediately.'"

Courtesy at Home.

We are all creatures of habit, men and women alike, and the habit and surroundings of daily life have a powerful influence on the character of both. The root of all bad manners is selfishness; when self ever comes first, and foremost, consideration for others always lags much in the rear, and drops so far behind in time that it disappears altogether. "One cannot keep up the ceremony and etiquette of society when at home." True, for between friends these can be laid aside. They merely are the rivets that keep society together, but not courtesy and consideration. The latter ought to be so much the habit with each of us that it will become our second nature, and therefore can be no more laid aside than can an arm or a leg.

I will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my book on either Dyspepsia, the Heart or the Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart and Kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the common error of treating symptoms only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean stomach weakness, always. And the heart, and kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Also for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for sample and free book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by all dealers.

Pointers.

Remember that scissors and the cuticle of the finger nails are deadly enemies. Scissors should never be used unless absolutely necessary.

Remember to shape the nails after every particle of superfluous skin has been removed from them.

Remember that the nicest shape for the nails is oval or slightly pointed and the almond shaped nail is indicative of good birth.

Remember after filing the nails to the proper shape to use a tiny emery board to smooth the edges.
