A NICE RECORD OF BOND RETIREMENT IN SIX YEARS

Bond indebtedness of the City of Plattsmouth at this date amounts to $204,000. That is $81,000 less than the city owed on May 1, 1934, when George Lushinsky became mayor. By years, the reductions have been as follows:

1934-35	-----	$16,500
1935-36	-----	17,500
1936-37	-----	12,000
1937-38	-----	10,000
1938-39	-----	12,000
1939-40	-----	13,000

This year (1940-41) only $6,000 of bond principal become due, but in submitting its budget recommendations to the council Tuesday night the Finance committee will include an additional $6,000 to be raised for bond payment, which will become a sinking fund to apply on the payment of $39,000 5 1/2 per cent bonds becoming due January 1, 1942. The 1941-42 year maturities, exclusive of this $39,000, amount to only $1,000, so if a like amount is raised for payment that year, the city will have $18,000 on hand with which to meet nearly half of the $39,000. In case the interest rate remains low, the balance of this $39,000 and a $68,000 optional 4 per cent issue, which are callable for refunding at any time after August 1, 1941, could be consolidated into a single refunding issue.

The $39,000 maturity is the last of a non-optional 5 1/2 per cent refunding bond issue of $96,000, payable serially at the rate of $3,000 a year for nineteen years, with balance becoming due at end of the twentieth year, January 1, 1942.
 Comparable with Plattsmouth's bond indebtedness of $204,000, Nebraska City's now stands at $390,000, but the city commission there is arranging to issue $800,000 more (in revenue bonds) for the purpose of acquiring the Missouri river bridge.
