THE SQUARE DEAL.

The old year is fast drawing to a close, and it is quite fitting that with the closing of the year old differences and accounts be closed also. The Tribune is putting forth strenuous efforts to get the old books balanced. Their are several reasons for this.

During the past year the personnel of the Tribune office has undergone many changes. Necessarily this has given cause for a general readjustment of business relations.

Every beginning has its difficulties and the matter of finances is one of the most serious. The office needs the money that is outstanding. It is needed to maintain the integrity of the business and for improvements. Our friends and well-wishers will be glad to contribute their part to help carry this work forward successfully.

Then we have a notion that Nebraskans appreciate and enjoy most, what they have already paid for. We are meanly selfish enough to wish our subscribers all the possible good they can get out of the Tribune. Therefore for their sakes as well as our own we urge the advisability of the prompt settlement of subscription dues. It is only a small matter for each subscriber to meet his portion, but it amounts to a living with us. It is the Commissary Department of our fighting force. And when subscriptions delay the outcome of our work is jeopardized.

This may only be a foolish fancy, nevertheless the present management is ambitious of establishing a 'one price' print shop in Falls City. That is, one rate for all, and special concessions to none. We are not blind to the ugly fact that our efforts thus far to do "the square deal" have lost us valued patronage. However, we shall fight for the integrity of our rates and have assurance that all fair minded citizens are with us.

Merchants advertising in the Tribune will prefer to find their trade with the pay-as-you-go people. It is a reasonable conclusion that the person who neglects his subscription bill will neglect other bills.

We feel that we are doing our advertising patrons a service in weeding out delinquent subscribers and it should be some satisfaction for the dealer to know that he is not advertising for undesirable customers.

We desire to bring our mailing list strictly up to the requirements of the U. S. postal laws when they insist only legitimate subscribers are entitled to receive papers at second class rates. A legitimate subscriber is one who pays regularly.

While the Tribune is sturdily tugging at the yoke, will the good citizens not lay to occasionally and help jolt the car of public progress forward a pace or two. Do it now and do it again.

THE SANTA FE BARS CIGARETTE

The Santa Fe R. R. Company has sent notice to all its employees that they no longer desire the service of men who persist in smoking cigarettes. With the beginning of December the order became effective, already a number of men have felt its effects and received their discharge. And for no other reason than that they persisted in their right to smoke the coffin-nails. The company does not feel that it can compel a man to quit smoking, but they do know that they can dispense with his service, and that to good advantage.

When one of the big railroads of the country takes such a radical action it is time for common people to take notice. They have learned that smoking unfits a man for the trying duties of rail roading. It beclouds his mind, his eye is neither clear or quick and sure, his nerves want steadiness and the whole man lacks that indispensable quality called dependability. Hereafter boys on the Santa Fe must cut the "nails" or lose their jobs. Which?

MRS. MARY BAKER G. EDDY.

Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy has at last succumbed to what members of her faith call error—or speaking plainly death. Though a frail woman all her life, she has reached a ripe old age and retained her powers of mind to the last. She was truly a remarkable woman, and succeeded in stamping her personality upon a movement that has become worldwide. However we may differ from her in belief, we must honor and respect her for what she has accomplished. She had the ability of the true leader, and was not only able to gather followers about her and command their willing service but what is more difficult, she was able to hold them to the end. There are thousands of Christian Scientists who all but worship her. Now that she is dead and no longer the guiding genius of the church, her followers will be face to face with a new era in their organization.

The High School entertainment course is meeting with much favor with the citizens of the town. The first two numbers have not only been well attended but only complimentary comments are heard from those who attended. We are glad of this. It not only insures the success of the course this year, but it also indicates the citizens of Falls City are able to appreciate good entertainment and will support it.

The effort to give the fire boys some compensation for their work and especially for the losses they suffered is to be commended and should receive generous support.

Read the President's message on another page. It contains food for reflection. It is not for the primary purpose of pleasing and offers suggestions that will keep congress busy until spring.

Thus far the English elections have been going in favor of the Liberals. It is worthy of note, that when Parliament was unwilling or unable to pass needed legislation that august body was dissolved and on election called all within the short space of a few weeks.

The Tribune desires a correspondent in each school district in the county. This offers an excellent opportunity for wide-awake boys and girls to cultivate the art of discriminate correspondence. Send your name and address to The Tribune, we will give you the necessary instructions.

Presbyterian Church Notes

It was a matter of sincere regret to us that our splendid organ was put out of commission last Sunday owing to a break down at the garage where the current for the motor is generated. All is well again now and we expect a good day next Sabbath. The pastor will preach morning and evening and we will have special music at each service.

On Thursday evening, Dec. 15, Dr. Francis F. Tucker will deliver a splendid stereopticon lecture in the First Presbyterian church on "China, a Field of Opportunity." Knowing how thoroughly competent Dr. Tucker is by education and by experience this lecture and these pictures will appeal to all. A small charge for admission will be made and the proceeds given to the building fund of the new church. You cannot afford to miss this.

During the time of the exhibit of Chinese and Japanese curios in the First Presbyterian church lately, a number of people expressed a wish to buy some of the articles seen. I am glad to say that the Drs. Tucker have now consented to put a display of these articles in the basement of our church on Friday and Saturday, December 16 and 17 and offer for sale at prices that will make them sell fast. Furthermore, these good people will donate all the proceeds of this sale to the building fund of their new hospital in China. Therefore one will not only get an opportunity to buy nice unique Christmas presents, but will also be helping to send the Christmas spirit to far away China where it is more needed.—R. Cooper Bailey, Pastor.

Basket Ball.

In the basket ball game at Tecumseh last Friday night honors again fell to our girls' High School team. They clearly out-classed the Tecumseh team and had things about their own way. The score was 41 to 5. All the girls played a fine game and it would be almost an injustice to mention any individual play because good work was the order throughout. The girls say the Tecumseh girls are good to play against.

The line up this year is as follows:

The boys lost their first game of the season to the Tecumseh team, of 22 to 27. This is their first contest game and their team work was not so strong as it should have been. Most of the players are new and in this game they found their weak places. But for all that they put up a fine game and their score is a credit to them. The lineup is

There were three lively rooters along in the persons of Frank Reavis, Jr., Frank Gist and Phil Briggs, and they certainly rooted for Falls City.

The teams were royally entertained by the Tecumseh young people and they enjoyed the trip immensely.

FROM A PRACTICAL PAINTER.

He Compliments Dr. Morsman On His Articles, Views Them as Practical.

The following will show that Dr. Morsman's paint articles are read and appreciated by those who understand the necessary qualities and the use of good paint. We are pleased to give the opinion to our readers.

I have read with interest Dr. Morsman's articles on paints, oils, etc.

His article relating to the mixing of a batch of paint is well worth some serious consideration by the beginners or the would-be painters of today as they contain many valuable hints as to the mixing and method of application, but if the doctor will stop and consider he will remember that to those who have kept in touch with the modern methods in house paints and painting these suggestions only serve to refresh our memories as to the facts as set forth, as we were called upon to deal with them ten or twelve years ago. As the writer of an experience of thirty-two years of house painting I can truly say to the amateur house painter, that the doctor has given some excellent and practical advice which the beginner will profit to adopt to themselves and their patrons. However, permit me to say from experience that the use of driers is unknown to me in house painting, turpentine only in limited quantities on certain classes of work, the conditions of the surface determining the amount required. In all of my experience I have never had one square foot of painted surface to chip, crack or peel. You ask how do I overcome it? Thus—plenty of brushing, raw oil primer, very little lead, just enough to make a good filler. Don't spare the brushing, brush well on both coats; it pays. Don't hurry your work thereby slighting to your own and to your patrons detriment. Haste always causes waste. For pitch pine, hemlock, spruce, and all gummy woods each must have a special treatment as all surfaces differ. The up-to-date house painter must be able to recognize these different conditions as he comes in contact with them, with as much skill as the family physician exhibits in coping with the different diseases which he is daily called upon to successfully treat. No one man has ever attained that position whereby he can truly say, I can learn nothing more, as long as we exist this little world in which we have lived remains to us unexplored only so far as life has permitted us to forge our little way.

There constantly appears before us new methods by which the same results may be accomplished thereby simplifying the methods formerly pur-
