SHOPS RESUME OPERATION

From Friday's Daily— This morning the employees of the Burlington Refrigerator Express Co. were called back to their duties after a layoff that has covered from February 9th to date.

The heavy freezes in Florida and the deep south seriously hampered the shipments from that section, slowing down the refrigerator business so that the enforced vacation was made necessary.

A large number of the cars are now at the local shop yards to be repaired.

Clayton Watkins Addresses Local Garden Club

Very Fine Talk Given by Well Known Forestry Expert at Meeting Held at Bekins Building.

From Thursday's Daily— In spite of the fact that numerous other important activities within the city prevented the local citizens from hearing an address—the one given last evening was one which everyone seldom hears and knows the least about—given by Clayton W. Watkins, who represents the forestry extension department of the agricultural college, Lincoln, fourteen were able to be present to receive the necessary knowledge and helpful facts regarding the planting and caring of trees. This worthwhile program was given by the Plattsmouth Garden club members, who met in the reception room of second-story in the Bekins building. Attorney A. L. Tidd, chairman of the conservation committee, was program chairman.

Presiding at the business session was Mrs. Luke Wiles, the garden club president. Owing to the illness of the society's secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Louis Ward Egenberger, Mrs. P. Y. McPetridge acted in that capacity. The society received a communication from Mrs. Homer Molyneux, Omaha, regarding garden club work among children over ten years of age and particularly those in 4-H groups. This was transferred to the Junior Department committee, which is composed of Mrs. William Schmidtman, Jr., Mrs. Carl Ofe, and Mrs. Clement Woster. The year books were recently completed and were given out at the meeting.

PLEASSED WITH LOCAL PROJECT

Wednesday afternoon a representative of the state WPA headquarters was in the city to inspect the system of indexing and records at the office of County Judge A. H. Duxbury. This system was the idea of Judge Duxbury, proving most efficient in the caring for the records and as a time saver in searching back for records of other years. It is kept strictly to date, saving the court, attorneys and others a great deal of time in their work.

It is proposed to start a state wide project in this line in the various counties, this being the purpose of the visit of the WPA representative here. He secured copies of the forms in the Cass county office from which to prepare the plans for other counties.

ANNIVERSARY OF HANGING

From Friday's Daily— Judge C. L. Graves, who is a well qualified authority on the history of Cass county, states that today is the forty-fifth anniversary of the execution of Harry Hill, the first and last legal execution in Cass county.

Hill was convicted in 1893 of the slaying of Matt Akeson, a resident of the vicinity of Weeping Water, but the long legal battle continued until March 1, 1895 when he paid the penalty for the offense. J. C. Eikenberry was the sheriff of the county at the time of the execution.

There are still many here that recall the crime and the excitement of the community on the day of the execution. The hanging occurred in the yard of the jail building then located on Pearl street between Third and Fourth streets.

COUNTY COURT NOTES

Petition for final settlement of the estate of James H. Heneger, deceased, of Weeping Water, was filed in the court. Gordon L. Heneger of Weeping Water is administrator.

Application has been filed for the administration of Edna James, deceased of Elmwood. Sid James of Elmwood is named as the administrator.

The marriage of Hurle M. Garinger and Miss Alice Louise Campbell, of this city was celebrated Wednesday evening at the court house. Judge A. H. Duxbury performed the wedding ceremony which was witnessed by Mrs. Pat Campbell, mother of the bride and Roy Garinger of this city, a brother of the groom.
