Alabama is for Taft. It is beginning to look like a nomination by acclamation.

Another county in Missouri has voted against license. Who would have thought that of Missouri?

We are adding new names to our list right along although the price is now $1.50. Take The Tribune for the news.

Do you still put butter color in your butter? Remember we now have a law prohibiting the sale of impure food. colored butter among the rest.

Nebraska raises 80 per cent of the pop corn produced for commercial purposes in the United States. It ought to be a favorite state with lovers of that species of popism.

The democrats have full control of all the county offices. The county board of supervisors is made up of five democrats, only one republican and John Hinton. Now watch for the much talked of economy.

The coming Republican National convention promises to be one of the most interesting conventions held in recent years. With Taft, Hughes, La Follett, Knox and several other prospective candidates to select from the Chicago convention will not be a cut and dried affair.

But a few more weeks until the Farmer's Institute will be held. Try to arrange so as to attend every session. You will be interested and improved by the lectures. The exhibits of farm products will be instructive and educative. Why not have an exhibit of some of your own farm products? Let your sons and daughters attend. It will create in them interest in the noblest occupation of man.

There has been a sentiment among a certain class of people against the Salvation Army. The army, however, has grown in the esteem of the people at large and many who at one time expressed themselves unfavorably towards it, now speak in the highest terms of the good work done by it. It works in the slums and among the lowly where many churches do not enter. Among many of the notable achievements, within the last year is the great work done by its bureau formed to help the despondent, and those who may be found who entertain thoughts of suicide. Within the last six months in Chicago alone, it is said that it has saved 335 persons from suicide. Such a record is not to be sneered at no matter what we may think of the army in other particulars.

Now that we have a city park, let us beautify it and make it a credit to the people of Falls City. It is the property of every citizen of the town, and of no one individual. It is conveniently located and well drained. It is in a slightly place. How would it be if each family in the city would set out one or more shade trees on Arbor day, the city to direct the planting? For that matter the city could hire several men to do the setting of the trees, who would see that the work was done according to some definite plan. Why not have each grade of the city school spend one half day in setting out trees there? Even if each grade set only a few trees it would give them an interest in the park and help in getting it partly set out.

The Republican State committee wisely left it to the discretion of the central committee of each county as to whether to call a county primary to select the delegates to the state convention, or to leave it to a caucus as has been done heretofore. There is no law providing for a primary election to be held for that purpose. There seems to be quite a wide difference of opinion as to which is the better method to pursue. There is, however, one difference between a primary held for the purpose of selecting delegates to the state convention, who in turn will select the delegates to the national convention, and a primary held for the purpose of making nominations for county and state offices, which it seems it may be well to consider. In the latter case, a primary nominates the candidates for the various offices. In the former case it only selects the delegates who help to make the nominations. It appears that the strongest reason in the minds of the legislature which enacted our primary law was a desire to provide a method of ascertaining the true wish of the majority of the people in the making of nominations. Where there is no doubt as to the wish of the majority, the simpler and more economical the method followed, the wiser. In this county the sentiment appears to be overwhelmingly in favor of the nomination of Taft. There is no method provided for meeting the expenses of holding a primary except by public subscription or contribution. If a party caucus in each precinct will truly express the majority of the republicans, it seems that that would be the proper method to pursue, unless some way is contrived for defraying the expenses of the primary.

Quite a number of young people met at the home of Mr. Brown's Friday evening and a complete surprise party was had in honor of Miss Jennie's birthday. All report a jolly time.

In later years, how many of us will look back to the winter of 1907 and 1908. Up to the middle of January we have not had one really cold day. No ice of any consequence, and no snow.

WOMEN AND PET DOGS

One Owner of Wriggling Nuisance Would Be Glad to See Fad Die Out.

A woman who was believed to be devotedly attached to the tiny Pekinese that has accompanied her to most of the social functions she has attended for two or three seasons, has just surprised her friends by the statement that in her opinion, if we could only all go mad on Teddy bears as quickly as possible one of the worst plagues of society would be removed. "I assure you," she said, "that women detest carrying about irritating little animals, all yaps and sniffs and wriggling legs, and they are constantly being made more unhappy by the fact of other women possessing smaller, uglier, or more expensive pet dogs than their own. But a Teddy bear is a perfect pet. Its manners at meal times are exemplary, as it will sit on a chair and smile interminably without coveting any food. When you and your friends are all talking at once at the top of your voices it doesn't make the clamor more deafening with its barks. It never jumps abruptly into your lap, that already has a teacup, or when you are at bridge scatters your winnings and your hand far and wide at a critical moment."

WHAT HE FELT LIKE.

It was the first time he had sung in an Episcopal choir, and he felt strangely out of place in the vestments he wore. The other choristers looked comfortable enough, but the new one was sure he would trip on the skirts of his cassock when he went up the chancel steps, and he knew that if he did not stop perspiring his clean lined cotta would be sadly mussed. The opening prayer had been intoned by the rector, and the singers were in line waiting for the introduction to the procession to be played, when one of the basses whispered in the new man's ear: "You're a tenor, aren't you?" "I suppose so," he replied, "but I feel like a twospot."

A HELPING HAND.

When the foreign missionary had concluded his talk, he made the usual appeal for contributions, however small. Coming up the platform with several others, a small boy mounted to the level of the lecturer and hastening toward him said: "Please, sir, I was very much interested in your lecture, and— and—"

EVIDENTLY WAS HUNGRY.

The announcement that the clever Wu Ting Fang is to return to this country as minister of China at Washington serves to recall a witticism of his on the occasion of his last outing with the president. When the two returned to town, after a strenuous dash across the Rock Creek country, the president had said: "My walk has done me a lot of good. I'm quite ready now for a brace of quail."

PATSY SURPRISED.

A teacher in a Brooklyn school the other day was showing her class of small boys how to make some different kinds of knots. Most of them were very apt pupils in this sort of instruction, but there was one who did not seem to be interested. "Patsy," said the teacher, "have you made any knots?" "No," answered Patsy. "No what?" the teacher inquired in a corrective tone. "No knots," said the boy, as though he were surprised at the teacher's ignorance.

EVOLUTION IN THE CHURCH.

The English church of the twentieth century is far more humane, more merciful, more enlightened, more wise, than the church of the fifteenth century. Looking back one cannot fail to see the enormous progress that has been made. Even in our own day the church has outgrown many things. It no longer hurls hell fire at us, for instance, and it has long ceased to count Charles Darwin as an enemy of God and mankind.—The Planet.

Richardson County will be entitled to 17 delegates to the Republican State convention.

Of the twenty-eight persons in attendance at the meeting of the Republican State committee at Lincoln on January 8th, twenty-seven expressed a preference for William H. Taft for president and one for Theodore Roosevelt. The vote for Roosevelt may as well be counted for Taft, as the president will not be a candidate. How is that for unanimity? Nebraska speaks in no uncertain tones.
