for the past twenty-seven years until this time when they met at the home of their brother, M. G. Churchill. All enjoyed the family get-together. Mrs. Miner and son departed late last week for their homes in the east.

Looked the Homes Over.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Nickles were attending the Lewiston chicken dinner last Sunday and had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boedecker, and after having an excellent dinner they drove to Omaha where they viewed several modern homes, which have been built recently, thus getting some very fine ideas of what is modern in homes. As Mr. and Mrs. Boedecker are just now starting the construction of a home in Murray the experience of other home builders is of much value to them. Work has started on the excavation for their new home which is to be 28 by 32 feet with five rooms and bath, all on the ground floor, with a full basement and entirely modern in every respect, with John Manville sides and roof. They are to push the construction that the building may be completed for use this winter.

Kidder, Mrs. Kidder being sister of Mrs. Margaret Brendel of Murray, and from there they went to Kearney, passing through Rising City where John T. Bates and wife reside, but did not find them at home. At Kearney they found Dr. G. L. Taylor and family, where they had an excellent visit. They found Dr. Taylor and family enjoying good health and as well prosperous. Dr. Taylor is secretary-treasurer of the American Legion junior drum corps, another article in this paper telling the story. From Kearney the party proceeded to Franklin where they visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Brandel and after having enjoyed their stay there came on home, arriving here Friday evening.

Success Crowns Efforts.

A well has been the aim of W. O. troop and Charles R. Troop, for in the feeding of cattle which these gentlemen follow it is necessary to have plenty of good pure water. The well at the home gave out and it was dug deeper but with not the best results, so another was sunk at some distance from the old well, with like results. Later the machine was moved across the road, and there water was found in the quantity needed for the carrying on the cattle feeding business.

Fire Prevention Programs in the County Schools

Deputy State Fire Marshal Clement Visits Schools in Company With County Superintendent.

Commencing last Friday, Fire Prevention Week, Deputy Fire Marshal P. E. Clement, whose offices are located in Lincoln but whose home is in Omaha, and County Superintendent Lora Lyle Kieck have made personal visits to a large number of the rural schools of this county. The purpose of these visits is to stimulate interest in the present fire prevention campaign, which is conducted by the state among the small towns and rural population. In three days, Friday, Monday, and Tuesday, Mr. Clement has visited a number of schools. Monday alone he visited thirteen schools and has made seventeen talks. Three talks were given in Avoca and Union.

State Fire Marshal H. M. Davis, of Lincoln, had arranged a special program of fire eradication for the state and which was and is given their first trials in Cass and Howard counties, one in the east and one in the western section.

Mr. Clement carried out this plan in which he placed a questionnaire in the hands of the rural school children in Cass county, enumerating the fire hazards that may exist in the home and also providing for report when the hazards are taken care of and cleared up. The child visits his or her home, checks on the hazards that may exist and then when these have been corrected makes the report.

"In the past three years, 93 people have been burned to death in Nebraska by the careless use of gasoline, kerosene, and tractor fuel, and 233 people have been seriously burned. Starting the fire with these liquids has taken the greatest toll," the questionnaire indicated. Mr. Clement stated that one insurance company reported to his office last month a loss of $51,000 paid to farmers. "Due to necessity, the law requires that the teaching of fire prevention in the school at least thirty minutes a month be conducted," Mr. Clement added.

CONCRETE COSTS LESS WORTH MORE

DEMAND CONCRETE FOR ALL ARTERIAL STREETS

The experience of hundreds of cities proves these facts about the merit of concrete for building arterial streets:

1. Concrete is lower in first cost than any other paving material of comparable quality.
2. Concrete is by far the most economical type of surface to maintain and lasts the longest.
3. Concrete is safe in any weather, drains quickly, increases visibility, improves appearance.
4. Concrete cuts your driving cost by saving on gas, tires and car repairs.

Insist on concrete for your streets.

Plattsmouth's oldest concrete street is now in its 14th year of service. Why not investigate this pavement? Ride over it and note that the surface has remained true and even and that it shows little wear, then ask your city officials for facts on annual maintenance costs. This study will show that this old street was a good investment. Concrete paving is an even better "buy" today
