Mr. Moritz had just come from the field and together they went first to the water tank, then searched for a half hour before calling the neighbors, several of whom went on horseback and a search began, as night was fast coming on. He was finally found about a half mile west of home sitting under a tree talking to the birds. He had a little wagon that he is in the habit of pulling around with him and at first they tried to find him by the track of the wagon but as none could be discovered, it is supposed he carried the wagon.

Kroh at her country home one mile west of town, and on Friday night gave a slumber party to her young girl friends, the young men of course, going out to spend the evening. The party was in honor of her sister Miss Stella Helmick, and the guests were the young ladies of the Y. Y. club accompanied by their young gentlemen friends. A delightful evening was spent and at eleven o'clock dainty refreshments were served. They did not return to town till almost the morning hours, and all declare Mr. and Mrs. Young royal entertainers.

IRRIGATION ADDS TO WEALTH OF THE WEST.

Washington, May 9.—A graphic statement of the vast extent of the government's irrigation projects and the success that attends their operation was made today by C. J. Blanchard, statistician of the reclamation service, who has returned from a tour of inspection.

"At the present time there are twenty-eight projects in various stages of construction," said Blanchard. "The total acreage involved in these projects is 3,200,000 which will provide homes for approximately 320,000 persons on farms, and an equal number in cities, towns, and villages with in this area or in the neighborhood thereof, or a total of 640,000 people. The total area now under water is 1,000,000 acres, on which have been established approximately 14,000 families and an equal number have taken up their homes in the cities, towns and villages.

"The progress of the engineers has been rapid, notwithstanding the isolated location of the principal engineering works from transportation of the work. Up to the present time the canal systems constructed have a total length of 5,621 miles. Many of these canals carry whole rivers. Placed end to end they could reach from New York city to San Francisco and back to New Orleans. Tunnels having a total length of sixteen miles have been excavated, mostly through mountains. The excavation of rock and earth amount to the enormous total of 66,000,000 cubic yards, or more than one-third of the yardage required for the Panama canal. Owing to the location of some of the principal works in regions heretofore inaccessible, the reclamation service has been compelled to construct 575 miles of wagon roads. The service has in operation 1,508 miles of telephones, 275 miles of transmission lines, and is furnishing power and light for municipal and manufacturing uses to seven cities and towns from its own power plants.

"The investment of the government in the projects now under construction is $62,208,000. The total computed cost of these projects when completed is $145,000,000. The allotment to cover the work during the fiscal year is $10,000,000. This does not include the issue of $20,000,000 in certificates, which will be available when required.

"Using as a basis the present value per acre of irrigated land in the projects of the government with sufficient water right, it is conservative to state that the total value of all the lands under these projects when irrigated will exceed $320,000,000. These lands are virtually mortgaged to the government to repay the cost of the irrigation system, which is computed at $145,000,000.

"The gross value of crops produced in 1910 on lands which were supplied by the government irrigation systems approximated $15,000,000. The value of the improvements of the settlers, including buildings, fences, etc., is $7,500,000. The value of live stock is $2,400,000. The total increase in the values including lands, implements, buildings, live stock, etc., as a result of providing irrigation for these farms, is not less than $60,000,000. Comparing the former selling prices of the other lands which are included in the government projects but not yet irrigated, with the prices at which they are now being sold, an additional increase in values of $30,000,000 is shown as a result of this development.

"There is no more hopeful sign in connection with the home building work of the government than the surprisingly large number of settlers who have left the cities and towns to take up their homes in the desert. The reports from the field are gratifying for the reason that a very small percentage of failures is shown.

"Information from all sources shows no diminution in the movement of the people to the west. Railroads report that the travel has been above the average, with a promise of great increase in the fall.

"At present the government farms are limited to five projects, and includes only 366 farm units. The field forces are pushing forward the work of extension of canals in order to make ready for settlers a large area of new lands, some of which will probably be opened in the fall.

"The question, 'Can a merchant, mechanic, lawyer, doctor or other professional man succeed as a farmer in the west?' has always been answered—Given good health, a small capital to make a start, and a willingness to work, and the answer in most cases is 'Yes.'"
