

Fruit Crop Outlook in Nebraska

If anyone has taken it for granted that the Nebraska peach crop is going to be a total failure this year, he has another guess coming, says the Lincoln Evening News. Reports from over the state indicate that, while peaches were badly nipped by frost here and there that some whole orchards will fail to produce a yield, there are others which will bear normally this season. In the vicinity of Lincoln, several large fruit farms are facing a fine outlook for plenty of good peaches.

L. M. Russell, owner of a 160-acre tract southeast of Lincoln, thinks most of his trees will bear well this year. He declares that the branches are loaded with fruit of good appearance, except on the lower ground. The frost seemed to be more severe there and few of the trees which were not on an elevation will have any fruit. In talking with other growers, Mr. Russell learns that the same rule will apply generally all throughout this section.

Cherries have been affected in much the same manner as peaches, according to most reports. In spots they are thick on the trees, while elsewhere there are few or none.

The injury to apples from the frosts in April and early May seems to have been more serious than to peaches, Isaac Pollard of Nehawka, who was in Lincoln last week declared that he did not expect to harvest half a wagon load of fruit from his who orchard of 200 acres.

An Effort to Abolish Bullfighting

The wave of reform has now reached Mexico, and, wonderful to relate and almost incredible, there is a movement to stop bullfighting. Governor Creel of Chihuahua, has decreed the abolishment of the sport and the belief is expressed that his example will be followed by the governors of other Mexican states. The propaganda is chiefly pressed by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in the City of Mexico, that organization having recently sent out a circular appeal to American tourists urging them to abstain from patronizing bull fights upon their visits to Mexico. Bull fighting is brutal and brutalizing, and few Northerners witness it without being shocked and disgusted. However, this "sport" is so deep-rooted among the Spanish-American people that it is doubtful that the efforts of the Mexican Humane Society will be entirely successful. It is almost like asking the Americans to give up baseball and horse-racing.

Child Drowns in Bucket of Water

A report comes from Julian of a singular accident, in which a child of slightly over one year of age fell head first into a pail of water on last Friday and when found twenty minutes later was drowned.

The complete details of this sad occurrence have not been learned, but the accident as it happened seems doubly sad on account of the youth of the child, it not being able to protect itself against falling into the water.

The child was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Crooks living north of Julian about three or four miles. On last Friday the mother was doing some work in another room and being gone for about twenty minutes thought nothing of the danger of the little one. When she returned she found her babe cold in death lying head first in the pail of water. Grief-stricken she ran for assistance, carrying the lifeless child in her arms. The husband at a distance was summoned and a physician was called but to no avail as the little one had no sign of life. Everything was done that trained hands could do to save the babe, but life had fled before the infant was found.

The funeral services were held on Sunday at which the sorrowing mother and father bid farewell to their little one, which two days previous was the pride of their lives. The many friends of the parents extend to them their sincerest and heartfelt sympathies in their sudden and sad bereavement.—The Auburn Herald.

No Damage in Blowing Out Gas.

Sioux City, Ia, May 31—Two young men of Sioux City blow out their gas every night and they are alive to tell the tale.

The reason why C. D. McLeod and Forest Yockey still are in the land of the living is that they have invented an automatic safety gas fixture intended to save the lives of men and women of bucolic tastes who know no better than to exert their lung power on it. The idea is simple but effective. A slender tube sensitive to heat, rises a little above the jet and is connected with the valve. There can be no flame until this tube is heated, when it expands and opens the valve. When the light is blown out the mechanism cuts off the gas as soon as it contracts on cooling. The two young men are employed in the local shops of the Omaha railroad. Their invention is especially adapted for hotels.

I surely would not send it free unless I was certain that Dr. Shoop's Magic Ointment would stand the test. Remember it is made expressly and alone for swollen, painful, bleeding or itching piles, either external or internal. Large jar, 50c. Sold by all dealers.

Signs a Catcher.

Last Thursday evening the baseball fans of the city met in the city hall and organized the baseball association. A nice sum of money has been raised for the support of the team and it is the intention of the promoters to show to the people of Auburn who love the national game a pretty fast aggregation. Will Humphrey was elected manager of the team, W. H. Boufield treasurer, and B. C. Howe secretary.

"Shanty" Doyle, a fast player who has been catching for the Atchison, Kansas team has been signed for catcher, and the other members will be assigned to their positions as soon as their abilities are demonstrated. It was the intention to have a game with Nebraska City this week but the condition of the weather forbid.—Auburn Republican.

Weak women should try Dr. Shoop's Night Cure. These soothing, healing, antiseptic suppositories go direct to the seat of these weaknesses. My "Book No. 4 for Women" contains many valuable hints to women, and it is free. Ask Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., to mail it. Ask the Doctor in strict confidence, any questions you wish answered. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is sold by all dealers.

Three Weeks Trial Proves Good.

Beatrice Sun: Three weeks have rolled by since Beatrice took her place in the dry column, and it is not out of order to comment upon the results of the three weeks' trial.

Disregarding the reasons and causes that may have conspired to make the dryness effective, the bare unpainted fact is that there have been but two arrests for drunkenness since Beatrice went dry. One of these was a fellow who came down from DeWitt and at once showed sign of being unable to navigate without the assistance of a pilot.

The experience of the past three weeks indicates that prohibition is prohibiting.

Don't think because you do not see all the scandals that occur in your town fully exploited in the newspaper that the editor is afraid to publish it. Editors as a usual thing are not afraid to publish the news, but they have a feeling for the community and no matter how dirty and contemptible some men may get they may have a good honest old mother and father and maybe a sister, and while you are rolling scandal under your tongue as a sweet morsel and talking about the papers being too cowardly to write up or expose it, probably if the papers had done their duty with you, you would be in the soup house doing time for something you had done and on account of your saintly old mother or father yours never got into print. Oh no, son, it is not you that the papers fear but the feelings of decent people.—Brock Bulletin.

English Dream Fortunes.

Nebraskans who may believe they are heir to millions of dollars piled up in England may glean enough information from the London Gazette, now on file in the state library, to spur them on to follow the pitiable example of the litigants in Dickens' famous chancery suit, Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce, or to sicken them of the quest of gold from unclaimed estates. The copy of the books was forwarded by Consul Church Howe of Nebraska, who is stationed at Manchester, England. The volume contains merely a list of titles of suits in chancery. The names of the litigants only are given and from this supposed heirs may judge whether or not they have a chance to prove relationship and to get returns for the time and money they will expend in litigation. The suits are in alphabetical order and cover enough pages to daze an ordinary investigator. Consul Church Howe's letter to H. C. Lindsay accompanying the publication is as follows:

American Consulate, Manchester, England, May 16, 1908—Honorable Harry C. Lindsay, State Librarian, Lincoln, Neb., U. S. A.—Dear Sir: On account of the erroneous impression that there is in the keeping of the government of Great Britain estates covering millions upon millions of dollars awaiting legal heirs, and from the fact that many letters are received at this consulate from Nebraska parties every year, making inquiries regarding estates in which they are under the impression they are heirs to, I have mailed you, for filing in the state library, a copy of the last edition of the London Gazette, dated March 5, 1908, published officially by the authority of the British government, giving a list of the dormant funds now in the chancery division of the high court of justice.

Attached to, and made part of said publication, is an extract of report of Secretary White, of the American embassy, London, dated November 5, 1884, regarding unclaimed estates in England.

That the members of the bar, and interested parties may know that this official Gazette is on file in the state library, will you kindly give said information through the newspapers? I am, sir, your obedient servant,

CHURCH HOWE.
