RESULT OF CHICAGO PRIMARY

HARRISON DEMOCATE AND MERRIAM REPUBLICAN WIN.

The Contest Was the Most Bitter Ever Waged in the City—Graham Ran Third.

Chicago, Mar. 1.—Carter H. Harrison, Democrat and Charles E. Merriam, Republican, will be the candidates for mayor of Chicago at the election to be held April 4. Both Democratic and Republican machines were smashed.

The bitterest primary election fight in the history of Chicago ended with the selection of the above standard bearers and simultaneously begins what promises to be the most hotly contested fight for the actual mayoralty in the city's history.

The result on the Democratic side of the fence was contested until the last ditch, Mr. Harrison winning out by a comparatively small plurality over Edward F. Dunne, while Andrew J. Graham, the banker candidate fathered by Roger Sullivan ran third in the race and was hopelessly beaten almost from the start.

On the Republican side Mr. Merriam had virtually a walk-over, his total vote being nearly a majority over all of the other Republican candidates.

C. H. Harrison has already been twice mayor of Chicago and his nearest opponent, Mr. Dunne, was once the chief executive. Mr. Harrison is a son of the first Carter H. Harrison who was assassinated while mayor of Chicago at the close of the world's fair in 1893.

Charles E. Merriam, college professor, reformer and investigator, headed the famous Merriam investigating commission, which turned the Republican administration and organization up side down during the past two years.

The primary fight developed more bitter animus than has ever before been seen here. For weeks the city has been placarded with cartoons and announcements most of them being levelled at Mr. Harrison by the Democratic machine.
