Special Meeting

At a special meeting of the city council Tuesday evening the council ordered an auto-sparker for the motor pump at the water works plant. They also advertised for bids to install complete and put in successful operation in the city's water and light plant the following items of machinery:

One new 200 to 210 horse power water tube or internally fired double-drum boiler.

One new 300 horse power open feed water heater equal to Cochrane make.

All steam piping necessary to install this pump and boiler complete and connect it with the present system.

Kicked By a Horse

The little six year old son of Gotleb Wechter, living six miles east of this city, was kicked by a horse Christmas eve. The little fellow was playing when the horse turned and kicked him in the head. He was immediately taken to Dr. Kellar's office where the wound was dressed, and it was found necessary to take several stitches. At this writing he is improving.

Broke His Leg

Jesse Harris of McCandless switch drove to this city yesterday. As he was going down Main street his horse became frightened and ran away throwing him out and broke his leg. The accident happened just as we were going to press and we did not learn all the particulars of the accident.

District Court

Judge Raper held a short adjourned session of the district court on Monday. Aside from a few minor orders on motions nothing was done. The sale of the Schaible eighty to Andy Bergner was confirmed. It is believed that the next jury session will be called for the latter part of January.

Will Make Extended Stay

W. C. McDermend and wife leave this week for Tonkawa, Okl., to spend some time with their children. From there they go to San Antonio, Texas, for a visit. They will be absent until June. Before returning they will visit Mexico City, Old Mexico.

Burglars Busy

On Tuesday night while Mr. and Mrs. Will Casey were absent from home, some one entered the house between nine and ten by cutting the screen door. They took with them several pieces of jewelry, a 32 revolver and about $100 in money. At this writing no arrests have been made.

Sweet-Smelling Herbs.

The nice old custom of putting lavender and other scented herbs in linen presses and other places containing clothing is not so much practiced now as it was a generation ago, orris-root, sachet powder and other things being used instead. Have you any conception of how old the custom is? Turn to the twenty-seventh chapter of Genesis, in the Bible, and you will read that Jacob, when old and blind, "smelled the smell" of Jacob's raiment, which he compared to the "smell of a field which the Lord hath blessed." It is evident that Rebecca had put sweet-smelling herbs where her favorite son's clothing was kept.

A Boat in a Knapsack.

A Servian named Merchep has devised what he terms "a boat in a knapsack" for army purposes. The boat is composed of linen rendered impermeable by a coating of rubber; it is provided with oars, which fold into each other to the size of an ordinary walking stick, and a cork seat, which also serves to keep it taut when open. The model can accommodate one person only, but larger ones may be made on the same plan for the conveyance of troops and baggage when crossing rivers. Merchep's invention has been tried on the Seine by naval experts, who speak of it in high terms.

Looking Into the Future.

A minister of a church in Edinburgh, Scotland, recently surprised the congregation at a Sunday evening service by handing in his resignation. He was only 60 years old and was in good health and vigor. The following Sunday a committee of the members waited upon him and expressed their regret at the step he was about to take. They said to him: "You have plenty of work in you yet. Why resign?" "Yes," he replied, "I know but you had better accept my resignation now. When I am 70 you will not be able to get rid of me."

The Eternal Feminine.

"I'll tell you how I'm saving money so that I can entertain friends at dinner, Marie," said a stenographer to her chum as they soared upward in an office elevator. "Whenever I am invited to dine out and do not have to pay for my own dinner, I put the amount I save in my little iron bank. However," she continued, with the particularly pleasant purr that sometimes precedes a scratch, "that plan won't do you any good, will it, dear, for you are never invited out, are you?"

Cleveland & Son Sell Out

During the week Cleveland & Son sold their department store in this city to R. A. Dittmar of New Jersey. They began invoicing and Mr. Dittmar took charge at once. The new manager is a stranger in this city but we speak for him success, and are glad to welcome him in our midst.
