Only a Dollar Now.

The Lincoln Daily Journal has cut the price to a dollar from now until January 1, 1911, without Sunday. The big Sunday paper will be added for only a quarter extra, therefore most people will no doubt take the $1.25 worth. This makes an exceedingly low price during a specially interesting time, as nearly every family will want a Lincoln paper during the next few months. The State Journal's reputation as a free, independent, clean newspaper will prove of special advantage during the warm campaign now begun. The paper stops when the time is up without any notice from you whatever, so that you see it is no plan to get you started and then force the paper on you.

Why not try a dollar's worth at this cut price.

The Telepost.

Omaha, Aug. 31.—The transmission of a message from Mayor Dahlman to Mayor Brown of Kansas City, felicitating with him on the establishment of a new, more economic and more rapid means of intercourse between the two cities, the Telepost system of automatic telegraphy was formally inaugurated this afternoon between this city and Kansas City, Sedalia, Mo., St. Louis, Springfield, Ill., Chicago, Terre Haute, Indianapolis, and Louisville.
