Nearly 8,000,000 fish were stocked in Nebraska during 1939 by the state game commission. More than 4,000,000 of them were produced in Nebraska hatcheries and the remainder were secured by salvage in areas where the drought dried up waters to a point where it was necessary to remove them, or by purchase.

Walleye pike, perch and bullheads top the list in the order named. Nearly 3,000,000 walleye pike were stocked, more than 2,000,000 perch and more than 1,000,000 bullheads.

All parts of the state were stocked in proportion to available waters and fish suitable for those waters. The drought dried up many lakes and ponds or lowered the water to where it became impregnated with alkali or where it would freeze to a depth in winter that would kill the fish and those places will have to wait until more water is secured. For this reason the commission was greatly handicapped and fishing could not be made available in many sections.

The walleye pike, 2,941,100 fry, were planted largely in the North Platte and Sutherland Reservoirs, where previous plants have given good results. Completion of the Kingsley Reservoir and canals will provide another string of lakes.

No perch are propagated at any of the hatcheries as they propagate freely in natural waters and irrigation ditches from which they are secured and moved to other localities. During the year the commission distributed 2,217,500 of this species.

Bullheads, the delight of the youngsters, is to be found almost anywhere. Better than 200,000, half of them of creel or adult size, were obtained through salvage work and distributed. The remainder of the 1,132,651 were transplanted. Approximately 200,000 fingerlings are being held for the spring plants of 1940. Crappie was distributed principally in eastern Nebraska. Most of them were raised at the Valentine hatchery, though 80,000 adults were secured from salvage work in the dry sections.

The Gretna hatchery is the big producer of catfish where artificial hatching is carried on. From here many young are sent to other hatcheries for development. More than 300,000 fish were distributed during 1939 ranging from fry and eyed eggs to adults and two-year-olds. Better knowledge of feeding and disease control are expected to bring a decided increase in the future.

Large mouth bass, rock bass and small mouth bass are being produced under difficulties. However, more than 250,000 were distributed in the past year. Drying up of lakes is causing a reduction in large mouth bass while rock bass are responding very slowly to heavy plantings, made in the past.

Western Nebraska is the trout section and good results are being obtained. Rainbow, brook and brown are the species being produced and planted. In 1939, 186,000 were put out, nearly one-third of them being adults and the rest fingerlings and fry. Fishermen are highly in favor of the adult planting and the commission is finding it very practical.

Considerable trouble has been experienced in producing bluegills traced to a disease of the female which destroyed eggs before spawning. A cure for this ailment is being investigated. Nevertheless 134,856 were stocked last year.

An initial stock of eggs, fry and fingerlings of Graylings have been secured from the Montana state and federal hatcheries for experimentation to see if they will thrive in Nebraska.

Nebraska has several large hatcheries and some smaller ones. Valentine, Rock Creek and Gretna are the locations of the big places. Last year improvements were made at each place and plans for further improvement in 1940 are being formulated.

Salvage work in 1939 was a big problem for the state commission. Drought was the major factor and many places had to be seined to save the fish. Removal of carp and other coarse fish from waters where game fish is stock was another problem. Coarse fish so removed is disposed of in three ways: sale of human consumption, processed and used for trout feed or where the fish was in bad shape, given to farmers for fertilizer or buried.

Tuesday, February 13 at 9:30 a. m. occurred the last sad rites for the late Mrs. Katherine Kriskey (Kor-ecky), widow of John Kriskey, who preceded her in death sixty-two years ago. The services took place at the Holy Rosary Catholic church, of which church the deceased had been a faithful member and co-worker during her earlier years. The services brought a number of out-of-town friends and relatives who were present to pay their last respects to Platts-mouth's oldest pioneer resident. Among these were included Mrs. Thomas C. Janda, Mrs. Joseph Jelinek, Mrs. Dennis Murray, Mrs. Whitmore Meleher, Mrs. Emil Chval, Mrs. John Skoumal, Sr., Raymond Skoumal, Mr. and Mrs. James Skoumal, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Bugher, Mr. and Mrs. William Kriskey, Jr., Jerry Kriskey, and Mr. and Mrs. William Kriskey, Sr.

Assisted by choir members and acolytes—Edward Gradoville, Wilbur and Charles Eaton, and Dowel Anthony Kubicka—Rev. Joseph R. Sinkula celebrated the requiem mass and later delivered the English sermon, depicting the life and work, both spiritually and worldly, of a pioneer Cass county lady.

Interment was made at the Holy Sepulchre cemetery. Pallbearers comprised three grandsons, William Kriskey, Jr., Jerry Kriskey, Omaha, Raymond Kriskey, Plattsmouth; and three close friends and relatives, Joseph Wooster, Joseph Kvapil, Sr., Plattsmouth, and James Skoumal, Omaha.

She came to Plattsmouth with her husband John Kriskey and the couple settled in the west part of this city where they resided in the home now occupied by the Frank Chovanec family, that property being known as the old Kriskey homestead for many years. At that time her husband was employed in a quarry in LaPlatte, a town where a number of pioneer Czech men were employed.

To Mr. and Mrs. Kriskey there were born two sons, Charles, who died in infancy, and William Kriskey. Following her first husband's death she remarried and had two daughters, Agnes Kolacek and Mrs. John Morgan. Both have preceded the mother in death, the latter having drowned in the Louisville flood many years ago.

Following separation from her second husband the deceased had lived alone in the home now occupied by her grandson, Raymond Kriskey and family for some time, and a little over a year ago she was removed to the residence property at Seventeenth and Main streets where she became ill several weeks ago and was removed to the Nearhood hospital, where she died Sunday morning.

Pioneer Citizen Answers Call

N. C. Christensen was born January 27, 1858, in Denmark, and died Tuesday morning, February 13, at the Bryan Memorial hospital in Lincoln, where he had been a patient for some time. He was past 82 years of age and had been a resident of the United States nearly 60 years—all of this time in Cass county. On coming to America, he settled at Greenwood, where he worked for some time and then came to Weeping Water. After working about ten years in the stone quarries here, he engaged in farming with very good success, acquiring not only his farm near Weeping Water, but one in the western part of the state. A brother of the deceased, Max Christensen, also came here from their native land, married and raised a family of three children, who survive the parents. These children, nephew and nieces of the deceased, are Henry Christensen, Mrs. Herman J. Rauth and Miss Rena Christensen.

The deceased had not been in good health for some fifteen years, following his retirement from active work. About five years ago he became crippled and was compelled to use two canes in order to get about. Since then, he made his home with his nephew, Henry Christensen.

The funeral services are being held this afternoon (Thursday) with interment at the Woodland cemetery in Weeping Water. Mr. Christensen who was unmarried made six trips to Denmark to visit three sisters. During his stay here they have since passed away.

Nearing 72nd Birthday

Antone Jourgensen, who operates the Snell produce station, is nearing his 72nd birthday, having been born in Denmark February 18, 1868. He came to America as a young man and located in Omaha, where he spent twelve years. On the train en route to Omaha he met some people from his native land who were bound for a point in Iowa, and while passing from one coach to another to bid his new-found friends good-bye, his hat blew off, so he arrived in Omaha hatless. He had with him a loud colored shawl to wrap about himself at night on the train, and when he disembarked at Omaha sans hat and with the shawl draped about his shoulders he resembled much more a wild Indian than he did a gentleman from Denmark. His appearance drew a round of laughter from the friends who met him at the station.

After living in Omaha for twelve years, Mr. Jourgensen came to Weeping Water, where he has since resided. He and Mrs. Jourgensen find pleasure in spending their declining years here and are both satisfied with their lot in life, although Mrs. Jourgensen is not in as robust health as her husband.
