

ANOTHER OF THOSE FIGHTS

COLORED MAN STRUCK HEINEMAN A BLOW

As a Reward For His Conduct He Will Remain In County Jail For Twenty Days

Last night another fight occurred on Stone Street. A negro by the name of Joe Thompson thought he ought to have work from Mr. Heineman, and as he had all the men he needed told the colored man so. Thompson had been drinking and insisted that he must have work right away and went after Mr. Heinemann and struck him a blow when he turned and landed the colored man in the face, came on down the street and caused his arrest.

Thompson was tried this morning found guilty and fined $30.00. Being unable to pay his fine he was sent to the McFarland Hotel for twenty days.

MRS. CLARENCE E. SMITH HAD EXCITING TIME

The Man Made His Get Away And Was Found By Police Marts Under Union House Barn

About six o'clock Monday evening a man broke into the residence of Clarence Smith while Mr. Smith was in the country and Mrs. Smith had gone down town shopping. She did not bolt the back door, but only latched the screen and left the door open as it was so warm. When she returned she noticed that the screen was cut, but thinking maybe some of the young men rooming there had lost their key and cut the screen to get in, she was not alarmed.

When she entered the dining room she noticed that the room was all upset and that one of the curtains was all mussed up and twisted, still she thought perhaps Mr. Smith had come in so she went to the stair door to call and see if he was there. When she opened the door she saw a man standing in the stairway with his hand over his face, Mrs. Smith spoke to him and thought it was a young man who rooms there, but as soon as he spoke she saw it was a stranger. She asked him what he was doing there, and he replied: "Lady I am hungry and broke." She told him that upstairs was a queer place for a man to go when he was hungry. He then told her he was drunk. She told him he was not too drunk to come down the stairs with her, he thinking there were other people in the house came down without any trouble, but when he reached, the dining room and saw there was no one there, he made a dash for the back door. Mrs. Smith caught him by the coat and hung on with all her might. She tried to get him out the front door where she thought she could get help from passers by, but he preferred the back door for his exit. He finally got away leaving part of his coat sleeve in her hand.

Chief of Police Marts as called and located the supposed thief under the platform north of the Union House barn. He was taken to jail for the night. Mr. Smith's revolver, a small gilt bedroom clock and a hat brush were found on the man. Another brush is missing and it is thought that possibly the man lost it under the shed. Mrs. Smith was not frightened until it was all over. She noticed that the buffet drawers were open about four or five inches, where she keeps her rings, and that the rings were in plain sight. She now thinks that the man was in the act of helping himself when he heard some noise at the front and was attempting to get out of the window when he heard her coming and thinking he could not get out there he hid in the stairway.

PREPARATORY FOR BUSY SPRING

Must Sell Live Stock Off And Prepare For Seeding And Looding After Crops

"During the next month," remarked Jacob Majerus, a prosperous farmer of Rulo, "farmers will make an effort to unload their fed cattle and marketable hogs. This is being done in order to make way for the busy spring when we have no spare time to devote to cattle feeding and handling hogs. We have a good supply of stock hogs on hand, and I think it would be safe to add that we will have a large spring pig crop. But there are no more cattle on feed now than we had a year ago. The average farmer cannot afford to permit anything to interfere with seeding and looking after his crops.

We have a first class farming territory there, and high priced land, where we must give everything our full attention." Mr. Majerus has been a resident of Richardson county for 43 years landing here when the county was thinly settled.

Found Team At Louisville

Plattsmouth, Mo. 17—A young man and woman, neither giving their names, drove into Louisville last evening and secured quarters, after which the young man visited the livery stable of U. F. Riechart, where he endeavored to sell the rig. After considerable haggling around they came to terms as to price, but the suspicions of the liveryman were by this time aroused, and before he would make the deal he wanted to know if the property was that of the possessor. As the young man gave his address as Fremont, Mr. Riechart telephoned at that place and found that the rig bearing the exact description of the one in question had been stolen from Omaha yesterday. The city marshal was called and the man was arrested.

CALUMET

BAKING POWDER

The wonder of baking powders—Calumet. Wonderful in its raising powers—its uniformity, its never failing results, its purity.

Wonderful in its economy. It costs less than the high-price trust brands, but it is worth as much. It costs a trifle more than the cheap and big can kinds—it is worth more. But proves its real economy in the baking.

Use CALUMET—the Modern Baking Powder. At all Grocers.
