Hon R. A. Clark of Stella was in Falls City Monday.

See Clarence Heck for your coal this fall. Phone 101.

James B. Davis of Humboldt was a visitor here Monday.

WANTED TO BUY—Vacant lots or houses and lots in southeast part of town.—F. E. Farrington. 28-3

H. H. Drefold, a cousin of Fred Sebald, of Omaha, was in the city Sunday, visiting with Fred and making some new acquaintances.

W. H. Wylie, of the Dawson Outlook was in our city Tuesday, transacting business and attending the Sunday lecture at the chautauqua.

Hobson will be here Friday at 3 p. m. If the weather is good the management expect a larger crowd than on Tuesday.

Mrs. George Crocker and two children William Judd and Alice, are visiting at the home of her parents, N. B. Judd and wife, in this city this week.

Clyde Ramel of Newton, Kansas, came in the first of the week to visit with his parents, Jno. Ramel and wife and incidentally to attend the chautauqua.

Clare Foster came down from Plattsmouth to spend the week with his parents, Benj. Foster and wife, and assisted the Falls City ball club in their games.

Mrs. Etta Schoenheit wrote to friends here that since she and her son Lothar had arrived in Colorado Springs, that the latter's health was much improved.

Miss Anna Mason entertained the little folks of the Dorcas society of Presbyterian church on Wednesday afternoon at the chautauqua grounds with a genuine picnic dinner. Every one reports a fine time.

Dr. W. E. Trumpon is now located in Dr. Wolf's offices over Falls City State bank. While attending the chautauqua call and get acquainted and also try his facial massage. Ask your physician. Phone 267. Consultation free.

James K. McDowell of Tecumseh, but formerly of this city started some weeks ago for a western trip, and is expected home in a few days. He was accompanied by his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Jake Miller and they made the trip in a touring car.

The Misses Keeling entertained in honor of Mrs. John Hitchings Thursday evening. Progressive whist was the method of entertainment, three tables being played. Mrs. H. Pence was the lucky one, receiving a beautiful framed picture for her skill. Refreshments were served.

H. L. Morrow left Wednesday for Excelsior Springs, where he will spend a week before returning to his duties as manager of the Pittsburg office for the DuPont Powder Co. Mrs. Morrow and Lucretia will spend the rest of the week here with her parents, W. S. Korner and wife, before returning home.

Another law passed by the last legislature has been declared void. This is the premium package law, which makes it unlawful for merchants to sell food packages in which there is a slip entitling the customer to a premium. A test case was tried in the Lancaster district court and the law was held by the judge to be unconstitutional.—Auburn Republican.

Dr. J. S. Wilson of Auburn moved to this city last week and has taken up his residence in H. L. Laflin's house on Main street. The doctor has commenced building operations on his farm south of town and is moving to this place for the purpose of enabling him to oversee the work in person. He is putting up a cottage 26x28, and other improvements will follow when the house is completed.—Crab Orchard Herald. Dr. Wilson is a brother of our Dr. M. L. Wilson. There are three doctors in the Wilson family.

Delay in commencing treatment for a slight irregularity that could have been cured quickly by Foley's Kidney Remedy may result in a serious kidney disease. Foley's Kidney Remedy builds up the worn out tissues and strengthens these organs. Kerr's Pharmacy.

The world's most successful medicine for bowel complaints is Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It has relieved more pain and suffering, and saved more lives than any other medicine in use. Invaluable for children and adults. Sold by all druggists.

On last Saturday, Frank C. Alley, who has been conducting a drug store for the past two years at Howe, was suddenly stricken with a mental disorder, and was taken to Auburn. As he showed symptoms of becoming violent, there being no other suitable place, he was confined in a cell at the city jail, and nurses provided by the physician in charge. The cause of the attack is laid at the door of a "tobacco cure," which Mr. Alley was taking in order to rid himself of the smoking habit.

Volume 1, No. 1, of the Dawson Outlook came to our exchange table this week. It is a bright, clean, newsy little "sheet" and a credit to the nice little village of Dawson. Dawson merchants should patronize it generously and encourage the publisher, the two thereby working wonders to the betterment of the town.

Stella people are very loud in their praise of the artistic work Miss Alice Cleaver has been doing at that town the past few weeks. Miss Cleaver is at home this week attending chautauqua and taking a rest. She will return to Stella after chautauqua and continue with her work at that place.

George Reichers this week comes forward announcing himself a candidate for county treasurer subject to the approval of the republicans at the coming primary. Mr. Reichers is well known in and around Humboldt and will without doubt receive much help from this end of the county.—Humboldt Leader.

The little child of Mr. and Mrs. Al Beidler, who lives northeast of Verdon, drank the contents of a can partly filled with kerosene, one day the latter part of last week. A physician was hastily summoned, who applied an antidote and the child was soon out of danger.—Auburn Republican.

Stella people have decided upon August 26th and 27th as the dates for their annual Mid-Summer Festival. They are planning on big things. Besides a colt show, which will be one of the main features, an automobile parade will be given.

Mrs. A. E. Gantt of Falls City was a guest of her sister, Mrs. Will Davis and family a short time the latter part of last week.—Humboldt Leader.

Dr. M. L. Wilson of Falls City was in town a short time Wednesday afternoon.—Humboldt Leader.

J. L. Daibey of the Shubert Citizen came down Monday to transact some business and attend the chautauqua. He took occasion to see our new machine and we wouldn't be surprised if he ordered one for the Citizen, since seeing cures.

E. G. Whitford and family returned Tuesday from their visit to the Seattle exposition and the northwest country. He brought back a good coat of tan as proof that the sun does shine out there.

Mrs. Todge McKiever and Mrs. Less Leeds were called to Rulo last Thursday evening by the sad news that their brother, Lesley Cronin had been drowned in the Missouri river that day.

Mrs. Sue E. DeWald of this city, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. M. D. Lam at Diller, went to Auburn last week and spent several days with her daughter, Mrs. John Conner.

The Falls City postmaster has issued warning to persons who have been sending anonymous post cards with malicious intent.—Humboldt Leader.

Mrs. Carrie Paxton entertained Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lawrence and daughter from St. Louis this week.

Mrs. Thomas Plumb of this city spent a couple of weeks in Rulo with her sister, Mrs. Ada Bowker.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chesley have returned home from a two weeks' visit with friends in Kansas City.

John Kimmel of Morrill, Kas., spent Tuesday with his brother, Samuel, and family in this city.

Parties at Hiawatha are contemplating organizing a creamery stock company, with $20,000 stock.

The town has been full of out-of-town people every fair-weather day this week.

AGED MAN INJURED.

Horses, Frightened at Automobile, Ran Away—A Leg Broken.

Special from Nims City:

On Tuesday of last week as J. G. McGinnis was coming in with a load of hay he met Frank Nims in his automobile. Mr. Nims waited for the signal to pass, but when Mr. McGinnis attempted to start his team one of the horses acted badly, and being at a great disadvantage on the load, he could not control them. They ran a short distance, when one horse stopped abruptly, with the result that the wagon was overturned. Mr. McGinnis sustained a broken leg, just below the knee, one bone being broken and the other splintered.

Drs. Hays and Burgher were quickly brought by Mr. Nims and they made him as comfortable as possible. He is past sixty years of age and for some time has been meditating taking a rest from the hard work of the farm, but had no desire to take it in this way. However, he bears his enforced confinement bravely and his many friends hope to see him up and around soon.

No blame is attached to Mr. Nims.

"Bill or Billy."

A bouncing baby boy arrived at this editors home Monday at dinner time. Mother and son doing nicely, and so is "dad," to the best of our knowledge. We supposed we would need a larger hat than heretofore worn, but don't notice much difference so will have to be content with the old lid that's been giving us service for the past decade or two. We've named him (the boy of course) William—expect to call him Bill, or Billy. He will not be a country editor, but is expected to be a great ball player, and we have hopes of him being in one of the major league teams playing fast ball some of these days, while "dad" will be in the grandstand rooting for the "home team" to beat the band.—Shickley Herald (Paper published by Tom Palmer, formerly of this city.)

Demand for Horses.

Col. Marion of Falls City was in Morrill Friday advertising a horse sale to be held in Falls City Saturday, July 24. He returned recently from a two days' horse sale in Omaha, and was greatly pleased with the result. He says the outlook for men with horses to sell is fine. Mr. Marion has had a great deal of experience as an auctioneer, and is an excellent man to employ to sell property at auction. He is booking a large number of sales for the coming fall and winter.—Morrill News.

Hard Luck.

Ed May, proprietor of the Lyric theater, is in hard luck. He owns a farm of 160 acres in Lincoln county, Kas. The farm was planted to 100 acres of wheat and the rest of it to corn. He had prospects of one of the best wheat yields that the county ever knew and this week he received a letter from his tenant to the effect that a wind and hail storm had swept through the county and destroyed all the crop and he will receive no revenue from it this year.—Auburn Republican.

Soldiers Attention.

All the old soldiers of Falls City and vicinity are requested to attend the chautauqua on Friday afternoon, July 30th, when Lieutenant Hobson will speak.

We will assemble at the G. A. R. tent in the park and at 1:45 p. m. sharp form in line, with the colors, and march into the auditorium where front seats will be in reserve.

Let as many as possible attend.
JOHN L. CLEAVER,
Post Commander.

Lost.

Between Verdon and Humboldt on last Monday night. A rain coat, size No. 44, dark gray color, practically new. Finder will be liberally rewarded by notifying me at Humboldt, Nebraska. Dr. J. A. Wagner.

Strayed.

Three white hogs, weighing about 150 pounds each. Left my place last Friday night. Any information concerning them will be thankfully received.
Route No. 1. A. CROFFORD.

BIG ENROLLMENT AT COLLEGE.

Prof. Darner Has Been Busy Preparing For Large Attendance.

Prof. H. L. Darner seems well satisfied with prospects for the business college this year. He has recently returned from Blue Springs and Wymore and tells us that he will have several students from that part of the state.

The Professor is a hustler and by the time school begins will have been in almost every town in this part of the state, scattering his printed matter and talking "school" to any who might be interested.

Democratic Pow-Wow.

The democracy of the county congregated in the court house Monday in the form of a convention. There was quite a "bunch" down from the west end and they with a few local democrats and the delegation from Stella and Shubert, made up the thirty odd in attendance.

R. A. Clark of Stella was made chairman—and there was an undercurrent visible which showed plainly that it didn't suit some of the democratic bosses to see Ralph there.

The following delegates were selected to go to the state convention at Lincoln Tuesday: R. A. Clark, G. E. Hall, J. S. Lord, Henry Gerdes, E. A. Harden, H. C. Davis, J. H. Morehead, Hugh O'Grady.

J. S. Lord was chosen chairman of the county central committee.

Notice to Property Owners.

Wanted concrete sidewalks. Remember that the street paving which will commence at once will in no way interfere with our sidewalk work as we intend to keep the same men on sidewalk work at all times, so place your orders at once and proper attention will be given same. Also remember we will use fresh cement direct from the mills in our work at all times. The attached letter will prove this statement.

Omaha, Neb., July 23, 1909.—Mr. C. H. Heineman, Falls City, Neb.—Dear Sir—Your order has been received and entered on our books given us verbally July 22, 1909 for 2000 bbls Sunflour cement to be shipped on call—C. W. Hull & Co.

This order guarantees us fresh cement at all times.

Don't Worry.

To the Tribune:
The Journal, after commenting on the outcome of the Hiawatha Chautauqua, expresses a doubt about the financial success of the Falls City Chautauqua because of lack of greater "publicity" in the Journal.

Perhaps the Journal doesn't know that $250.00 has been spent for "printer's ink" already. Perhaps the Journal doesn't know that the receipts for the first half of the Falls City Chautauqua equaled the total receipts of the Hiawatha Chautauqua. And, perhaps the Journal doesn't know that the expense of the Falls City Chautauqua is $1,000 greater than that of Hiawatha. "All's well that ends well," so don't worry dear Journal—more people are killed by worry than by work.

Republican Convention.

Pursuant to call of County Chairman Holland the republicans "got together" at the court house last Saturday afternoon and in a short time J. R. Cain, Jr. of Stella was made chairman of the county central committee and George W. Holland was selected as treasurer. A. J. Weaver was recommended for a member of the state central committee from this district.

The following delegates were elected as delegates to the state convention held in Lincoln on Tuesday, July 27: J. R. Cain, Jr., W. S. Korner, G. W. Holland, J. P. King, Sam'l Hancock, W. H. Hogrefe, John Hossack, John Boss, O. L. Bantz, A. J. Weaver, I. Reavis, W. P. Fergus, D. B. Ratekin and G. W. Duerfeldt.

Strayed or Stolen.

My eighteen-months old Scotch-Collie female dog disappeared from my farm several days ago. Any information as to her whereabouts will be generously rewarded.

A Midsummer Day's Dream

With a swish and a dash and a double-width smile, the Typewriter Lady burst into the office.

"O, girls, hello—I mean—good—morning—I'm—talking—about! Let me get my things off. There, that's better. Now, guess what I've done!" And the Typewriter Lady beamed about her.

"Got married."

"Got a raise."

"Got a bargain hat."

"No, you silly children. Something much better. I've been offered a house in the country for the summer." And the T. L. seated herself triumphantly and played a barcarolle on her machine, with variations.

"There's 'a' lady at our boarding house who owns this lovely old place in the country. The people she rents it to are going abroad for the summer and my sister and I are to have it free for the whole season, just for taking care of it.

"We're just waiting for salary day, so we can buy the few things we'll need for it. You see it isn't quite completely furnished—that is, we'll need a few porch chairs and some extra table linen, and some bath fixtures. The bath fixtures are my idea. I always did have a perfect craze for bath fixtures.

"You can all come and spend week ends. Why, I can hardly wait for the first of the month to buy my commutation ticket. And, say, I understand there's a summer school out there for young men! Aha, I thought that'd bring out a few sparkles indicating interest. I think it's sort of a preparatory school where they get them ready for college—and you know boys that are being prepared for college usually have fathers who aren't exactly what you'd call poor. Oh, I have a perfectly glorious summer planned."

"I say, Hortense," chimed in the One Practical Girl, "have you been out to see the place?"

"Not yet. We're going Saturday afternoon, so as to be there when they deliver the porch chairs and the linen and the bathroom accessories."

The One Practical Girl smiled inscrutably. "Once upon a time," said she, "I bought a suit through seeing it illustrated in the back of a magazine. It was a perfectly grand suit—in the picture. My wash-lady is wearing it. Every time I see it on her I have pangs of conscience to think how I made a fellow creature a victim to something I wouldn't tolerate myself. She has never reproached me in words. She just persistently wears the suit—the moral of this tale being that you never can tell until you see things." And the One Practical Girl went on sharpening her lead pencil.

On Monday morning the Typewriter Lady's desk remained closed. The girls had been breathlessly awaiting her account of the country paradise, of how the porch looked garnished with its new chairs, of the splendor of the nickel soap dish, the towel racks, the dollar-twenty-nine-reduced-from-one-fifty-shower bath, and all the rest that was to bring summer refreshment to the city-worn office ladies.

At noon came Hortense, wearing the blank expression of a magellan whose trick has gone awry—who has failed to make the rabbits come out of the hat—and who dreads the jeers of the audience. One could see with half an eye that the tears were being held back with a mighty effort. The One Practical Girl slipped her arm swiftly around her shoulder.

"Don't you care, Hortense, I bet I know just exactly what's happened. Didn't I buy that suit out of the magazine? But, I say, don't you care. You can make up what you're out of pocket by having ten-cent lunches, same as I did for a couple of months, and you'll feel all the better for it, I—"

"It isn't the money," wailed the downcast one, "half so much as it is the meanness of that woman misrepresenting things to me like that. I remember her distinctly mentioning 'the tub.' The tub! It makes me rage when I think of it! Imagine the picture of my nickel plated soap rack attached to the side of a disintegrating wooden washtub, and my perfectly grand patent nozzle shower bath hooked on to the branch of a tree somewhere, rigged up over the tub—"

"Hortense!!!"

"In a tent, in a tent, of course! There wasn't any bathroom! And the porch chairs! Oh, girls, it makes me weep to think of my beautiful porch chairs sitting out in the middle of the dusty road, being run over every minute by automobiles! They'd have to sit there, you see, for there wasn't any porch! And the front door opened right on to the road. And as for table linen! What would be the use of table linen if you had to eat canned food all the time? You could just make a picnic of it and have it out in the woods, or anywhere, for all they had was a coal stove to cook on, and I'd rather go without eating than to have to make fires and things every night when I get home. And the preparatory school? Oh, girls, oh, girls! I hope none of you have really set your hearts on that part of it! The preparatory school is for boys under fifteen. Pass the smelling salts!"

"I've 'been the whole morning going the rounds of the stores trying to make them take back the bath fixtures and the porch chairs and the table linen. But all I ask now is to be allowed to stay in town all summer, close to an electric light, the boarding house table and a bath tub!"

SURPRISES SURPRISED.

Perpetrators of Surprise Did Not Find Their Victim.

Special from Stella.

Monday was John Tolly's birthday and his relatives planned a surprise for him. They all went to his home in the forenoon to take dinner, but to their surprise he was in Falls City and did not get home until evening. The family had a fine time together however.

Dr. Greene has been making regular trips to Salem the past few days to attend Hollis Stouffer, who became overheated last week and has been very sick. He is reported to be getting better.—Salem Index.
