JOURNAL PHOTO-FLASHES

NEAR WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. VA.—"Buckie," six months-old deer that was raised from the age of one month by a local cow, with Keith Matheny and his sister on their farm. The deer has been made the legal ward of White Sulphur Springs. He will stay on the farm until a permanent home is built for him.

PRE-ALL-AMERICA—This ancient photo of the Minnesota team taken in 1887, two years before Collier's started its famous annual All-America selections, shows "Pudge" Hefelfinger, third from right standing, who placed on the first "All" team when he played with Yale in '89, and is believed to be the first picture of an All-America star in uniform. Laced shirts, mustaches and the silk topper of the manager are typical of the football teams of a half century ago. Fiftieth anniversary team will be announced by Collier's in the December 1st issue.

1—NEW HATS GO NATIVE, N. Y., N. Y.—With Paris Modistes occupied by the problems of war, hat designers are turning to native American and Far Eastern themes for inspiration. This sombrero, a perennial favorite for Southern beach and sports wear, is of blue straw, trimmed with orange and white felt.

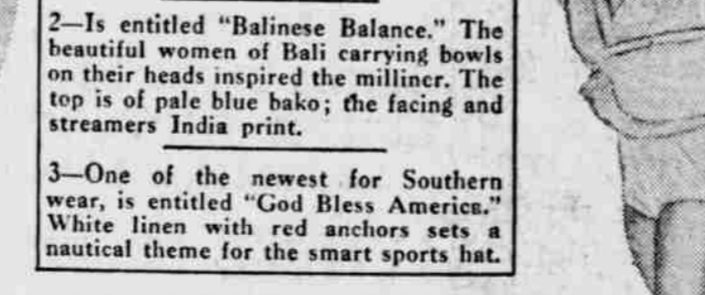

GOLD IS WHERE YOU FIND IT—DAHLONGEGA, GA.—A new gold strike, baring a lode of Bonanza ore which, it is said, assayed $60,000 a ton, has been disclosed with the operation of the century-old Calhoun Mine. Major Graham Dugas is shown holding two pans of the rich gold ore.
