Gagnon vs. Scott

John Gagnon has been in the county judge's office since "the Lord knows when." "Dick" James tried to pry him loose, and would have succeeded had it not been that the "program of the bosses" couldn't see it that way. The machine was busy, as is evidenced by the vote at Barada—James 9, Gagnon 31—and James, a "young aspirant, had no place in the ring." "The program of the bosses" is that Gagnon should eat at the public crib the rest of his natural life. What about "always an office holder?"

A. R. Scott has NOT held an elective office for eighteen years. Scott is a good, honest, upright man, and justice would be meted out by him, if he were elected, regardless of enemy or friend. He is NOT owned, body and soul, by ANY clique.

Boston Ideal Comic Opera Co. Coming

An exceptionally strong cast, a wealth of beautiful costumes, pretty girls and funny comedians are among the promises made concerning "The Boston Ideals" which comes to the Gehling opera house. This is the same company that created such a stir in theatrical circles lately. Indeed the company has scored such a triumph that numerous reasons have been advanced why the performances have been so well attended and critics have endeavored to discover the cause of their popularity. The real secret to success, however, is due to the clever cast and the capable manner in which all their operas are staged. And the Boston Ideal Co. which will be presented here is one requiring elaborate costuming and it is said the requirements have been filled to the letter. "One night only," Friday, October 29 in "Said Pasha."
