HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or much food, your stomach doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over. Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little little tablets called Bell's for Indigestion, to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in no time and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell's for Indigestion.

HAVE ARMISTICE PROGRAM

The world war armistice served as the subject for the meeting of the Rotary club on Tuesday and a very interesting and able address was given by Dr. H. G. McClusky, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, a past president of Rotary.

Dr. McClusky discussed the tragedy of the world war among the nations and the great joy and happiness that the nations felt on November 11, 1918, when the last roar of the artillery died away and death and desolation that had raged the nations of Europe for four years was brought to a close. It was not the exultation of victory, but rather the relief of the fear and privation that war had demanded. Dr. McClusky paid high tribute to the American service man and the organizations, particularly that of the American Legion. The contribution of the service man had been in the peace time community service, the upbuilding of the high ideals of the American people through the efforts of the organization that stood for peace and preparedness.

The meeting was in charge of Frank A. Cloidt as chairman.

The two new high school students who were presented as members for the month of November were Kenneth Todd, senior and James Mauzy, Jr., junior.

The meeting was closed with the singing of "God Bless America."

Dr. H. G. McClusky, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Martin was a member, conducted the simple and impressive funeral service.

Mrs. J. R. Reeder gave three of the old hymns during the service, "Lead Kindly Light," "Abide With Me" and "Nearer My God to Thee," with Mrs. Wiley Sigler as the accompanist.

The Narcissus chapter No. 269 of the Eastern Star, of Omaha, of which Mrs. Martin had been a member, conducted their ritualistic services in memory of the departed.

The interment was at Oak Hill cemetery.

The other buildings throughout the school system are planning such a demonstration at some future date.

Iowa-Nebraska Has Fine Safety Record

The Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power Company has won first place in its class in the annual safety contest sponsored by the National Safety Council among public utility companies throughout the United States.

The company's record, qualifying them for first place, was six reported injuries in a total of 2,213,712 man-hours worked during the contest period.

Since the Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power Company initiated its accident prevention program in 1926, the employees have reduced the frequency of accidents over 80 per cent. Evidence of this progress has been building up from year to year, and on the part of all concerned.

last year the Iowa-Nebraska company qualified for second place nationally in its class.

Outstanding among its divisions in safety work are the records of the employees in three districts.

Employees of the Lincoln district had worked 720,000 man-hours, or the equivalent of one man working a regular shift for 329 years without a disabling injury, before the record was broken by a lost-time accident September 16, 1939. This record represents a total of 484 consecutive calendar days worked without an injury causing the loss of time.

The York district, second largest division of the company, had on November 1, 1939, a total of 1,042,974 man-hours worked without a lost-time injury. This total represents the greatest number of man-hours worked in any of the company's fourteen districts without an injury causing the loss of time. The company-wide trophy, shown in the center of the accompanying illustration, is to be awarded to the York district employees for this outstanding record of accident prevention.

In the Fullerton (Nebraska) district, employees throughout this division of the company have worked 3,770 consecutive calendar days without a lost-time accident. This total equals more than ten consecutive years. The trophy for this outstanding record, to be awarded to the employees of the Fullerton district, is shown at the right of the illustration.

Safety records for employees in all other districts during the contest were good. The composite of these district records, of course, made it possible for the company to achieve top ranking in national safety honors. It is a tribute to the careful habits of the men and shows what can be accomplished in reducing lost-time accidents by co-operative effort.

REMOVING OLD LANDMARK

From Monday's Daily—This morning the work of dismantling and tearing down the two story building at the junction of Seventh and Pearl streets and Chicago avenue, was started.

This two story building was erected some forty years ago by the A. O. U. W. and who continued to use the building until it was purchased by the Knights of Columbus and who have since occupied the building and at their last meeting disposed of the structure to a Red Oak wrecking company.

A one story building once occupied the site and where the firm of Soenichsen & Schirk operated a store and later Henry Zuckweiler and E. P. Lutz operated their grocery for several years.

The Knights of Columbus are still owners of the lot and their plans for the future as to the property have not been decided upon.

NARROWLY ESCAPES INJURY

Wednesday Mrs. Ted Kruger, narrowly escaped being wounded at her apartment in the Roessler residence by a bullet from a .22 rifle.

Mrs. Kruger had been in the bath room of the home which is situated on the north side of the house and was leaving the room when there was a crash of shattered glass and a bullet sped just a fraction of an inch from Mrs. Kruger and buried itself in the wall of the room.

The bullet was later extracted from the wall by Chief of Police William Barclay who was notified of the shooting.

It is thought that the bullet was fired from a rifle from a point north of the Roessler residence where the ground is much higher, the course of the bullet indicating that it had traveled downward.

It was apparently a wild shot that had accidentally hit the house.

ART EXHIBIT

On Tuesday, November 14, during the afternoon and evening the eighth grade girls will sponsor an art exhibit sent out by the Colonial Art company of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. It will be held in the high school gymnasium. The exhibit will be open to the public in the afternoon from 1 o'clock until 5 o'clock, and again in the evening from 7 to 9.

About 150 beautiful pictures will be on display. No one should miss this opportunity to see such a large collection of really good paintings.

FIND INTERESTING POSTER

An item of interest especially at this armistice time, was unearthed Friday by workmen who are engaged in tearing down the building of the Knights of Columbus at 7th and Chicago avenue. In the wall of the building was a small crevice and here was a small book which was secured and in this was a poster. The poster was a call for volunteers for the U. S. in June of 1917, for men from 18 to 40 to enlist for the emergency only and in glowing terms told of the $30 per month, chance to go to West Point, get a commission and to see the world.

The greater interest to the find was the note written on the back of the now yellowed poster and penned by Monsignor M. A. Shine, then the pastor of the St. John's church here, which follows:

"I picked up this poster on the grounds of the state capitol in Lincoln, on Thursday, June 14, 1917, during the speech of Theodore Roosevelt, ex-president of the United States, and on the last day of the semi-centennial celebration of the state of Nebraska."

"When I am dead, gone and forgotten, this will be a valuable historical relic, like many other seemingly insignificant things in our daily lives."

DISPOSE OF OLD SCHOOL BLDG.

From Tuesday's Daily—The board of education at their meeting Monday disposed of the frame school building on west Vine street, which for a great many years was used as the west second ward school. Many of the residents of that part of the city received their early schooling at the old building but which has in recent years been vacant as the students were transferred to the Central building.

The structure was sold to Miss Nellie Moore and who expects to have the building remodeled for use as a home.

History of Glass is Told at Interesting Meeting

Mrs. Julius Steinberg of Omaha Holds Meeting at Hotel Plattsmouth Under Auspices of D.A.R.

From Wednesday's Daily—Last evening a very pleased and interested audience at the dining room of the Hotel Plattsmouth, heard Mrs. Julius Steinberg, of Omaha, in an address on the "History of Glass," sponsored by the Fontenelle chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Steinberg gave a very thorough talk on the development of the glass industry down through the ages and the facts of the knowledge of glass making and uses from the time of the Egyptians. It was shown that in the developing of civilization the use of glass was growing and in the earlier periods the glassmakers were the only artisans who were permitted to associate in the higher ruling classes of the old world.

Glassmaking was introduced in the United States in 1825 and here it has had one of its greatest developments and perfection. The speaker discussed the various lines of glass making and its influence on American life as the use was spread over the country.

The first known American glassmakers were William Henry Stiegel and Caspar Wistar, who operated a factory in New Jersey.

Mrs. Steinberg had with her a collection of glass that was a treat to the collectors of beautiful and odd glassware, a collection of paper weights being particularly interesting as these once popular articles around the household are again becoming in general use, and those that Mrs. Steinberg had with her were of exceptional interest. She also had a number of cup plates, an antique article of use for the table.

A number of the Plattsmouth ladies also had collections at the hotel which created a great interest as they were in a number of cases quite rare pieces and much enjoyed.

At the conclusion of the evening tea and cakes were served the members of the group, Mrs. F. R. Gobelman, Miss Pearl Staats being at the serving table.
