Congressman Heinke Guest of Rotary Club

First District Representative Gives Excellent Talk on the Problems of the Nation.

From Tuesday's Daily—Congressman George H. Heinke, of Nebraska City, was the guest speaker at the noonday luncheon of the Rotary club today and received a great welcome from the members of the club and the large group of guests that had come to pay their regards to the congressman.

Mr. Heinke in his remarks extended the challenge to the individual American citizen, regardless of politics, to tackle earnestly and with the fervor of the pioneers that had founded the nation, the problems of today, where many demand the aid of the government rather than taking their own initiative in the solving of the problems.

Mr. Heinke told of the demands that the congressman or senator finds made by groups of their constituents, demands that are perhaps against the best judgment of the congressman but the pressure of demand makes it a matter of policy to accede to the demand. He called attention to the fact that at the turn of the century the total cost of government had been $300,000,000, that in 1914 the cost had mounted to $1,000,000,000 and at the last session of congress there had been appropriations of $13,000,000,000. The total of taxes secured had been $5,000,000,000 to pay the $13,000,000,000, leaving a great deficiency.

The speaker urged the individual citizen not to allow any one group or two to carry on the government, but to see that it was brought into the lines of safety. All of the great costs of government must in time be paid and the burden would be upon the people themselves that had encouraged by their support the excessive programs for the different groups in the national life.

Despite the efforts of the national government, the congress and state governments, there was still great unemployment, plenty of food in the nation and yet starvation over the land. This was the challenge, the speaker stated, to the citizens to face seriously the condition, apply to it the same personal remedies that the pioneers had given in the early settlements, work, thrift and sacrifice.

The message was given earnestly and with the sincerity that Mr. Heinke has shown in his service in congress, of being ready to stand for what was right in his viewpoint despite the efforts of pressure.

The meeting was under the leadership of Searl S. Davis, who presented the speaker.

George Jaeger was the leader for the singing of "America" at the opening of the luncheon.

There were a large number of guests present to enjoy the address, J. Hyde Sweet, editor of the Nebraska News-Press of Nebraska City and secretary to Mr. Heinke, County Treasurer C. L. Kelley of Otoe county, R. J. Ojers of Nebraska City, J. A. McKinzie, district manager of the Lincoln Telephone Co., County Treasurer John E. Turner, H. A. Schneider, Fred P. Busch, president of the Plattsmouth Ad club, Frank Smith, W. F. Evers.

Cass County Committeemen Visit Lincoln

Cass County Agricultural Conservation Committee Attends Conference at State Headquarters

Members of the Cass county agricultural conservation committee last week visited office of the state committee in Lincoln.

Included in the group were Mr. Gansemer, Mr. Blum and Mr. Armstrong. With committeemen from six other counties in this area and Ralph H. Hanks of Nebraska City, district farmer-fieldman, they were guests of the state committee for a day.

In addition to visiting the various headquarters units and hearing the work of each department outlined by supervisors, the AAA committeemen participated in a round table discussion devoted to administrative and educational activities. Principal object of the get-together was to bring about more extensive coordination between state and county workers in both administrative and educational fields.

"Our discussions conclusively showed that administration and education cannot be separated," Mr. Gansemer, chairman of the county committee, said in commenting on the Lincoln meeting.

"While it is essential that all of us farmers elected to help in the administration of the program do our jobs efficiently and economically, the cause of agriculture cannot be fully served unless all of our people, farmers and urban residents alike, know about the operation of the goals of the agricultural conservation program," he continued.

"Our farm program is not an emergency measure. It was designed by farmers not only to cure the ills which were choking agriculture less than a decade ago, but to maintain equality for agriculture in future generations. If we are to continue the progress we have recorded during the past six years, all of us must have a long-range view," Mr. Gansemer declared.

He said that he was impressed by a statement made by Abner K. Chestem, Burt county farmer and member of the state committee, during one of the discussions. Chestem compared agriculture to a ship. The ship zig-zagged aimlessly until the farmers of America formed the AAA, and this program not only gave the ship a rudder but put the American farmer on deck as pilot, Chestem explained.

"We may have to change the course of this ship from time to time to avoid storms and we may find it necessary to replace engines and other equipment, but as long as the farmer is the pilot we believe agriculture will avoid the rocks upon which it was often wrecked in the past," Mr. Gansemer concluded.

Delicacy of Frosted Foods a Revelation

All the Natural Fresh Flavor Retained by Freezing Process—Demonstration Saturday

Judging from comments heard among those who have tried the new Dawn Fresh Frosted Foods now being offered in Plattsmouth, they provide all the natural flavor and garden freshness available in mid-season. In fact it is claimed the quick-freezing process employed adds zest to their taste.

Frosted foods are taking the country by storm, having been in demand throughout the east and on the west coast for more than a year and now are being introduced to the middle west.

For some time the Journal has been carrying advertising of these new products that bring all the variety of summertime fruits and vegetables to winter-time menus as well as sea foods, meats and poultry of selected quality, which are increased in tenderness through the "breaking down" process that accompanies the quick freeze.

Several weeks ago the Black and White Grocery installed equipment for the handling of the Dawn Fresh frosted food line—a refrigerated case with constantly maintained temperatures of 10 to 12 degrees below zero. In this case are carried all the Dawn Fresh products, which are delivered twice weekly from a special refrigerated truck of equally low temperature.

While the public has been rather slow to try the new products, those who have done so are loud in praise of frosted foods.

Demonstration Saturday

The local store is advertising a special demonstration for Saturday of this week, when details of the process and samples of the product will be exhibited from early in the forenoon until late at night.

A few years ago, people would have scoffed at the idea of roasting ears, or strawberries or other fresh fruits and vegetables, but today the freezing process has been perfected to a point where not only commercial use is made of it, but in many towns equipment has been installed that enables farmers to do their butchering in mid-summer and pack the meat in freezer compartments—where it is maintained as fresh and satisfying as when cut. Game shot in season is also preserved the same way and not infrequently do hunters place their pheasants and ducks in these locker compartments to enjoy them weeks afterward.

Plattsmouth Needs a Plant

Many towns smaller than ours support plants of this type, with a hundred or more locker compartments that are rented by the year and in which are stored all sorts of fresh foods—after they have gone through the "quick freeze" process so necessary to retain their natural flavor and freshness. There has been talk of such a plant here, and perhaps as more and more people become familiar with the frosted food process, this community will join the growing list of those that maintain refrigerating plants.

In the meantime, frosted foods are being made available over the counters of grocery stores throughout the country.

Foods taken from these freezer units are frozen solid—having been kept that way from the time they were first "quick frozen" at temperatures far below zero.

All who are interested are invited to attend the demonstration Saturday as advertised by the local store handling the "Dawn Fresh" line.

Congressman Heinke Names Local Youths

William E. Evers, Principal to West Point—John Livingston Alternate to Annapolis.

Congressman George H. Heinke has made the announcement of his appointments to the United States service schools for the first district and which honors two Plattsmouth young men.

For the post of cadet at the West Point Military academy the congressman has selected William Earl Evers, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Evers of this city, as the principal, with George Hugh Sawyer of Pawnee City as the first alternate, Jack Raymond Wilson, Lincoln, second alternate.

Mr. Evers is a sophomore at the University of Nebraska and the opportunity to enter the great officers training school of the United States army is the realization of a long cherished ambition of this fine young man. Even in his high school days he was a very enthusiastic student of the army and was the high ranking marksman at the C. M. T. C. at Fort Crook two years ago. He is a member of the Pershing Rifles at the university. His scholastic ranking is high and in his selection the congressman has picked a fine student.

To the naval academy at Annapolis Congressman Heinke has named Thomas Phillip Quinn, of Lincoln as the principal and as the third alternate, John Benton Livingston, of this city, son of Mrs. Lillian Livingston, and a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Livingston, members of pioneer families and Mr. and Mrs. John Bajcek.

Mr. Livingston was a graduate of the Plattsmouth high school in the class of 1939 and is now a freshman at the University of Nebraska, where he has been one of the outstanding students.

The residents of the city certainly feel very appreciative of the recognition by our congressman of the two local boys.

Plans and arrangements are now well under way to honor the 1939 Plattsmouth high school football squad. The boys and their coach, Bion Hoffman will be special guests at a banquet tendered them on Tuesday evening, November 28. The place of the banquet has not as yet been determined.

As announced previously the Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the banquet in their behalf. Lumir Gerner, Plattsmouth high school instructor, is serving as chairman of the event.

The organization has secured Glen Presnell, of the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, as the chief speaker of the evening. Major "Biff" Jones and Harold Browne are unable to attend. Mr. Presnell will also be here with a movie and the local football fans will be able to see one of the leading games that the Cornhuskers have played.

The ear of corn has in the midst of the yellow kernels a group of red kernels that forms an almost perfect outline of the map of Nebraska.

Mr. Brommage spoke briefly on the subject of "Interior Decorating and Color Schemes in the Home." The ladies had the pleasure of seeing colored movies made by Mr. Brommage on his recent trip to England and Scotland. The colorings of the flowers and blue spruce of England and the heather of Scotland were especially lovely.

Mrs. Frank Mullen, president, presided over the business meeting. The local Woman's club together with the Junior Woman's club will celebrate the Golden Jubilee of the General Federation on February 26th, 1940. This celebration will honor the pioneer club members or their relatives and plans are well under way to make this a grand event and one to be long remembered by all club members and friends who may be interested in the work of this organization.

Mrs. C. R. Caley of Springfield, Nebraska, state president of Woman's clubs has accepted the invitation to be present at the Golden Jubilee celebration in Plattsmouth and the local ladies indeed feel especially fortunate in having the president as their guest.

This will be one of a chain of celebrations extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from north to south, with every club in every town in the United States honoring the 50th birthday of the mother organization. Every woman in both clubs in Plattsmouth is backing this celebration 100 per cent. Mrs. R. O.
