SHEEP AND THE REED FLUTE

Herders of Palestine Have Accustomed Their Animals to the Sound of Weira Music.

The pastoral life of the Palestine peasant has always been a subject of interest and a pleasant study. The shepherd is seen at his best in the spring when he has the care of both sheep and lambs and when all his thoughts are centered on his seemingly idyllic occupation.

Work for the shepherd begins in earnest with the lambing season, which commences early in January and continues for two or three months; during that time it is unusual sight to see the shepherd with several newly born lambs or kids stored away in the capacious folds of his bosom and the mothers in close attendance.

"When heavy storms of snow or rain come on the shelter of some cave has to be sought and a careful watch against the attacks of wild animals kept. This watchfulness is not relaxed on a fine day, and the long hours on the hillsides or plains are willed away in making music on the reed flute, of which every shepherd is the maker and player.

The music is an assurance to the sheep that the shepherd is on the alert; let the music cease for any length of time and the flock will stop grazing and look around for their caretaker and leader. At night the sheep are folded around the village or camp to which they belong. The fold is a large inclosure, the wall of which is made up of good sized stones piled one on another. There is only one entrance, which is narrow, for the sheep as they enter have to "pass under the rod" so that the owner may count them and see that none are missing.

To find good pasture and a quiet resting place is the daily duty of the shepherd, and in the long summer days the flock rests during the heat by some stream or under the shadow of a great rock. Each sheep has its name, to which it will respond on being called by its keeper. In southern Palestine the flocks are tended by girls and women, but in other parts by youths and men.—Sunday at Home.

Sirius the Master Sun?

Astronomers once believed that the entire starry universe revolved around a center of attraction and the star named Alcyone, in the group of the Pleiades, was selected by Maedler as marking that great center. It has long been known, however, that Maedler's conclusion, which was based on the apparent motions of the stars, was incorrect and if any universal center exists it has not yet been discovered. In fact, many of the stars seem to be moving in straight lines, some in one direction and some in another; and among these is our own sun. But it is possible that further observations will show that all the stars are really moving in curved lines. In the meantime it has been found that there are certain groups or sets of stars which appear to travel together. To what set, if any, the sun belongs, we do not yet know, but Delauney has presented reasons for thinking that those stars whose distances have been measured (that is to say, those which are nearest to us), group themselves around Sirius, the dog star, in a manner similar to that in which the inner planets are grouped around the sun. If this be correct, Sirius may possibly be the master sun of which our orb of day is a distant satellite.—Harper's Weekly.

Microbe Causes Lockjaw.

Lockjaw, known to medical men as tetanus, is one of those terrible maladies which occasion great suffering and baffle the best attempts of the profession to successfully treat them. Commencing with stiffness of the jaw muscles, tetanus quickly goes on to produce violent convulsions, which utterly exhaust its victim's strength, while preventing him from taking food, owing to his being unable to open his mouth; hence its more popular designation of "lockjaw." Investigations have shown that this dreadful disease is due to a microbe which commonly exists in ordinary soil and the surface mud of the streets, which habitually explains the reason why tetanus frequently attacks persons who have been injured in street accidents and had their wounds contaminated with refuse and dust from the roadway. Although no certain cure for tetanus is yet known, progress is being made with injections of "anti-tetanic serum."

The Father of Waters.

It was in the year 1519—129 years before the Mayflower reached Plymouth rock—that the Mississippi was first seen by the eyes of a white man. Proof was already at hand that Florida was not an island, for in 1519 Alvarez de Pineda had followed that coast as far as the site of Tampico in Mexico, where he found Cortez and his men. Pineda then turned back and after a while entered the mouth of the Mississippi, which he called Rio de Santa Espiritu. He seems to have been the first European to sail upon this great river. How far he ascended it is not clear, but he spent six weeks upon its banks trading with the Indians.—John Fiske.

Breaking the News.

The widow—Wouldn't you like me to read your palm?
The Man—Delighted! Now, tell me something of my future.
The Widow—Your future is to be a very happy one.
The Man—How do you know?
The Widow—I am going to marry you.—Houston Post.

WARREN TOPPAN, Lynn, Mass.

Cured of severe compound cold and cough by

Vinol

"From Dec. 20, '08, to March 1, '09, I had three bad colds, one on top of the other. I got so weak I could hardly get around. Nothing seemed to help me until I began to take Vinol. The change was magic. Three bottles completely fixed that compound cold and stopped the terrible cough—and what surprises me most, at the same time it cured me of a severe stomach trouble that has bothered me for 20 years. Vinol is certainly a wonderful medicine."

Mr. Toppan is one of Lynn's most prominent and highly respected merchants, whose word is as good as his bond.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains the two most world-famed tonics—the medicinal, strengthening, body-building elements of Cod Liver Oil and Tonic Iron.
