Mesdames Alan McClanahan, Edward Ossenkop, Howard Hirz, and Raymond Bourne were hostesses to the group. Mrs. Brown was the former Jean Brady before her marriage Tuesday, November 12. The Prof. Quiz game was played with Mrs. Ossenkop imitating the "walking encyclopedia, master of all questions," Mrs. Green, Jane Rebal, Margaret Anne Vallery, and Mrs. Arn were awarded prizes. The shower took place at the James Bulin residence. The hostesses took their guests to the HI-Way club, where the luncheon was served.

Writes Children's Book In her Hippity Hop book, just off the press as the observance of National Child's Book Week began Monday, November 10, Mrs. Elizabeth Stuart, McKinley junior high school teacher at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, jingles about them all for little children. Mrs. Stuart is an aunt of Mrs. C. H. Martin of this city, and Stuart Chase of Carter Lake, Iowa.

Hippity Hop is a delightful volume with considerable adult appeal. It carries a foreword by Grant Wood, who pays tribute to the social science instructor so cleverly expressing herself in the language of children, and to the illustrator, Miss Rosiland Munro of River Forest, Illinois, a sophomore at Cornell college. Originally written for her own pleasure, many of the poems in Mrs. Stuart's book have been sold separately to publishers of magazines and books. This book was dedicated by Mrs. Stuart to her grandnieces, Shirley Jean and Ann Martin of Plattsmouth, and her grandnephews, Bill Chase, Carter Lake, Iowa, and Donald Martin, Plattsmouth.

"To undertake a book of poems for present day youngsters whose appetites have been toughened by 'The Lone Ranger' and 'Gang Busters' is a courageous enterprise," wrote Grant Wood in his foreword. "For this, author and illustrator deserve credit. The Hippity Hop book is published as one of the Chap books of Cornell college at Mount Vernon where so much interesting creative work is being carried on under the influence of the Tulls and the Johnsons."

Although the book was edited by Dr. Clyde Tull of Mount Vernon, its chief critic has been Billy Cadow, 4 son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Cadow of the Roosevelt hotel, where Mrs. Stuart lives. He heard many of the rhymes before they were in print and has one written just for favor, as attested by the little thumb marks on that page of the reader in which it was included, is "The Helicon Bass."

Imaginative verses are those of "Icicles" in which Mrs. Stuart says, in part: "The caves have whiskers Of icy hair; Long cold whiskers Hanging there." And another, illustrated with a line drawing of a little girl splashing in a tub full of suds, is: "My Bathtub Ocean."

NEW LIBRARY BOOKS New books added to the pay shelf at the public library are "The Family" by Nina Fedorova, "Stone of Chastity" by Margery Sharp, "Mrs. Miniver" by Jan Struther. On the general shelf is a book of interest to those who wish to improve their vocabulary "Growing Vocabulary" by Hart and Lejeune.

LOCALS From Friday's Dally— Mrs. George Conis, Miss Catherine and Tommy, were in Omaha today to visit with relatives and friends for a short time. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Royal of Lincoln and Judge C. L. Graves of this city motored to Union Thursday where they enjoyed Thanksgiving dinner at the Baptist church.

Thede Davis of Weeping Water was here to attend to some matters of business today. Mr. Davis is the marshal at his home town.

SCOUT CABIN REPAIRS Repair work and repainting of the Boy Scout cabin at Camp Wheeler are now practically complete. This work has been underway for some time by Ted Svoboda.

Metal corner pieces have been placed over the shingle siding at all corners, where loose and broken shingles were replaced. This will protect the corners from further damage. All exterior woodwork has been scraped and burned and new paint applied. A number of window glass were also replaced and all glass firmly glazed with new putty. Some interior painting was also done.

Heavy mesh protection is being placed over all windows, securely fastened in place. This should prevent breakage from the outside, as entrance to the building has been gained a number of times recently in this manner.

Four Mile Club Meeting Wednesday, November 13th, the Four Mile Study club met at the home of Mrs. Louie G. Meisinger, with Mrs. Russell Stander as assistant hostess.

Due to the disagreeable weather and bad roads only fourteen members and one visitor, Miss Lydia Smith of Franklin, Nebr., were present. The meeting was brought to order by the club president, Mrs. Leonard Born. The first half of the meeting included the business session and plans for the Christmas party, which is to be held December 19th at the Eagles Hall.
