Mrs. Warren Doty while at her home, doing her housework, stepped out-of-doors on an icy spot and slipped. In an effort to keep from falling hard on the ground, she ruptured the ligaments of one of her legs which made it necessary for her to be taken to the hospital where she is being cared for until such a time as she shall be able to walk again.

Henry Snell, the Man.

Henry Snell, who has been in a battle for life for a number of weeks at his home in Weeping Water, passed away last week, after all possible had been done for him. During his illness, like all his life, he was patient and manifested that life he had lived, with peace with all mankind and with his Maker.

He was a quiet, kind, unassuming man—one who found his greatest happiness in his home—one to whom the words of Shakespeare seem not inappropriate, when he said: "His life was gentle; and the elements so mixed in him that nature might stand up and say to all the world, 'This was a man.'"

Funeral services were held from the Congregational church Tuesday afternoon, with Rev. W. D. Lenker officiating. Burial was in the Oaklawn cemetery.

Took Plane Home.

Howard Hansen, who has been making his home at Los Angeles for some time past where he is employed, when notified of the passing of his brother, Paul Hansen, immediately took a plane for home in order to arrive in time for the funeral which occurred last Sunday.

BOWLING MATCHES

Entertained the Ladies.

Mrs. Henry Crozier, who is a member of the social circle known as the Friendly Ladies, entertained the other members Wednesday afternoon and evening at her home in Weeping Water with a very nice program, a social hour as well as a delightful luncheon at the close of the pleasant afternoon.

Home From the West.

For about a month Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Keckler were seeing the west between Weeping Water and the west coast and between the west coast and home again. They arrived home last Monday evening, and with the snow which covered the ground and made the trip hard driving the hills around Weeping Water looked good to them and especially Mr. Keckler missed the smiling faces of his friends and it was with joy that the old familiar scenes and faces greeted their return.

On their trip out they drove through snow until they reached Muskogee, Okla., and from there out it was rather warm and pleasant. However after they arrived at their destination they found the climate during the day beautiful and warm although it did not get warm until near 10 o'clock, and then along in the early evening between four and five o'clock in the afternoon it became cool. It took some time to get accustomed to the weather and Ralph says it required as much bed covers to keep warm as it does here in the winter. They took a week making the trip out and as much time on their return. Mr. Keckler says coming back they had to keep the windshield wiper going all the time and a mist or light rain was with them most all the way home.

On their return, Mr. Keckler says coming back they had to keep the windshield wiper going all the time and a mist or light rain was with them most all the way home.

Henry A. Snell

Henry A. Snell was born at Norborg, Denmark, May 3, 1876, and died at a hospital in Lincoln, Nebraska, February 3, 1940, at the age of 63 years and 9 months.

When he was 17 years old, he came to America and located at Weeping Water, Nebraska. Here on March 11, 1895, at the home of the bride east of town, he was married to Miss Jennie Anderson. Upon the death of Mr. Anderson, Mr. Snell purchased the farm and lived there until 1922. Upon returning the family located at Weeping Water, where Mr. Snell engaged in the livestock business. In 1930 they moved to Sterling, Nebraska, where for five years he was the manager of the Farmers elevator. Returning to Weeping Water, Mr. Snell engaged in the produce business.

Early in life Mr. Snell was confirmed into the Lutheran church and retained his membership in this group. Because the church of his choice was not among those in the community in which he lived, for years Brother Snell supported the local Congregational church with his gifts, his presence and his prayers.

Until about a year and a half ago,

Mr. Snell had enjoyed reasonable good health. A few weeks ago he was taken seriously ill and last week was taken to a Lincoln hospital. It was there early Saturday evening that his spirit returned to its Maker, leaving his home and community in sorrow at his going.

He leaves to mourn his passing, his wife, Jennie, a son, Albert, of Riverdale, Nebraska; a daughter, Jeanette, at home; his father and two sisters in Denmark; two brothers, Chris and Nels, of Omaha; a grandson, Neil, of Riverdale. His mother preceded him in death in October, 1939, and a son, Donald, in 1933.

He was a quiet, kind, unassuming man—one who found his greatest happiness in his home—one to whom the words of Shakespeare seem not inappropriate, when he said: "His life was gentle; and the elements so mixed in him that nature might stand up and say to all the world, 'This was a man.'"

Bible School Lesson Study! Sunday, February 11 By L. Neitzel, Murdock, Neb.

"The Perils of Rejecting Christ"

Matt. 21:28-43. Words fail to picture the doom of those who will refuse to accept God's gracious invitation for service in his kingdom.

God does not owe man any consideration, but the need of man stirred God's great compassion, and his love for these helpless creatures really compelled him to come to their aid, to rescue them from their perilous condition, in giving them a chance to be saved. It is a volunteer act of God, as it was a volunteer act of man to turn from God in disobedience.

So it is a volunteer act of man to accept God's free gift of mercy. No compulsion is used. The parable of the fig tree (Matt. 21:17-27) has some pertinent lesson and teaching for us. The cursing of the fig tree is symbolic, portraying the Jews, as a people, who pretend to be what they are not. Leaves and no fruit—profession without a holy life—faith without works! To wither away is the doom of the tree—so the rejection of that nation. The cleansing of the temple the day before had stirred the Jewish leaders to action against Christ—they tried to discredit Jesus before the people, so they requested Jesus to tell them who had authorized him to teach. But Jesus was not so easily trapped; he showed them that two could play at the same game—so the matter was left undecided. The foolishness of God is wiser than man's wisdom.

Now follows the lesson of the parable of the man with his two sons, whom he called to work in his vineyard. The first, when he was called, absolutely refused—he is no hypocrite—just rude and frankly disobedient, due partly to laziness, partly to a head-strong self-will; but later he changed his mind and went to work. The second son, when called, declared his readiness to go, but did not. The scribes and pharisees, in their profession of zeal for the law and their pretensions of being anxious to fulfill the commandments, represent the second son (read Isa. 29:13).

Who did the father's will? The answer was correct. The application is made to the Jewish rulers and the grossly wicked of the people. Jesus speaks very plainly; he cannot be misunderstood. The common people heard him gladly and entered into the kingdom, while their leaders and teachers rejected Christ. But still the door was not shut against them, there was yet a chance. But referring back to John's appearance and preaching (Luke 3:1-4).

The next parable portrays the end of the Jewish nation, and the beginning of the church universal. This parable in its scope goes back to Moses and forward to the calling of the Gentiles. The householder (God) planted a vineyard (the chosen people); set a hedge about it (his law) and let it out to the husbandmen (rulers and teachers). Isaiah 5:1-7 will throw light on this parable. God has done all that could be done for that nation, but how have they treated God? Instead of loving God, honoring and glorifying him, they not only rejected his rule over them, but ministers God sent to warn them, they mistreated them and killed some. (Think of the prophets and those heroes of faith who lived among them. Heb. 11). Over 1500 years God suffered this nation; he pleaded with them, he warned them, he chastised them, finally the end came and the nation was destroyed in the year 70 A. D. The Roman armies made an end of them. The killing of the son of the householder—Jesus Christ—and the rejection of their only way of escape, eternal doom, fulfilled the wrath of God. When love could not save them, justice had to be applied. In this parable, we see what will eventually befall every man who refuses to accept God's overtures of mercy.

The Jews stand as a perpetual warning to men and nations. God's plans and purposes will be carried to their final consummation; if one man or nation fails to do his will, he will take the light from them and give it to another. We read in Acts 13:46: "Then Paul and Barnabas waxed bold and said: 'It was necessary that the word of God should first have been spoken to you; but seeing ye put it from you, and judge yourselves unworthy of everlasting life, we turn to the Gentiles.'" This is one example of removing the candlestick; the church at Ephesus (Rev. 2:5) is another. The church of Jesus Christ is built upon the God-appointed cornerstone, the Rock of Ages. She will stand towering over the wrecks of times. She is indestructible. Man may reject Christ; they take the consequences; but "how shall we escape if we neglect (another way) to reject Christ) so great Salvation?" (Heb. 2:3).

That is a momentous question. How will man answer it? There is no other way, and no other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved. (Acts 4:12). Then: Come to the Saviour, make no delay; Here in his word, He's shown us the way.
