AT THE GRAND

Miss Nan Aspinwall will give a Lariat Exhibition

At the Grand Theater on Friday and Saturday with a Saturday Matinee, Miss Nan Aspinwall will give a lariat exhibition. On the program there will be two big vaudeville Acts, two reels of pictures and two illustrated songs. She was with the Buffalo Bill Wild West show at the Madison Square Gardens, where she won the World's Champion record for roping in 1908. Miss Aspinwall is the only person attempting to make the ride from San Francisco to New York using only one horse. There will be all kinds of fancy roping and riding. Another member of her company is Princess Omene. The princess will present a number of refined and artistic dances and poses. Her costumes are said to be the most wonderfully elaborate and expensive costumes worn by any dancer on the stage today. You are sure to enjoy her performance.

Frank P. Gable, the champion roper and the man who traveled with Buffalo Bill's Wild West show for three seasons will also put on some stunts in fancy roping. Mr. Gable is the forerunner of Miss Aspinwall.

The world's wheat market reached its lowest, yesterday, since 1908. The price of wheat has been slowly but surely falling for some time. This downward tendency in the price of the staff of life is world wide, and the conditions governing it are world conditions. Just now the reciprocity agitation will get the blame for it in the U. S. But the real cause is wider and more far reaching. The world's wheat harvest last year was unusually large. The crop in the United States was a heavy one. The heavy rain and snow fall over almost the entire wheat producing territory, is almost equivalent to a guarantee of another big crop next year. These general facts coupled with local conditions have combined to bring the price of wheat down below the lowest point reached in 3 years.

Miss Nan Aspinwall will give an exhibit in lariatting at the Grand Theater Friday and Saturday night.
