NICE CATTLE ON MARKET

Mr. Harbaugh Will Remain in Cattle Feeding Business

D. M. Harbaugh of Dawson had three car loads of topy steers on the St. Joe market Monday. He says he will still remain in the cattle feeding business next winter, despite the fact that corn will be a little high. He has 250 steers on hand which he will soon put on feed. He has on his ranch about 600 hogs and is well fixed all around. Recently Mr. Harbaugh bought of his neighbors about 5,000 bushel of corn at 60c per bushel. "I was greatly surprised when I commenced to look about for some corn for immediate use," said Mr. Harbaugh. "I supposed there was very little corn left in the country, but to my great surprise I found that thousands of bushels of corn are laying around in the hands of the farmers. When the new corn comes in a great deal of it will be held for higher prices and in that way we may see corn selling cheaper next spring than now."
