How many tickets have you agreed to take for the next chautauqua? Loosen up, don't be a tightwad.

Paint out the bill board advertising at the park. Let's have something that isn't disfigured by the everlasting commercial.

After the city buys the park why not put it in the hands of a competent landscape gardener in order that we may get started right?

The republicans will have to hustle or there won't be enough candidates to go around. This is a republican county and there should be at least one candidate for every office before the republican primary.

Rumor has it that Johnny Martin recently made a trip to Wyoming seeking a candidate for Judge who would promise to appoint him court reporter. We have learned that Johnny failed. It might be well for the young man to apply to the democratic candidates, the source from which he was last appointed.

Bill McCray has filed as a candidate for supervisor on the democratic ticket. Considering Bill's past conduct it is not all at strange that most of those who sign his petition are republicans. Bill has been owned by one of the republican wings ever since he was elected and it was at the instance of this element of the republican party that he has again become a candidate.

Will Rose was a candidate for Clerk of the supreme court. Now Will is a good fellow but he takes himself too seriously. Judge Sedgwick recommended Harry Lindsay of Pawnee who has done more for the party in the state than any other one man. Will was mad and is still mad. He started out to beat Sedgwick and asks the party of the state to ignore the splendid service of the Judge during his first term in order that he may get even. Not this year William.

How lonesome the man must be who started out to spite the chautauqua by staying away. In the language of Mr. Gerhart he has an ingrowing grudge against himself. It is fortunate that Falls City has but one of his kind.

The great tide that has set in for Judge Sedgwick and fair play has practically eliminated all other candidates. The splendid service the Judge has given the people of the state during his first term has created a universal desire for him to continue in his present position. The republican party of the state will not lend itself to a disappointed office seeker to the people and be unfair to a deserving man.

Some comment has been created by the statement recently made in this paper that we were contemplating increasing our subscription price to $1.50 per year. When a man is running a business institution it is well to ascertain just where the leaks are and what may be done to put the business on a paying business. By careful investigation we have learned that one cannot print a paper such as the Tribune for a dollar a year and pay expenses. There are but five papers in the state that are now charging but a dollar a year and not one of these prints the home matter that we do. The Brown County World has increased its price to $2.00 per year and it is worth every cent of it. We pay 100 per cent more for our supplies than we did when the paper started. We pay fifty per cent more for labor. Our paper bill has doubled in the last year. In fact everything we buy has increased in price so much that a dollar a year does not pay the actual expenses of getting out the paper. You may expect that about January 1st we will be compelled to increase the price of the paper to a living sum. If you are not in favor of the live and let live policy we expect you to stop your paper. On the other hand if you believe the laborer is worthy of his hire we hope to have you continue on our books.

The K. & L. of S., No. 1312, of this city are very proud of the growth of their order. They have secured enough members in the last quarter to entitle them to another cash prize of $25.00. They are also the banner lodge and the recent enrollment makes this lodge one of the big ten lodges in the state.

TONS OF SOOT.

A scientific investigator in Cincinnati has been trying to arrive at a definite idea of the amount of soot deposited in the city in the course of a year. One of his tests was to place two buckets, three-fourths filled with water on 11 roofs in different parts of the city. At the end of three months a careful analysis of the contents of the buckets to ascertain the amount of carbonaceous matter was made. The result is that in the down town area the falling soot amounts to 541 tons a month, or 18 tons daily. On a square mile of the city the soot deposit is 171 tons a month, or 343,728 pounds, an average of several pounds to each inhabitant. In one of the suburbs the soot in the bucket was 464 grams to the square foot for a period of 30 days. For the same time the deposit at a central point in the city was 22,550 grams to the square foot.

RELIC OF OLD ROME.

Near the Lucrine lake, to the north of Baiae, Italy, where the villas of Romans of imperial times crowded each other to the water's edge, and where, in consequence, to this day the ground is full of archaeological treasures, a very fine mosaic has just been discovered. In form it is a parallelogram, measuring about five and a half yards by nearly ten yards. The piece represents a hunting scene in which there are many wild beasts and several hunters, the favorite subject for large mosaics in those days. It has been bought for $1,500 by the ministry of public works for the decoration of the great monument of Victor Emmanuel in Rome, which is slowly taking form, and will eventually dominate all old Rome.

NO JOBS FOR PLAIN.

St. Petersburg Postoffice Service Attractive, But Not Efficient.

The Slovo of St. Petersburg recently asked its readers: "Have you ever noticed that the lady assistants in the general post office at St. Petersburg are almost without exception good looking?" Most people might consider this a mere coincidence, but that this is not the case is shown by Miss Petrova, who writes to the newspaper to tell how two friends of hers recently applied for clerkships in the general post office. After a time, the application papers were returned with a formal note to the effect that at present there were no vacancies. The returned documents, however, revealed marginal notes which had been imperfectly obliterated with rubber. One read: "She looks to be over 30, is small, plain and flabby." On the other paper in microscopical characters were the words: "Old maid, tall, bony." The Slovo asks what might have been the marginal notes on the papers of successful candidates and who are responsible for them. It adds that the selection of youth and beauty for this branch of the public service has by no means improved the unsatisfactory condition of the general post office.

KNEW BETTER THAN THAT.

City Youth Could Believe Much but There Was a Limit.

The younger son of a well-known politician of Chicago has spent pretty much all of his life in the big city by the lake, and, consequently, knows little of country ways and things. Not long ago he visited a man he had met in Chicago, and who maintains a big farm near Cairo, whither he had insisted the youngster come for a lengthy stay. One day the Chicago youth was wandering about the farm, closely examining the top, ends and sides of a certain trim, well-made object fenced round in the paddock. "What are you searching for, Jimmy?" asked the owner of the place, with a quizzical smile. "Where are the doors and windows?" asked Jimmy. "Doors and windows! Why, Jimmy, that's a haystack. Look here, old man," exclaimed Jimmy; "I may be only a green person from the city, but you can't bluff me that way. Hay doesn't grow in lumps like that!"—Harper's Weekly.

Real Forbidden Fruit.

In some countries there grows a kind of fruit belonging to the shade-dock family and which is commonly called "forbidden fruit." It is similar to grape fruit, but is larger and the inside is somewhat coarser than the delicious acid delicacy of which we are so fond. The name forbidden fruit was given on account of three dark brown stains, like finger marks, which invariably show on this variety of the shade-dock. The stains are close together on one side and are believed to be the marks of Eve's fingers left as a brand on the apple whose eating caused so much trouble in the world. Forbidden fruit is much liked by people who are able to get it fresh, but so far it has not been shipped abroad as extensively as its cousin, the grape fruit and shade-dock.

Great Land Owner.

The Duke of Northumberland is the largest land owner in England. His estates stretch almost from sea to sea, and he can ride 100 miles and not once leave his own domain. In appearance he is tall and thin, with reddish hair and flowing whiskers. He is old-fashioned in manner, and shows many of the attributes of a grand seigneur. And he has all the pride of the Percys and keeps up to the full their Olympian traditions. He was once heard to say: "You will have to go a long way back in our record to find a Percy who was either idle or a spendthrift." In religion he is an Irvingite, like his father, and he has converted the duchess to his own belief.

Fritz on the Dachshund.

Little Fritz was told to write an essay on his favorite dog and he wrote the following on the dachshund: "Der dachshund was a German dog dot looks like a bologna sausage mit legs. Vonce fader had a dachshund dot vos so long ven ut ran around der block ut had to hold up its head to keep from running over uts hind legs. Der dachshund was an obedient dog, but ven you call him to come quick he is always long. He can't help ut—he was born dot vay. Above all, der dachshund ves der only member ut der dog's family whose breath comes in long bants. All der rest comes in short bants. Hurrah for der dachshund!"

They Moved Down to Boston.

Mrs. H. G. Wells and other grown-ups have had their merry gibes at Boston, but here is a little miss whose unconscious irony puts their best efforts to shame. "Why," asked Dorothy the other night on going to bed; "why can't we see fairies?" "Because they do not live in the fields and woods here any more," replied her nurse. "Where are they, then—in heaven?" "Perhaps so." "Oh, I know," said Dorothy after a moment of silent thought. "The angels got tired of their old mansions in the skies, so they let the fairies have them and moved to Boston."—Judge.

Not a Botanist.

"When we were out automobiling on the boulevard yesterday I stopped to look at the rhododendrons." "What part of the car is that?"
