YOUR MISSION.

What are we here for?
To wear clothes and eat and sleep and work, pay taxes and vote, buy and sell, pay our debts, vote the party ticket, find and fail, fret and flunk, die and be buried?
Is that all?
Is life shut up to decent living, paying debts and keeping out of the penitentiary? Is there no meaning in life no purpose in it all?
"If we are so soon done for, what were we begun for?"
Let's see.
We are quick to say that certain men were evidently born for a certain purpose—a Columbus to find a new world, a Washington to fight for a republic, a Lincoln to save it.
Well!
Let us come down the ladder a little. If a Columbus and a Washington were born for a purpose, why not an Edison or a Pinchot?
And if an Edison and a Pinchot were not a John James and a Bill Smith? And so on down.
Where will you draw the line in being born for a purpose?
Is there not a purpose in your life and in mine and in everybody's life? Is there not some niche for you to fill else that niche goes empty? Is there not some cause that but for you must suffer?
Surely!
Every life has its mission.
And, if so, suppose you and I are not filling our destiny. Suppose we are disobedient to the heavenly vision.
Why, it would be better that some other soul had been born in our place.
Responsibility for the gift of life and strength is not alone for a Washington. Responsibility must be distributed, and that means that John James and Bill Smith have each their share—and you and me.
The purpose of your life and mine may be but a modest one. Perhaps we are not big enough for a big job, but to every man his service.
And in the doing of that service worthily and well we shall find the meaning of life, and only so.
To him that doeth shall the doctrine be revealed.

PUBLICS CHOO HAPPENINGS

BY OUR HIGH SCHOOL CORRESPONDENT.

The Nebraska High School Athletic Association have adopted new rules of eligibility for the qualification of entrance in Basket ball tournaments.

The rules are as follows: All contestants must be under graduates and must not take part in Athletic contests between High Schools for more than four years; must be under twenty-one years of age, must be bonafide pupils in regular attendance, taking at least fifteen periods of recitation work per week, and must have enrolled during the first two weeks of the semester in which the contest takes place, provided, however, that on the recommendation of the principal, the Board of Control may accredit pupils entering after the fifteen day limit but such recommendation must be accompanied by a full statement of reasons for such requests.

The First Annual Inter-Scholastic Basket ball tournament open to all Nebraska High Schools, will be held in Lincoln, March 9, 10 and 11, 1911. This tournament is held under the management of the University of Nebraska Athletic Board. All competitors must be eligible according to the rules of the Nebraska High School Athletic Association. A silver loving cup, presented by C. A. Tasker, the jeweler, will be given to the winner of the tournament.

Miss Battles the high school English teacher, gave a talk to the seventh and eighth grades, in the high school building on her trip to Scotland. It was highly appreciated by all the students. The high school wishes Miss Battles would give them some more lectures like the previous ones.

The seventh and eighth grades, High School, gave a farewell party yesterday evening to Miss Henryetta Lietzkie. Miss Henryetta leaves in a few days for Syracuse, New York. She has made many friends in Falls City and they all wish her a bright future.

We are glad to see Miss Dorothy King and Walter Albers back at school again.

A New York theatrical manager of note says that no more plays with gentlemen and ladies—real gentlemen and real ladies—can be staged in this country because no actor can be found who can play the parts with anything like success. The younger generation of actors, as in the case with other folks here and yonder, are utterly incapable of understanding the emotions of the well-bred and are as a consequence unable to portray gentility in action. A rather stinging commentary on the times, but in a measure true. The decay of good breeding is marked even to those among us whom observation has been confined to the last twenty years. There is much affectation and piles of unsustainable pretence in the matter, but when the test comes acute the real quality is always found lacking. Take the callowest sort of stripling nowadays and you will find him playing at the "primal male." If he isn't as big as a splinter and hasn't fuzz enough on his face to hold a lather, he is thoroughly imbued with the ethics of the dog pit and the prize-ring. That he should sacrifice his own selfish convenience in the performance of any social emenity, that he should do anything in fact he doesn't want to do, never occurs to him. In the ball room, where of old good breeding was the rule, pot-house manners now prevail. As for the girls and young women, the graciousness and cordiality, and the refinement of manner that distinguished the elder generation seem to be wholly lacking. One hesitates to give greetings in passing for fear he may be snubbed. Now and then one encounters an older person of the same kind, and when it comes to children no jermald is equal to the task of lamenting and departure from old standards.—Ex.

We all mix a great deal of medicine we refuse to take ourselves.

There are still a few people who don't understand how a reporter can get an interview without resorting to shorthand.

Dennie Frame, a colored gentleman at the coal chute was asked yesterday to go to the top and work. Dennie started up with good faith but when he reached the chain on one of the feeders it was all day with Dennie. Round and round he went with the chain his stomach turning at about the same rate as the feeder. "I can't do it boss" said Dennie, "I can't make de top boss" and down slid Dennie feet first. It's a little light in the upper story you get when you try to go to the top of the chute.

Say, Bill, don't you want a job of switching or brakeng. If so then there is a job for you. Speak up that's the man who gets the job.

The whist party given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Norman Musseimann and Mrs. Mary Metz at the Musseiman home was one of the largest events in social circles during the week. As on Wednesday, the house was beautiful with its floral decorations and the cordial hospitality extended was the chief charm of the afternoon. Fourteen tables were placed for cards and the fascinating games received due attention during the allotted time. The honors were quite evenly divided, several ladies winning six games. At half after five excellent refreshments were served, the hostess having the assistance of Mrs. Peter Resterer, Miss Lucile Metz and Miss Helen Resterer. The ladies sustained their reputation as royal entertainers upon this occasion.

The Methodist Aid society gave a most pleasant Kensington yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. V. G. Lyford in honor of the new members. About fifty ladies were present and enjoyed the afternoon with needlework, guessing games and music. There was an entire absence of formality and each guest seemed to fully enjoy all the pleasures of the afternoon. At five o'clock tempting refreshments were served in two courses. This may be reckoned among one of the most pleasant of the many social events of the week.
