10¢ LARGE SIFTER CAN

THE LITTLE PURCHASER.

A pound of jumps!
And I looked in surprise
At little black Rose,
With her shiny eyes.

A pound of jumps!
My mamma said,
A pound of jumps!
And she nodded her head.

But, my dear,
We've flour and sugar in lumps,
And peanuts,
But never a pound of jumps!

We've walnuts and chestnuts,
And corn that pops,
Oh! oh! I forgot,
It's a pound of hops.

SMALLEST DOG IN AUSTRIA

Baker's Wife Gave It to Princess Windischgratz, Thereby Making Her Very Happy.

The Princess Windischgratz is the granddaughter of the emperor of Austria. When she was but about eleven years old she was known and loved as "the little Princess Elizabeth."

There lived a baker in the city of Vienna whose wife was particularly fond of the little Princess Elizabeth. This baker's wife had, in 1894, a tiny white dwarf dog given her, which was so small that, when full-grown, it could sit on a lady's hand. So small a dog had never been seen before, and people often came to the house on purpose to look at it.

It was Christmas eve. The baker's wife dressed herself in her Sunday best, put the dog in a basket lined with pink satin, and went to the palace where Elizabeth lived. No stranger was allowed to go into the palace except by permission. She showed the dog to the guards, and they were so delighted with it that they managed to get her into the palace, and when once in, it was not very difficult to obtain permission from the court authorities to see Princess Stephanie, the mother of the little Princess Elizabeth.

"Your royal highness," said the baker's wife, "I hope that you will allow me to present a little gift to your daughter this Christmas eve," and then she uncovered the basket with the tiny white dog in it.

Wasn't the Princess Stephanie delighted with it? And of course the little Princess Elizabeth was. She loved it more than any of the rich gifts which she received for Christmas. The dog remained very small and never grew to be more than five inches high.

A LITTLE HERO.

He rides most daringly to hounds
Upon the rocking chair,
Or calls the cat a tiger ferce,
And stalks up to her hair.

The rug becomes a battle field
Where spears and banners toss,
The hall a river, wide and deep,
That he must swim across.

Behind each curtain fold he sees
An Indian chief and grim,
And hurries through the kitchen stairs,
And seeks to capture him.

And when the stars begin to shine
In night's eternal arc,
He toddles up to bed alone,
Quite fearless of the dark.

WHY SMALL BOY WAS HAPPY

Near-Sighted Stranger Thought Lad Was Enjoying Sunset—Instead Schoolhouse Was Burning.

As the ruddy glow increased beyond the brow of the hill the small boy on the bridge clasped his hands vigorously.

"Ah, my lad," said the stranger, who was somewhat near-sighted. "It does me good to see you appreciate you beautiful red sky."

"Yes, sir," responded the lad, with his eyes glued on the distant glow. "I've been watching it for fifteen minutes."

"Well, well! It isn't often one has the opportunity of witnessing such a grand spectacle."

"Couldn't be grander to me, sir."

"A real poet, without a doubt. And do you watch sunsets often, my little man?"

"Sunsets? Why, that isn't a sunset!"

"Not a sunset? Then what is it?"

"Why, that's the village school burning down."

Why Sea Shells Murmur.

One is often perplexed by the murmuring sounds that come from a sea shell, but really there is no reason for this. The sound is not the echo of the waves. The hollow form of the shell and its polished surface enable it to receive and return the beatings of all sounds that chance to be in the air around the shell. There are many superstitions regarding the murmuring of sea shells.
