Fairbury booze joints are having a hard time of it. The police up there are on their trail and making it exceedingly hot for them. Nothing like that ever happens in Falls City, if ever a delinquent is hauled up for his sins, it is because he was awkward enough to let himself be caught and not because of any effort to enforce the laws. In other words in Falls City punishment is meted out with a view to save the face of the administration and not for the good of the offender, nor to satisfy violated law.

WAS EQUAL TO THE OCCASION

Sergeant's Military Instinct Enabled Him to Cope With Entirely Unfamiliar Situation.

While looking for pirates along the Chinese coast, Admiral John Moresby encountered some strange adventures and some that were ludicrous. One of his experiences he describes in "Two Admirals."

When visiting the mandarin of Tien Pach, he with his blue button, robes and attendants, 1 with our paymaster, gunner, and a guard of ten marines and a sergeant, tea was offered to us, and accepted as a matter of course. Then, in an access of politeness, the attendant proceeded with the tea to the guard, stiffly drawn up in the courtyard, the men with rifles shouldered.

The sergeant looked round distractedly for guidance; he had no precedent for a tea party on duty. The men stared with cool contempt at the spoonful of acid tea.

Fearing lest a refusal might be an affront, I hastily said, "Sergeant, let the men take it."

He looked at me for an instant with a long, horrified look of remonstrance; then, stepping to the front as if drilling, he gave the word:

"Order arms! Ground arms! Take the cups! Drink the tea!"

Like Wordsworth's "forty feeding like one," they grasped the cups and with a single gesture, emptied them down their throats.

Next came the stately commands:

"Return the cups! Take up arms! Shoulder arms!"

It was done. The sergeant was himself again; he felt he had been equal to the occasion, and I stifled my unseasonable laughter in a cough and a handkerchief.—Youth's Companion.

KEPT HIS PRESENCE OF MIND

Colored Man Believed in and Practised Making the Most of Adversity.

A group of men were discussing human nature and the difficulty of looking always on the bright and glittering side of things when the dingy, dark brown side is uppermost and seems destined to remain uppermost.

"It's a great thing to cultivate a disposition to make the most of things in this life," remarked one of the group. "The most striking illustration I ever had of that was in a big horse race at a county fair down the state about ten years ago. The man driving alongside of me let his horse swerve on the back stretch and my sulky was upset. That caused a general mixup and a colored driver right behind me got unloaded and his sulky broken to pieces. Well, I lay there for a minute and then as I didn't seem to be much hurt, I started to get up."

"Hey, boss, don't you go gittin' up," yelled the colored driver at me, excitedly.

"Why?" I asked him, somewhat puzzled.

"'Cause," he answered, "y' all lay right what' yo' is, and in a minute they'll sen' roun' 'yah and haul us back pas' the gran' stan' in a cal-hilage."

"Sure enough, they did," says Albright. "And when we drove up that home stretch in the open hack they sent after us, that colored man was the happiest person I ever saw. Now, that's what I call making the most of things."

How to Hunt Wolves in India.

The authorities of Harzibagh are inviting sportsmen to help in the extermination of a pack of wolves which have established a reign of terror in the neighborhood, according to the Allahabad (India) Pioneer. The reward is at present 50 rupees for each full grown wolf. Eleven children have been killed between February 7 and 23 in the tract lying between Barhi and Cohwparan police stations, a distance of 13 miles. The wolves hunt from early morning till noon and again from two o'clock till sunset.

The authorities make the following suggestions: Sportsmen should not attempt to ride up to the wolves. When the pack is sighted the sportsman should send away his pony and his attendants and should approach them leisurely and alone. He should wear a turban and make himself look as like a peasant as possible. The rifle should be carried as if it were a stick.

When Wine is Not Wine.

The Paris wine merchant who has received six months' imprisonment for selling adulterated sauterne should have taken expert advice before embarking on his career of crime. Herman, the dramatist, who in early life had a high reputation as a chemist, was once called to give evidence regarding a certain brand of wine. As he testified that it was wholly innocent of grape juice, the merchant was heavily fined. On coming out of court the defendant asked Herman, "How is it that you were able to swear so positively that there is no grape-juice in that stuff of mine?" "Because if there had been any, in combination with the other elements you used, it would have caused tartaric acid to form on the barrel." "Thank you so much," replied the enlightened adulterator. "You'll find some on the barrel next time."

Not Interested.

"Do you believe in corporal punishment?" inquired the professor.

"Really," replied Mrs. Cumrox, "I never discuss my husband's business affairs. I leave these corporation questions entirely to the financiers and the lawyers."

Sold On Its Merit

THE "CROWN" PIANO

IN A SPHERE OF ITS OWN!

We sell the Crown Piano on its merits. We can show you point by point where the Crown Piano is superior to any other piano you can buy at any price. Remember your piano is the most important purchase you will ever make for your home. It costs but little more, if any, to be sure that it is a good one. We sell the Crown on terms as easy as any good piano can be offered to people who know the difference between a questionable "inducement" and real piano value for their money. Many inferior pianos will cost you more than a Crown. Price does not determine value. I've sold Crown Pianos in this territory for 16 years. That is good evidence of their merit.

I also handle Strech & Zeldler, Pease and Concord Pianos. These instruments are strictly high grade and too fine to be peddled from house to house through the country, as a great many dealers do. That alone is proof enough that they are a cheap grade of pianos. Anyone contemplating buying a piano in the near future we will be pleased to have call and inspect our pianos.
