But what is more, Cain did not advise his son to "go west, and get out of the old dead town." He name the city after him, believed in it. worked for it, bought his goods there and kept his money at home. Does anybody suppose that when strangers came to Enoch, (name of the city) with any notion of going into business there, Cain told them it was a "dead old town," that it was established by a murderer, that the water was bad; its merchants all sharks, and its mechanics botchesthat the town was not healthy and would "never amount to anything no Does anybody suppose that when he wanted to invest a few dollars in dry goods he hustled off to the city, or that he only went to the merchants of "Enoch" when he wanted a favor-wanted "a little time?"

Do you think he ever went away from home to get clothing that could be had at better rates in "Enoch' than elsewhere, or to Cincinnati for cheap buggies when the "home dealer" could meet every demand with more stylish and substantial rigs?

SPORT IN HOOKING 'GATORS

Also Is a Pastime That Has a Considerable Amount of Danger Mixed With It.

"Hunting alligators at night with a bullseye lantern and shotgun is tame sport compared with what is called a 'gator hunt down in Florida," said an old Floridian. "I mean the feat of capturing an alligator alive and then towing the fellow to high ground through mud and water from what is called in Florida a gator hole.

"The 'gator fishermen first find the hole, which is indicated by an openis evident that he did not sit around ing in the surrounding grass in the midst of a dense growth of vegetation, where the ground is worn smooth by the alligator in his pulls in and are in the nature of a cave in the bank of a stream and may be 15 or land of his birth, he did not mope 20 feet deep, and if so it is not an

"The fisher is supplied with a long pole with a metal book in the end. He takes a strong rope and throws it about the entrance of the hole. At this juncture Roosevelt's monkey hunting in Africa is not in it compared to 'gator hunting in the Florida

"Then the fisher rams with the hooked pole down the den and waits and listens. If he finds the 'gator in the hole he teases the beast by picking him until the 'gator in a rage finally grabs the hooked pole and is pulled from the den. It is with uncertainty that he is dragged forth, for it is not known whether the catch is a large or small one; the fisher does not know whether to get into shape to run or to fight. But out the 'gator comes, bellowing and roaring mad.

"After the 'gator is dragged to the surface he in his rage turns and rolls and finally twists himself up in the rope or noose that has been previously prepared. With the assistance of the others in the party the 'gator's legs and mouth are tied and the 'gator is a prisoner.

"The 'gator is for the most part caught in marshes where the ground is soft and slushy and too wet for either horse or wagon to enter. The fishers are compelled to carry their catch to higher ground, there to be loaded into the waiting wagon, and the hunt is ended.
