Even a spider's web throws a shadow.

Main street looked like an automobile parade Saturday.

An overdrawn argument usually covers a nigger in the wood pile.

Beck beer signs and garden seeds are in the show windows. Spring is here.

The new coins will have the date and head on the same side. This is a severe blow to the heads or tails crowd.

Ex-Congressman Pollard is out with a long interview giving reasons why he deserted the insurgents and voted with Speaker Cannon on the rules.

Something should be done about the city water at once. Find out what is wrong and apply the remedy without delay for the present condition is intolerable.

Mr. Bryan states that he is not an "out and out candidate for president," to which the paragrapher replies that he is right being only a "down and out" candidate.

The Tribune is in receipt of many congratulatory letters on the historical articles we are running. Among the letters received is one from United States Judge Munger and another from Supreme Judge Letton. The interest in these articles is very gratifying to us, and especially the fact that they are being read in many schools of the county.

What do you know about that democratic meeting held to force Clark and Katouc into line with Bryan's assinine position on the Carnegie pension. How many attended this mass meeting—where was it held and who called it? If rumor is correct there were but eight in attendance. A democratic mass meeting is about as big a joke as one would care to laugh over.

Although the 2nd session of the 60th congress was a short one, the congressional record shows that Senator Burkett has employed the time well. Head-dressed the senate on 32 different occasions, introduced 47 bills and joint resolutions, offered 14 amendments to proposed legislation, made six committee reports, presented 120 petitions and papers, offered four motions and resolutions, and did not miss a vote during the entire session.

Before the committee having control of the Carnegie pension bill Mr. Bryan was talking vehemently against the bill. Prof. Caldwell of the state university had nettled the peerless one with some very pointed questions.

"I do not care if not a professor in the University will speak to me," said Bryan, "I will always do what I think is right."

"I have a petition here," timidly broke in a meek old lady, "which has 45,000 names petitioning the legislature to give us state wide prohibition and we would so like to have you sign it."

"I never petition for or discuss anything not covered by my platform," replied the one who never fears to "do what is right."

But they do say the silence of the room was tangible enough to be felt.

WHAT HAVE THEY DONE?

In Friday's State Journal Col. Bixbee has the following to say in the Daily Drift column:

"An old friend of Richardson county writes to know what this legislature has accomplished for the good of Nebraska? It is a hard question to answer this early in the session. Up to the present moment very little has been done except the introduction of almost as many bills as were ever introduced in the same length of time by a previous legislature. It has reinstated the saloons at Fort Crook so that the soldier boys stationed there can get drunk without making a trip to South Omaha, and that is going some. It has made ample provisions for paying the expenses of the present session, and has blocked all measures looking toward the regulation of stock yards prices to the downtrodden shipper. It is seeking to make the revenue law of the state a little worse instead of a little better, and will probably succeed in tying the hands of the railroad commission so that nothing can be done in the way of "regulation" for at least two years and a half. It has listened to oratory, and has orated itself into the what-do-you-think-of-me-as-a-statesman? class. What do you expect for the price, anyway?"

And speaking of platforms for economy how much reliance can be put in our local democratic brethren. Wasn't something said in the county platform about doing away with primary elections? Gerdes, Clark and Katouc all voted in favor of primaries. Still the "mass meeting" congratulates Gerdes on his fidelity to platform promises. Do you remember what the local democratic platform promised about the obnoxious high school law, how it was to be repealed hands down. Well, these great promisors have not repealed it and every democratic legislator from this county is working against the repeal. Why not have another mass meeting.

Wasn't there something said during the late campaign about the republican legislature of two years ago squandering money? Were there not promises galore as to what our democratic brethren would do in the way of economy? Well, the democratic legislature is about two thirds over and the appropriations already exceed the last legislature by one and one quarter million dollars.

The two cent passenger law in Missouri was knocked out by U. S. Judge McPherson, on Monday. He held the law unconstitutional because the railroads could not pay expenses. Nebraska will probably be next.

Did you notice the two little boys who shoveled the snow off the court house walk Tuesday? They earned their money all right, and everyone had time to stop in the blizzard to say a cheery word to them.

It doesn't seem to take much to make a democratic "mass meeting." Clark and Katouc seem to be on the cornes of Hon. Henry Gerdes.

A number of eastern people are trying to live as Jesus did. A number of western people are living like the devil without any effort.

The Missouri Pacific is building shops in Atchison at a cost of a half million dollars. Ned Towle is saying nothing.

You may not have noticed the change, but Bill Taft has been sleeping in the white house for a week.

While answering the other question, why not tell us where to get a competent city clerk.

The present proposition seems to be to submit the saloon question direct.

THE CARNEGIE PENSION

Ninety per cent of the voters of Richardson County endorse the position of Messrs. Clark and Katouc on the Carnegie pension fund.

This fund is merely a sum set apart by Andrew Carnegie to pay a pension to worn out teachers when their powers are spent. These professors, next to clergymen, are the poorest paid of any class of our citizens. Theirs is the burden of preparing the youth for the work of the world, and this burden is often so great and the salary so meager that old age finds them without funds or property to provide the necessaries of life. To meet such condition this fund has been provided.

The offer was accepted by Minnesota and the bill was signed by Governor Johnson, a democrat, who seems about to assume national leadership in his party. In fact in no state outside of Nebraska has the offer been seriously opposed. But now comes Mr. Bryan, who says to the legislature, "you must not accept this fund. Mr. Carnegie is a plutocrat, an enemy of the people, he voted against me, the friend of the people," and other similar rot.

Not so many years ago Carnegie gave the city of Lincoln a $75,000 library and immediately Mr. Bryan published a picture of himself and Carnegie and related in detail how it was through his efforts that the gift was secured. That was when Mr. Bryan was seeking political strength with the people of Lincoln.

But now those of our teachers who journey down the sunset road must be deprived of this pension because, forsooth, Mr. Bryan says so, because Carnegie is not the friend of the people and, "did not vote for me."

In spite of Bryan's protest there were but 8 votes against this bill in the senate, what the house will finally do remains to be seen.

Self-Knowledge.

The last of a long line of recurring plumbers stood at the pumpless well of a suburban residence. "This well has been badly tinkered with," he announced, as others had done before him. "Half the pumping apparatus seems to be gone. Is there a sucker anywhere about the place?" "Oh, yes," replied the chastened one, "here I am."
