An illustrated address by W. A.
Baldwin of Lincoln, state secretary, N. C. M. S. Subject, "The Evolution of the Church of Christ."

This lecture will be illustrated with about 100 views showing the wonderful growth of the Christian Church in the past twenty-five years, which is a challenge to the religious world in growth and missionary enterprise.

Come and bring your friends. Come early and help reach our aim—300 in the Bible School. Motto: "I Will be There." Remember the date. The fellowship will be delightful. YOU be sure and come. Christian Church, Sunday, September 19, 1909.

persons interested in said matter may appear at the County court in and for said county, and show cause why the prayer of petitioner should not be granted; and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Falls City Tribune, a weekly newspaper printed at Falls City in said county, for three successive weeks, prior to said day

Legal Notice.

IN THE RICHARDSON COUNTY DIS-TRICT COURT, STATE OF NEBR-ASKA.

Etta Curran, Plaintiff,
vs.
William Curran, Defendant.

Notice.

The said defendant will take notice that on the 11th day of September, 1909, plaintiff filed in the district court of Richardson County, Nebraska, her petition against said defendant wherein she prays for an absolute divorce from said defendant on the grounds that said defendant has willfully, grossly and cruelly failed and neglected to support plaintiff and his family, and for the custody of the four minor children, to-wit: Bessie, Bennie, Violet and Clarence. You will plead, answer or demur to said petition on or before the 25th day of October, 1909, or the allegations therein will be taken as true and confessed and decree rendered accordingly. ETTA CURRAN, Plaintiff.

VACATION TRIP TO ALASKA

Their homes are frame houses, well furnished, often built high upon the mountain side but always close to a stream.

The mountains extend the full length of the coast, the cities and villages nestling in the little valleys along the beach. These mountains are ragged and rough, beautiful and majestic, forming one long panorama that beggars description. Here one is overwhelmed by the wonders and grandeur of nature and the soul is thrilled by the beauties that tongue and pen fail to portray.

Beyond the mountains in the interior, the country is more level and the finest kind of wheat fields cover thousands of acres.

Each year discovers some new grain or fruit that can be adapted to the Alaskan climate, for the resources of the country are not yet dreamed of. The illusion that this is purely a land of ice and snow is fast disappearing and as the natural resources and advantages become better known, new industries spring up and ere many years pass by it will be reckoned for its power and importance in Pacific Coast trade.

Much more might be written of the people, their customs, modes of life, the beautiful legends that tell so much of their history and beliefs; of the interesting people one meets, the life for twelve days aboard the steamer or boat of which the captain's dinner the last night out is the chief social event; the dozens of incidents that go to make such a trip one long, lasting memory for both its pleasures and benefits. But enough. The account has been given for the friends who seemed interested and asked for an outline of the trip. It is a pleasure for Miss Maddox and Miss Keeling to give it. It will be a greater pleasure to converse with their friends and show them the few souvenirs that they brought back that might be of interest.
