Anyone wishing to contribute anything toward the fund for cleaning off the cemetery can leave the same with Charlie Huver at the postoffice. Money is badly needed for this work as the funds are low, and the living certainly ought to wish that the last resting place of loved ones be kept clean, and this takes money, which a few should not be compelled to furnish, when it will be a benefit to all. A well kept cemetery shows a progressive spirit in any community where it is found, so let us be glad to donate our mite to help this work along.
