THE PUBLIC PARK.

Now is the time for every one who has the interest of the city at heart to do their part in the beautifying of the city park. The Mayor will have a man at the park who will receive any tree or trees which any person may desire to donate to be planted. Trees will be received any day for about a week, beginning on Saturday, April 4th.

If every person will furnish one nice tree of good size and of a good kind, like maple, elm, hackberry, or of some other good variety, the city will have a goodly number of trees to set, and every person who furnishes one will feel that he has an interest in the park. There are but few monuments nicer than some beautiful tree, and they are lasting. Many a child who may furnish a tree to be planted this spring will be able to go to the park fifty years from now and will find the old tree which he furnished and it will seem like an old friend to him. Let every one furnish at least one nice tree. If any of our farmer friends who expect to visit the public park at times of public entertainment, will furnish a tree or trees, the city will be only too glad to get them.

Let us have a nice park with plenty of shade trees. Don't forget that the trees will be received for five or six days, beginning on Saturday, April 4th. If any one desires to furnish a tree and cannot find it convenient to bring it in on Saturday or Monday, bring them in at any time during the first four or five days of next week and they will be taken care of.

What do you know of the history of April Fool day?

One of the best ways of showing real manhood is by voting one's real and honest convictions at the polls.

The finding of an infant babe lodged in the crotch of a tree in the city of Omaha, is sufficient proof that all brutes are not of the quadruped species.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean is authority for the statement that all men will soon wear corsets. A wasp waist is to be the style. We are willing that Chicago wear all the corsets made. We are not ambitious in that style.

The harmony so much boasted of by Mr. Bryan among the democrats seems to have received a severe jolt from the recent significance of Governor Johnson that he is a willing candidate for the presidency. It is not always the brightest dawn that precedes a fair day.

The successors to twenty-eight United States senators will be elected by the January legislatures which will convene this winter. Irrespective of the results of the November election, the United States senate will still be safely republican. Democratic prospects are not as alluring as some men would like to make us believe.

The race in the Third Ward between Dr. Hahn, Jim Nausler, and Jim Spence promises to be quite interesting, with each one confident that he is the winner. Each one's friends insists that his candidate is the one which should be elected, but Dr. Hahn's friends go them one better by saying that he made the race last spring for the short term of one year to fill a vacancy and for that reason he should be re-elected. Watch the Third ward next Tuesday.

Falls City's Next Mayor

W. W. ABBEY

NEXT TUESDAY'S ELECTION.

Next Tuesday's election will be one of the most important elections held in this city for years. The wet and dry questions are not the only questions to come before the city officials this municipal year.

There are many other questions of equal importance: The location of the new water plant, the installation of the new electric light machinery, the improvement of the public park, and the expenditure of $35,000 of the money voted by the people of Falls City last summer are some of the important things to be done. They are the important things this year. These are the big proposition which every citizen should consider.

With W. W. Abbey at the head of the city's affairs we can rest assured that every penny of the city's money will be properly accounted for and will be wisely and judiciously expended. He has served in many important positions of public trust and he has always been careful, painstaking, and conscientious in the discharge of his duties. Elect him as Mayor of this town and back him with a good council and another year will see many important things done for the interest of the city.

Many good men who never voted against high license before are this year going to cast their ballot in favor of closing the saloons. They see strong reasons which appeal to them and they are going to do their work quietly and effectively.

To the Public.

The Leo Cider and Vinegar Co. of this city have been running an article in the Tribune on "Instructions Concerning Pickle Growing," and desire to state that they will be prepared to handle all of this product that can be furnished them.

For full information call on the above company or T. J. Gist at the State Bank.

To Graduates.

The Tribune this week received a beautiful sample line of graduating cards, which we will be pleased to show to all interested. It is only a short time until the class of 1908 will be before the foot lights and you will want to tell your friends about it in the proper way, which is by a neat and beautiful invitation, and which we can furnish at a moderate cost. Come in and see our line and get our prices.

Mr. Taylor was an old citizen of Rulo, and as long as he was able to be around, his familiar face was frequently seen on our streets and business places. Just a month and sixteen days before his death the aged wife passed on before him and his poor heart could not perform its work long after being bereft of her companionship. The funeral was held at the Holiness church Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock and was attended by many old friends and neighbors. He leaves seven sons and two daughters, besides several grandchildren and other relatives. One daughter, Mrs. Demoss of Omaha, has kept house and taken care of her father since the death of her mother. The remains were laid to rest by the side of his wife in Rulo cemetery, and one more home thus left vacant. This makes the third old couple to pass away from earth in Rulo, in a little more than one and one-half months. The relatives have the sympathy of many friends and neighbors in their sorrow.

How to Be Royal.

Many people pretend to sneer at the affectation of Americans for titles, but for the life of us we can see nothing wrong about it, and it is certainly cheaper for a woman to pay $500 and get one of her own than it is to buy one with a husband attached for two or three millions. It is natural, it is human, to want to believe that you are a little more royal than the family in the next flat; and until this country gets something equally as good, something that sounds as good, the heraldic experts will keep right on creating princes and princesses. Of course, this perfectly legitimate and even commendable liking for titles can be carried too far; any saleslady can tell you that; it is better to dwell in poverty in a mere palace with a comparatively obscure earl and dine off mere cut glass and silver, with everything regular and a marriage certificate framed in the parlor, than it is to be the plaything of a royal duke, even if he does wear waistcoats of solid gold and dine off of rubies and pearls.—Don Marquis in Uncle Remus' Magazine.

Delicate Point.

How long before regular hours for consultation should a doctor's patients be permitted to wait in his reception room? That is a question that is troubling the minds of several west side physicians at present. "I used to claim," said one doctor, "that any man who wished to consult me was privileged to wait in my office all day if he wanted to, provided it took me that long to get ready to give him my attention. Experience, however, has made me skeptical on that point. My office hours are 8 to 10, 2 to 3 and 6 to 8. Formerly it was my rule that any patient who called two minutes after I had left the house should be allowed to wait until I returned. Unfortunately I found that plan gave sneak thieves a splendid chance to get in their work. It was impossible for the girl to keep an eye on the callers every minute of the two or three hours that some people undertook to wait, and as a consequence I and other people in the house suffered from several very clever robberies.

"At last I gave instructions that no one should be admitted longer than half an hour before my expected return. Still, in some cases that seems unjust. A person may have traveled quite a distance to consult a physician, and may be a stranger in the neighborhood. If he is turned away from the doctor's office, where shall he wait? The question involves so many points of professional etiquette, justice, and protection of property that it is by no means easily settled."

An Almanac Church.

In the tower of St. Botolph's church, Boston, England, are 365 steps, corresponding to the days in the year; the church has 12 pillars, 52 windows, and seven doors, representing the months, weeks, and days in the week.

In the west porch, says the Church Eclectic, are 24 steps (ascending to the library above), representing the hours of the day. Again, on each side of the choir are 60 steps, leading to the roof, denoting on the one side the minutes and on the other the seconds of the hour.
