BROODED OVER OPERATION

Hamilton County Man Killed Himself When Surgeon Arrived.

Aurora, Neb., May 20.—Frank McGuire, living about one mile east of Giltner, in this county committed suicide yesterday. McGuire had been afflicted for some time with a disease pronounced appendicitis by his physician. By appointment the physician was to meet McGuire at his home Friday and he was to go with him to Grand Island to submit to a surgical operation. Accordingly the physician went to McGuire's home. He was informed by the man's parents that a change in plans had been made and that no operation would be made. Upon asking if he could see McGuire, the physician was informed that he was out in the field. The physician went to the field and as he neared the sick man he drew a razor and severed a jugular vein, dying within a few minutes. The coroner was called, but self-destruction was so evident that no inquest was thought necessary. McGuire was twenty-nine years old and unmarried. It is thought that he had brooded over his disease until his mind had become unbalanced.

A man can be smart and not plead his own case very well.

BOSS COX IS PURGED
Kindly Cincinnati Judge Says He Is Without Sin.

Cincinnati, O., May 21.—Declaring that the county prosecutor, a judge of the court of common pleas and perhaps also the January grand jury had conspired to deprive George B. Cox of his constitutional rights, Judge Dickson today ordered the indictments against the republican leader quashed. Immediately after Prosecuting Attorney Hunt took steps to have the case appealed to the higher court, his object being to prolong the life of the indictments and force Cox to trial on charges of perjury.

Practically Cox is free by today's decision of Judge Dickson, and the only hope of the prosecutor is obtaining a reversal of the decision on grounds of error sufficient to allow him to present the alleged facts to some subsequent grand jury for a new indictment. If he fails in his appeal today's decisions will operate to prevent this, in that Judge Dickson found the perjury indictments returned last February and March defective in substance.

Two hundred and fifty boiler-makers, blacksmiths and machinists in the employ of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company in Kansas City, struck Friday because a non-union worker was allowed to remain on the company's pay roll over the protest of the union. The strike lasted until 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon when it was called off. The man was removed presumably by order of W. L. Tracy, assistant superintendent of machinery.

After the company receded from its position Mr. Tracy remained behind closed doors in his office in the Midland building and refused to be interviewed. All of the men at once returned to work.

JUDGE GOOD'S DECISION OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

Aurora, Neb., May 18.—In the case in which William Worthington, manager of the Aurora Milling company sued the Farmers' Elevator company of Aurora to compel the latter company to transfer to him certain shares of stock in the elevator which he had bought from their individual owners, Judge Good handed down a decision yesterday, the stock must be transferred to Worthington, and dividends on it must be paid to him from the time he bought it up till April 10, when the new law went into effect, providing that such companies as the Farmers' Elevator company could do as they pleased with their returns, and were not compelled to declare any dividends at all.

On the other hand Worthington will have to pay a certain penalty imposed upon him by the Farmers' Elevator company because he did not patronize exclusively that elevator company, in which he held stock. This penalty will amount to more than the dividends he will receive. Furthermore the Farmers' Elevator company will not have to change its methods of doing business, as Worthington petitioned. The decision affects all farmers' elevators in the state.
