THE HOME... AND THE AMERICAN WAY OF LIFE

The American way of life has its fountain in the American home. The American home is the spirit of the nation—in a significant sense it IS the nation.

The happiness, peace and helpful living of our people in the constantly changing order of society and the very life of our American democracy depend upon the constant spiritual leadership of our Christian homes.

The American Home department dedicates itself to a mission of education, inspiration and guidance. We would have our part in making America strong and in promoting a world order of peace and good-will. Through the homes of America, we would serve America and the world, and we would have a spiritual ministry to all of life.

Social and economic conditions in this age have given rise to many new, difficult and pressing problems relating to family life which demand intelligent and sympathetic consideration.

The American Home department has five divisions, consisting of Consumer Education, Family Finance, Family Relationships, Spiritual Values in the Home, and Safety in the Home.

Effective spending is more conducive to a happy and wholesome living than the acquisition of the income; and since women do most of that spending, it is important that the Consumer Education program be stressed.

A definite financial plan for every family; the training of youth in money management; to stress the need of financial security of the home; to encourage home-makers to be more business-like—these are the objectives of the Family Finance division.

Since practically everything we do is done with others, it is the major objective of the Family Relationships division to study how to get along with other family members.

During this Lenten period, Spiritual Values in the Home should have special significance—let every club woman make of her home an altar of religious ideals.

It should concern our Nebraska home-makers that the number of deaths from home accidents is exceeding those from traffic vehicle accidents.
