Suits Were Stolen

Graham Bros. & McKnight received a consignment of spring goods the last of the week and when they came to open the big boxes, it was discovered that robbers had been at work and that at some point along the road one of the big boxes that had been shipped from Philadelphia was opened and 19 suits of clothing stolen. The stolen suits were valued at about $200.

The goods arrived here over the Missouri Pacific and the officials of that road were at once notified. Railroad detectives were sent here in seach of the clues and every effort will be made to apprehend the thieves.

The company will make good the loss of the amount as it was responsible while the goods were in transit. Graham Bros. & McKnight frequently miss small articles that have been stolen from their shipments of goods but the loss of 19 suits has been the largest shortage they have experienced.—Auburn Republican.

HIS TIME WAS UP

MOUNTAINEER READY TO BEGIN SENTENCE.

Believer in Law and Order Saves His Friend the Sheriff the Necessity of Escorting Him to Penitentiary.

Not long ago there appeared at the gate of a penitentiary in Kentucky a man who asked to see the warden. He was a tall, well-dressed, fine appearing man, with all the marks of a citizen of the eastern or mountain portion of the state. At his request the warden showed him the jail. Not a detail escaped the visitor's eye. He asked about the hours of exercise and of labor, looked at the kitchens, inspected the food, looked critically over a few cells, and at last, when he had made himself familiar with the routine and administration, departed to visit some other places of interest in the neighborhood.

"What time do you close up for the night?" he asked as he went away.

"At five o'clock," said the warden.

A few minutes before five the stranger again appeared at the office and produced from his pocket a file of papers.

"Well, sir," he said, "I reckon you'll just have to lock me in now. My time seems to be up."

"Lock you in!" exclaimed the warden. "What do you mean?"

"Just what I say. Lock me in. I'm to be one of your prisoners. Here are my papers." He handed over his commitment, which was regular, and required the warden to confine him in the penitentiary for two years.

"Sit down and tell me about this," said the warden. The stranger took a chair and explained.

"You see, up in my county they have been having considerable talk about law and order, and against every man doing his own shooting. I'm that way myself. I believe in the law and the sheriff. But, of course, when they came to be a little shooting among some chaps that had a feud in their families, and it wasn't nobody else's business, and the sheriff stepped in and tried to arrest the fellow that done the shooting, and he being a friend of mine, I just naturally had to go along and see that he got away.

"There was considerable use of guns, and in the course of it the sheriff—that's Jim Burt—got shot up quite bad. They all said I done it, and I don't doubt it, though we were all shooting.

"So they up and jailed me, and had me tried, and found me guilty. I owned up I probably done it, as they said, and the judge gave me two years in the penitentiary to pay for it.

"That's where the trouble come in. Jim Burt, he's a great friend of mine. Of course by law he had to come down here with me and turn me over to you; but being shot up that-a-way, he wasn't in any shape to travel. Doc said it would just break him all up to have to come. I was sitting up nights with him.

"'I don't know what I'm a-going to do,' Jim says.

"'Why, Jim,' I says, 'you ain't going to do anything. You give me them papers, and I'll go down to the penitentiary and hand 'em over when I go in. I wouldn't be the cause of your having any trouble,' I told him.

"So Jim give me the papers, and I come down here, and here I am. So lock me up, Mr. Warden, and I'll put in my time any way you say till my two years are up."—Youth's Companion.

Information for Uncle Hi.

"Well, I swan," said Uncle Hi Hayricks as he was being conducted through the fine club building by his nephew, "it's mighty elegant, ain't no doubt about that. You people that belong to it must all be millionaires, ain't you?"

"Not all of us. There are several millionaires among our members, however."

"Why, it's jes' like a palace. What you got all these livin' rooms fer, anyhow?"

"They are mostly for the accommodation of gentlemen who are paying alimony, or who expect to begin soon."

A Conservatory of Music for Richardson County

We have just learned that there is being opened in the Wahl building in this city, a conservatory of music for those interested in the study of music in Richardson County. For a long time the question has been asked how is it possible for a person to acquire a thorough and correct knowledge of the science and art of music without the expenditure of a large amount of time and money at some distant city where the schools for the cultivation of the fine arts are usually located. It is well known that there are many really talented persons who cannot spare the necessary amount of time away from their homes at the larger centers of education, to say nothing of the great financial cost which such a course would necessarily require. In opening the Falls City Conservatory of Music the promoters of the enterprise feel that they have met and eliminated all the objectionable features and made it possible for each and everyone who so desires to secure the very best instruction along all musical lines. Falls City itself is peculiarly adapted for the organization of such a school, being situated at the junction of both railroads and being also in easy driving distance of the out laying towns. In this way the pupils would be enabled to come into the school once a week from the most remote parts of the county, take their lesson and return home the same day.

In the person of the director, we feel that too much cannot be said. He is a graduate from the best schools of this and the old world. He has a doctors degree of music and has had five years of experience in teaching in the conservatories of Cincinnati, Chicago and Denver. Instructions will be given on piano, violin, pipe organ and voice, while special attention will be paid to classes in musical history, biography, theory, thorough-bass, harmony and composition. The tuition charged will be very small when compared with the class of instruction the pupil will receive. A pupil will be enabled to study music in this school for one year for the same amount that would be required to keep them in Lincoln or Kansas City for a period of two months.

This is a worthy enterprise and deserves the patronage of all. We feel that everyone who is interested in the study of music should give this their careful consideration and investigation before they decide to send their children out of the county to patronize high priced schools in the distant cities. There is no reason why Falls City and Richardson County should not support as good a school of music as Lincoln or Kansas City.

All correspondence will be freely answered and all class of work guaranteed to be of the highest grade. Address, Falls City Conservatory of Music, Falls City, Neb.

Free Copies to Advertisers

The Canadian postoffice department is making an investigation into the practice of publishers sending free copies of their papers to advertisers as second-class matter. They claim that under the regulations advertisers are not entitled to receive free copies at this rate, nor even for the purpose of checking, but must first become subscribers. Several publishers of dailies and weeklies have had a claim made against them for extra postage at the rate of one cent for four ounces on copies which they have been sending out to advertisers for years back. In the case of one daily the sum involved amounts to thousands of dollars. —Canadian Publisher and Printer.

Thousands Perish

Thousands perish every year from consumption resulting from a cold. Foley's Honey and Tar cures the most obstinate racking coughs and expels the cold from your system and prevents consumption and pneumonia. It has cured many cases of incipient consumption. Kerr's Pharmacy.
