The Chicago Tribune strikes ten in the declaration that wise advertising is a "business insurance." People pay life premiums to guarantee them against distress to their business and families when they fail to report any more at their places of business, and they pay fire insurance to have immunity from failure when their property burns. Business insurance against dull times is just as essential. For this may be as fatal as death or fire. Judicious advertising is a definite asset, producing a profit. This short homily is itself an advertisement and bears its own moral. Our advertising columns are open.

A Newspapers Duty

That was a felicitous phrase which Attorney General Bonaparte used when he declared that "a free press is a perpetual petition, always telling a government what the people wish and hope for and think is right." But the paper, whether a party organ or not, which stops with this parrot-like chronicling of the current opinions of the public is not doing its whole duty by that very public and certainly not by itself. Such an organ is little better than a painted rooster on the barn ridge, telling which way the wind blows. Very often the winds are merely those of popular clamor and prejudice and they get the directions badly mixed, so that "north" becomes "south" and "east" is "west." Rather should a free press be a compass, pointing always toward the polar star of fixed convictions of right and truth and justice.

Many newspapers which vaunt their "freedom" and "independence" are but the "mountain" which "goes to Mahomet," the people, when Mahomet refuses to come to the mountain, Human judgment is fallible, but fundamental and elemental principles of justice and right do not alter with the complexion of administrations. The people have outgrown the era of "yellow dog" journalism. To a conscientious and sincere press men and measures are nothing when they do not stand the compass test of unswerving principles of right. So far from the so-called "independent" press being the keeper of the conscience of the "people," the duty of adhering to the right without regard to who must fall devolves with particular insistence upon the party press. The "workers" in the "steenth ward" may rail because the "party organ" does not support the "administration," right or wrong, but it is not always the party organ that is at fault.

Administrations come and administrations go. This administration may pursue one policy and the next one another, as the last one pursued still another. Any party organ which is a mere political scrobal, mimicking the feats of this or that, deserves the scorn of the fair-minded and thoughtful, inside and outside "the party." And it usually gets it. The true republican organ is that which supports the principles on which republicanism is founded, not merely the candidates who, for the time being march under the party banner, often "stealing the livery of heaven to serve the devil in." Just now one of the duties of the true republican press is to fight the so-called republicans who are fighting republicanism within the party.—Kansas City Journal.

The Right Idea

The Roosevelt idea is right—as much from the rich man as the poor man—as much from the corporation as the citizen. And this means in Hiawatha that the railroad companies should put in brick and cement walks as the citizens do. It means they should not block the streets or close any street crossing. It means that they should abate the stock yards nuisance by moving the yards out of town, and until all this is done the deal here between people and corporation is not square.—Hiawatha World.

I wish that I might talk with sick ones about the actual cause of Stomach, Heart and Kidney ailments. To explain person how weak Stomach nerves leads to Stomach weakness, I am sure would interest all. And it is the same with weak Hearts or weak Kidneys. This is why my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—so promptly relieves ailments of the Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. These weak inside nerves simply need more strength. My Restorative is the only prescription made expressly for these organs. Next to seeing you personally, will be to mail you free, my new free, my new booklet entitled, "What To Do." I will also send sampler of my Restorative as well. Write for the book today. It will surely interest you. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 8, Racine, Wis. Sold by all dealers.

Running Risks!

Despite the prevalence of robbery, a few continue to keep money about their homes. In thus doing, they are not only risking the loss of money, but also their lives. How much safer and better it would be if these people were to bring their money to the bank.

Are you running such risks?
