RIGHTEOUS INDIGNATION

"So you want a divorce, do you?" said the lawyer, peering over his glasses at the worried little man in front of him.

"Yes, sir. I've stood just about all I can. My wife's turned suffragette and she is never at home."

"It is a pretty serious thing to break up a family, you know. Don't you think you had better try to make the best of it for a while? Perhaps it is only a passing fad."

"That's what I have been doing, but there are some things a man can't stand. I don't mind the cooking and I haven't kicked on washing the dishes, but I do draw the line at running pink ribbons in my nightshirt to try to fool the children." — [From "Success Magazine."]

TRYING THE SENATE.

Senator LaFollette's resolution for a reopening of the Lorimer case is turned over to the mercies of the committee on contingent expenses. This committee consists of Senators Briggs of New Jersey, chairman; Dillingham of Vermont, Bristow of Kansas, Clarke of Arkansas and Williams of Mississippi.

In the vote on the Lorimer case at the end of the last session Briggs and Dillingham voted for Lorimer, Clarke and Bristow against him. This gives the deciding vote in the committee to John Sharp Williams, a conservative democrat and former house democrat leader, who is a newcomer in the senate.

The Lorimer case is reaching a point, however, where it is passing beyond the reach of the senate. With the Lorimer people in Illinois reduced to the necessity of suppressing records by habeas corpus proceedings, it is the United States senate, rather than Lorimer, that goes on trial. And a body that does not ask committees for instructions will do the trying, to wit, American public opinion.

Whether the senate thinks Lorimer and his political methods are after its own heart is merely an incident to the larger question beyond. If the senate believes Lorimer good enough for it, then the question becomes acutely this: Is the senate good enough for us? —State Journal.

THE DISTRICT FEDERATION

Wednesday forenoon the delegates gathered at the church and listened to the club reports. Twenty towns were represented by fifty-eight delegates. This is always one of the especially pleasant features of the district meetings for the club women enjoy the exchange of ideas brought about in this way.

Mrs. J. R. Cain of Stella sang several solos during the day's session. She is a favorite in this section of the state and the cordial encores attested the pleasure of her audience.

The state officers with Mrs. J. A. Dittmar occupied the rostrum for a short series of greetings after which Mrs. H. M. Bushnell interested the federation with her report upon the legislative work of women's clubs. Miss Hazel White of this city pleased the women with an artistic reading.

Luncheon was served in the church basement. Following this a business session was held. The nominating committee brought the names of two candidates before the convention for vice president of the first district, Mrs. D. E. Wherry of Pawnee City and Mrs. C. M. Linn of Humboldt. Upon the announcement of the candidates' names, Mrs. Wherry withdrew hers, and Mrs. Linn was made the unanimous choice of the convention.

Mrs. A. H. Dorris delighted her audience with her paper "Nesse Oblige"; it was both original and clever and stamped its writer as a forceful and sensible woman.

Mrs. J. T. Trency of St. Joseph played a piano solo splendidly. Her technique was especially enjoyed. Mrs. G. A. Gregory of Crete talked upon the Crete Plan of Domestic Science, and every woman was interested. In the course of the discussion it developed that Falls City is one of only four towns of this district which has domestic science and manual training in its public schools. Wednesday eve Mrs. F. Cole of Omaha, ex-state president of the federation, now chairman of the scholarships committee, talked upon her committee's work; Mrs. Cole is entirely at home on the platform, and impressed her hearers with her sincerity and ability along the line of her present position.

Chancellor Samuel Avery gave his address upon the Comparison of German and American Schools. It was scholarly and interesting to the degree that he held his audience to his last words with sincere appreciation.

This closed a most successful convention.

NOTES

Some club women entertained six delegates. "Going some."

The meals served by the Christian women were excellent. They should have charged more for them.

THE SCHOOL EXHIBIT

The school exhibit is ready for inspection. The walls of the large 8th grade room in Central building are covered from floor border with art work and miscellaneous school work mounted on cords 22x28 inches. A very pleasing effect is secured by the use of light gray mounting board. Beginning at the south-west corner of the room, the art work, arranged in order of grades from Kindergarten to 8th, covers all of the west and north walls. A beautiful border made by the Kindergarten and 1st grade at Harlan extends the entire length of these two walls. The border is in three sections; 1st: two little tots in white with candle, retiring; 2nd: the Easter rabbit; 3rd: Cupid with his bow. The figures of the border are cut in white paper and mounted on green.

Various forms of construction and industrial work cover the south and east walls; while much material that could not find room on the walls is placed on tables.

The room is well lighted both for the daytime and the evening. The exhibit is worth seeing even by those not personally interested in the schools.

Open Thursday evening 7 to 10 o'clock, and Friday from 2 to 6 p. m.

THE COWBOY, INDIAN AND THE LADY.

The tent show, "The Cowboy, Indian and the Lady," last evening drew a fair sized crowd, and seemed to give satisfaction. The acting of the old maid, "A lady, born and bred," was the best feature, and while the remainder of the cast was not exceptionally strong, it was up to that of the average tent show.

TAKES OVERDOSE OF HEAD-ACHE POWDER

Wesley McReynolds of Halsey Found in St. Joseph in Partially Stupified Condition.

St. Joseph, Mo., May 3. — His memory apparently gone temporarily from an overdose of headache medicine, a young man who says that he knows he is from Halsey, Neb., but no more, was taken in charge by the police today on a downtown corner. Papers in his pocket indicate that his name is Wesley McReynolds and that he is a farmer near Halsey. McReynolds, it is believed from incoherent statements which he made, is on his way to Superior, Neb., where, he says, he is acquainted with Miss Della Ewen, a former school teacher.

McReynolds, the police have learned, bought a bottle of headache powders and took pretty near all of it under the impression that the whole contents constituted one dose. He is being held while an effort is being made to locate his relatives. He is about 26 years of age.
