The Happy Titleless Young Man.

Whatever his dreams of riches and rank may be the young man with good health and an humble job must admit he has some advantages in life over the aristocratic princes and counts of Europe.

He hasn't enough creditors to let him get several thousand dollars in debt, or if he has he knows enough not to do it anyway. He can marry the woman he wants without figuring whether she has enough dollars to keep him supplied the rest of his days. And if she does happen to be an heiress it is not likely that his wife's friends will make a laughing stock of him and the newspapers will print sensational stories of the silly things he does on his honeymoon. He will be able to find a place to go where he isn't the object of a thousand curious eyes that sparkle in derisive amusement at every turn he makes.

Consider the Prince Helie de Sagan for a moment. The prince, as everybody has read a few hundred times by now, escaped from America with his fifteen million bride much after the fashion of the criminal who had stolen that amount. His attempt at secrecy was a disastrous failure which added its coils of relentless sarcasm. He hurried across Europe with his prize. Late dispatches locate him at Naples where, according to these, he renewed his hopeless attempts to elude the persistent reporters whom, the prince is credited with saying, had driven him "almost to desperation in two hemispheres."

"In trying to escape the close watch of the newspaper men," this dispatch continues, "the prince drove along the Toledo sea front, but soon discovered that his driver was in league with the cab drivers of his pursuers, signals passing between them by means of their whips. This was displeasing and he returned to his hotel, where he found several telegrams awaiting him. Later he discussed with the hotel director the possibility of securing for Friday after the arrival of the Friedrich der Grosse, an automobile, a chauffeur whom he could trust not to be signaling his movements to 'spies.' The prince went to the theatre in the evening, but soon realized that all the convenient places near him were occupied by reporters. He left in disgust, exclaiming: 'I thought it impossible to be worse treated than in America.'"

It is taken for granted that the prince and Anna won't live together long and already the gossips are speculating on what the latter will charge in her application for divorce.

The average titleless young man hasn't that much trouble in ten years of his life.—Fremont Tribune

Eighth Grade Commencement

In spite of threatening weather, a well-filled house greeted the children of No. 54, who had prepared a recital for the close of school, April 24.

The stove had been removed and many extra seats provided. The class colors, white and yellow, were the most prominent note in the decoration, though there were bushels of all available flowers. The stage was cozy with hangings, rugs, chairs, pillows and flowers.

The program consisted of the usual songs and readings by the smaller pupils. A clever little farce, "On Trial for Blowin'," by the boys of Fifth Grade; a spirited and well executed flag drill by the small boys, and the parts by the Eighth Grade as follows:

Salutatory—Birds—Ella Bissegger.

School Room Decoration—Mary Gatz.

Consolidation of Rural Schools—Walter Hahn.

Valedictory—Arbor Day and Its Founder—George Apel.

Delsarte Pantomime by Eighth Grade Girls, accompanied by song from the boys.

Song—"Clover Blossoms"—Eighth Grade Quartette.

Short Address, explaining grading and conferring honors by Miss Crotty.

Tableau—Faith, Hope, Charity—Mary Gatz, Ella Bissegger, Lydia Schietel.

All present enjoyed the evening and congratulated graduates on their work. Miss Crotty has been asked to continue her work.

Fruit Is Not Killed.

Although ice froze to a depth of half an inch as a result of the cold weather Sunday night and Monday morning, and although it has since been very cold, the temperature being to the freezing point, it is thought that the fruit orchards of the county have not been badly hurt.

A number of orchardists who have been interviewed say that the apples and peaches were far enough advanced that they would be able to stand considerable more cold weather than has yet visited this section, and they think that the damage that has been done has not been appreciable or resulting in any loss.

One of the best posted of the men in talking of the matter said that if any of the fruit was hurt, which he doubted, it would be a good thing for the trees, for the reason that they were loaded down with buds and if fully sixty per cent of the young fruit would drop off that it would still leave a very large crop.

All through Sunday and on Monday there were traces of snow as well as a searching cold wind.

It is felt the winds and the clouds both had much to do with saving the fruit all during the time when actual danger existed.

The untimely cold, coming as it did on the heels of a warm wave and when most of the people had taken down their stoves and discarded their winter underwear, caused a great deal of discomfort.—Auburn Republican.

Beware of May.

May is to be a continuous performance of tornadoes, thunder storms, hail and frost. Rev. Irl R. Hicks has hung out the danger signals in his long-distance forecasts for the month, and trouble is feared by those who have faith in his prognostications.

The merry month is to open with a series of violent thunder storms, approaching tornadoic violence in the west, especially on the 3d and 4th. Low barometer, sultriness, fitful south winds and restless clouds, indicate an almost positive danger at this time, says Mr. Hicks. The country at large is to be visited with heavy rains and hail, followed by late snow squalls and sleet. Frosts will be natural and much probability of seismic disturbances.

Careful watching is advised by the St. Louis prognosticator from the 7th to the 11th generally. High temperature, daily rains and thunder storms with probable tornadoes, is on the menu for the 13th to the 16th, and floods over wide sections follow immediately. Much cooler weather is due from the 16th to the 19th. From the 19th to the 22nd is not seriously threatening, but look out for tornadoes, says Mr. Hicks.

Quiet and calm and much warmer until the 24th will usher in the most dangerous period of the month, and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the 25th, 26th and 27th, storms may be expected to become very threatening, if not tornadoic. The 27th is the twelfth anniversary of the St. Louis cyclone. The danger area extends over the central and western parts of the country. The month is to end in comparative peace, although seismic disturbance is possible from the 27th to the 31st.

LINCOLN is your town, it is the seat of your state government, the officers who spend your money live here, you send your children here to be educated, you send your friendless and cripples here, you send your insane here, when you want anybody hanged you send them here, when you want a big state fair you located it here, when you hold a convention it's here, whenever you do any shopping it's here—the most railroads center here.

Lincoln was created for the accommodation and benefit of the state of Nebraska and her citizens have grown to realize that all we are here for is for your service, and that is the reason state people like to come here.

The State Journal is being conducted along these lines. It is peculiarly a state paper, realizing its obligations to Nebraskans. It is a staunch advocate of all things for the upbuilding and uplifting of her people, and always stands for that much used and sometimes abused "square deal." It is the one state paper that can print all the news all the time about everybody and everything. No office-holders or office seekers in any of its departments from top to bottom.

We are obeying the new rules of Uncle Sam's postoffice and require all subscribers to pay in advance. In this way you pay only for your own paper; you are not helping to pay for the paper of some one who doesn't pay his bills.

Therefore, to introduce the State Journal into thousands of new homes, we will send it every day, except Sunday, from now until after the National Election for only $1.50. Make it $2.00 and we will add the Big Sunday paper. This will carry you through the exciting nominating campaign and then through the presidential race. This is just an introduction offer and the paper will be stopped at the end of that time. We stop all papers when time paid for is up. The sooner you send in your money the more papers you will get under this cut-price offer.

The Journal prints more reading matter than any other state daily and we will let you judge of the quality. SEE YOUR POSTMASTER.

Two-Cent Fare Profitable.

Des Moines, Iowa, May 2.—With the two-cent fare law in operation for the greatest part of the period, the eight representative railroads of Iowa show a net gain of $383,057 in passenger earnings for the year ending January 1, 1908. Notwithstanding a falling off of $386,000 in the gross earnings for the same period, the conclusion is drawn that the reduction in price of mileage has benefited the railroads as well as the people.
