A FORTUNE AWAITING

Auburn People Expect to Inherit Immense Fortune

C. C. Keyt and his sister, Mrs. Shurrum of this city, and Will Keyt, of Omaha are expecting to inherit their respective shares of a fortune of $500,000.

The story of their expected inheritance is an exceedingly interesting one. Many years ago in South Carolina, a brother of their mother was engaged in the coasting trade. He had a small schooner and it was his business at that time to take boat loads of vegetables from Charleston and the other harbors of New York. One morning he started with his schooner loaded with melons, from Charleston to New York City. Months passed and nothing was heard from him and finally years slipped away with no word from the captain, the crew or of the boat. It was thought at the time that the schooner had been wrecked and lost on the treacherous reefs that abound along the Atlantic coast.

A few years ago an advertisement appeared in one of the principal eastern papers offering a reward for information that would lead to the location of the heirs of the mother of the Keyt boys and Mrs. Shurrum. It was related that her brother, who had been in the coasting trade, had died in some European city and had left a fortune estimated at $500,000 and his will provided that the sister or her heirs were to be the inheritors. The survivors of the family, who are the three named are now hunting for the family bible to establish their claim of descent. They have forwarded to New York attorneys interested in the matter the funeral notices of their mother and such other papers as may establish their claims and from now on it is thought will bend every energy in proving their rightful inheritance that was left by their sea roving uncle.—Auburn Republican.

Discovers Coal in Custer

Street Brothers of Broken Bow have again found coal, this time five miles southeast of Ansley, Neb., on Miller's farm, at a depth of 180 feet. They were sinking a well for Mr. Miller, struck rock at 160 feet, went through thirteen layers ranging in thickness from four inches to four feet. The coal vein is about six inches in thickness, underlaid with sand, rock and gravel. The other vein struck was a three inch one and located on the Ramsey farm about fourteen miles southwest of Broken Bow. This one was fifty feet from the surface of the ground.

Looking Ahead.

"Madam," said the pleasant, low-voiced nurse as she laid the new-born infant in the lace-trimmed bassinet, "you have a perfect little daughter." "Oh! will she be tall?" came the weak response.

Johnny's Instructions.

"Johnny," said Mrs. Lapsling, "I wish you would go over to the grocer's and get two pounds of the best evacuated apples he's got."

PENMANSHIP

SHORTHAND

OPENS MONDAY, AUGUST 31

OUR School, Its Aims, Advantages and Methods. There are in every state in the Union today, thousands of capable, honest, earnest young men and women anxious for a chance to start upon a successful career in life. Opportunities are upon every hand, plenty of them; and the only reason they are not seized upon and made available is the fact, that the young men or women of today are not capable of filling them, or if not entirely incapable, are unwilling to assume the risk and responsibility. Too many young people are simply plodders; working day by day with little or no ambition, with no definite plan in mind, and accomplishing nothing beyond a daily task assigned by a master mind. The majority of these have never been taught the first elements of self-reliance, have never been stimulated to make mental growth, have never contemplated the fact that promotion is the result of exceptional work, and that exceptional work is the result of training the mind and developing the energies in lines of study and labor, that bring young men and women in contact with trained business men who are ever ready to push forward anyone who is eager to learn, quick to perceive and ready to execute. There are many young people into whose hands this little leaflet may fall who feel themselves incompetent for a business career on account of deficiency in their early education. Many are deceived by the belief that somehow nothing short of a college education will suffice for the man who aspires to lead. Nothing can be further from the real truth—nineteen-twentieths of the successful men of today came from the farm, workshop or factory. A plain public school education, supplemented by a thorough and practical Commercial School training, is the foundation upon which they have builded so firmly.

Does Education Pay?

The average educated man gets $1,000 a year. He works forty years, making a total of $40,000 in a lifetime. The average day laborer gets $1.50 per day 300 days in the year, or $450 per year. In ten years he earns $4,500, or $18,000 in a lifetime. The difference between $40,000 and $18,000 is $22,000, equals the valuation in dollars. Young people, can you afford to go through life without an education? A few months spent in the Falls City Business College will aid one in acquiring this earning capacity. Divide the difference 22,000 by seven, (the number of months required to complete our course) and you have something over three thousand per month. Is it worth it?

Who Should Have Business Training?

We answer everyone. Who will not be benefitted by acquiring the ability to write a neat, rapid business hand; by improving their spelling, acquiring a knowledge of accounts, becoming quick and accurate at figures, becoming familiar with the principles of commercial law, and increasing their knowledge of punctuation and the construction of sentences? In these days of commercial activity a business education is an absolute necessity for all. No matter how much or how little educational training you may be able to obtain, get a business education by all means.

Backward Students.

Many young men and young women who have neglected their earlier education are too backward to mingle with the children of the public school. To this class we have to say that in our college there is nothing to embarrass you, as we give you personal attention until you can enter classes without feeling the least embarrassment.

An Offhand Flourish by Prof. J. C. Leister

A Business Need.

GOOD writing is more than a mere accomplishment—IT IS A MODERN BUSINESS NEED.

Many a young person has been promoted to positions of trust and profit because his good penmanship first recommended him, and many have failed to get any employment at all because they could not write a decent business hand.

Bookkeeping.

Students are taught bookkeeping by Single and Double Entry as it is practiced by the largest and best business houses and bookkeepers in America.

Shorthand.

The Pitmanic system is taught in our school. This system is used by some of the fastest writers and the majority of the court reporters in the country.

The Demand For Good Stenographers And Bookkeepers is far in excess of anything heretofore known. At no time in the past have competent stenographers so readily secured good paying positions as now. All positions of this kind will be found pleasant and profitable, and better adapted to ladies than almost anything else they can do in a business way. Young men and women have only to master these branches to make it a source of profit to themselves and an easy stepping stone from a lower to a higher position.

A Talk to Parents.

Parents, of course, you mean to do the right thing by your children. No doubt, when you stop to think about it, you realize most of your present working and planning is in their interest, and if you fail to do what is wisest and best for them, such failure is the result of a want of reflection or a mistaken judgment. There is one decision you may make, however, that will not prove a failure, and that is to give the boy or girl an education. You may leave them wealth and it may vanish like mists before the morning sun, but an education is theirs forever.

If you have a bright boy or girl who is desirous of an education, give that one a chance, even though at some inconvenience to you. You will never regret it, and that child will be grateful to you in later years for the sacrifices you have made in their behalf. Don't put it off! "Procrastination is the thief of time." Don't blight your child's future by your own neglect, for remember if that child travels the road of "bye and bye," it will land at the house of "never."

Act now. Give the child a chance.

Rates of Tuition.

Complete seven month's course in either Bookkeeping or Shorthand, including free use of books, $55.00. Those desiring to pay cash on entering will be allowed a discount of ten per cent.

Advantages of Attending Our School.

The courses we are offering you would cost you from twenty to thirty-five dollars more in schools in the larger cities. This is owing to the fact that a college can be operated in a small city at a much less expense than in a larger one. Then again a student's expenses while attending college in a large city are about twice as much as in a small city.
