Wall-Metzger

Miss Melva Wall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Wall, became the bride of Ernest W. Metzger, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Metzger of Crawford at the Methodist church in Eagle at 8 o'clock, November 20.

The marriage lines were read by the Rev. D. Atwood Bird in the presence of about two hundred guests before a setting of palms and other greenery. Two large baskets of white pompons and chrysanthemums and seven-branch candelabras were placed on either side of the altar with a lighted cross in the background.

Oscar Bennet of Lincoln sang "At Dawning" and "O Perfect Love." He was accompanied by Mrs. Bennet who also played the wedding music.

The tapers were lighted by Mrs. Wayne Reese of Lincoln.

Mrs. Paul B. Johnson, of Alvo, was her sister's matron of honor, wearing a roseberry taffeta gown. She carried Rapture roses. The bridesmaids, Misses Lucille Butt and Dorothy Brabec, of Lincoln, wore frocks of aqua and old rose. They carried Johanna Hill and Tallisman roses.

Lawrence Metzger, of Boulder, Colorado, served his brother as best man. The ushers were Lester Reed, Marvin Rudolph, Arthur Thomson and Paul B. Johnson.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Harvey Wall, came down the aisle as the groom sang "Because." She wore a white taffeta gown.

A reception followed in the church parlors. Presiding over the serving table were Mrs. Harvey Wall of West Point and Mrs. Howard Stege of Elmwood. They were assisted by Mrs. Fred Rudolph, Mrs. Joe Rudolph, Mrs. Henry Umland and Mrs. George Meyers.

Mrs. Willard Gillespie of Lincoln and Miss Freda Reitter were in the gift room and Mrs. Arthur Thomson of Palmyra had the guest book.

Mrs. Metzger is a graduate of the Eagle consolidated schools and the Lincoln School of Commerce. Mr. Metzger is a ministerial student at Nebraska Wesleyan University and is a member of Delta Omega Phi fraternity. He is pastor of the Eagle Methodist church.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McReynolds, accompanied by Miss Lanna McReynolds, Nehawka postmistress, as well as Paul Murdock and wife and Mrs. Addie Dodson were at Elmwood Sunday, where they were guests at the homes of Albert Alford and Len Parish.

Jack Wunderlich, who is a student at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, came home for Thanksgiving day and remained over the week end. He was accompanied by a school mate and the boys spent a very enjoyable vacation here with Jack's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Wunderlich.

Laverne Steffens, who attends the University of Nebraska medical college in Omaha came home to spend Thanksgiving day and remained until Monday morning when his parents took him back to Omaha. During the absence of Mr. Steffens from the store, his sister, Mrs. Albert Anderson, was helping with the work there.

To Build a New Home Stacey ("Doc") Niday has bought a lot east of the A. F. Sturm residence and plans to erect a new home on the same. John Alwin, Plattsmouth contractor, will construct the will be a modern four room cottage. This is an FHA loan, the plans being approved.

Postponed Armistice Celebration The Armistice day celebration planned by the Nehawka post of the American Legion was postponed due to the bad weather and will be held this coming Saturday night, November 30. Dancing, bingo and other entertainment will be provided. The Legion post hopes to realize something for their efforts and at the same time provide the public with worth-while entertainment.

James M. Palmer Very Sick J. M. Palmer has been in very poor health for some time and has been especially poorly during the past week. The children, Quinton, who resides at Avoca, Iowa, and Miss Ruth, who teaches school at Firth, were called and after a consultation it was decided to have him removed to an Omaha hospital. After a thorough examination there, it was decided to operate in the hope of giving him relief. The operation was performed Monday and when we were in Nehawka it had not been ascertained how he came through the trying ordeal.

To Spend Winter in South Uncle Frank M. Massie, who has lived in Cass county for near-onto eighty years, making his home on the farm during all these years, now that the crop is about harvested, has decided to see the south and west this winter, instead of facing the cold weather of this part of the country. He will first spend some time in Texas and then go on to California, for the remainder of the time until spring. He went to Lincoln last Friday to spend a short time with a son and then depart Monday morning of this week for his destination.

Sunday Mrs. Grover Hoback, Randall Hoback and Mrs. Charles Hempill drove to Lincoln to bid the father good-bye and wish him a most enjoyable trip and visit in the west.

Being Kept Busy Harry M. Knabe is finding plenty of work on the farm just now to occupy his attention and that of Roy

E. E. Moore who operates an auto repair shop in the Farmers Union building, is building a partition to separate his work room from the rest of the building, and will heat the smaller space.

The Edward Askew and Benjamin Gibson families enjoyed their Thanksgiving day dinner together at the Askew home. They had expected a number of others to be present, but the condition of the roads prevented them from coming.

Edward Pankonin, who lives some two miles south of town is very well pleased with the crop of corn he has raised but is hoping he will be able to get it out of the field and into the crib. The ground is very soft, making it difficult to even walk through the corn fields, let alone get into them with a team and wagon.

Couldn't Get Out of Field A trucker from the western part of the state came to the vicinity of Weeping Water in search of feed and was able to purchase some sargo at the Oscar Domingo farm. Arriving at the farm Tuesday morning he loaded up his eight ton truck and after getting it loaded was unable to get out of the field and onto the highway. A couple of tractors were brought into play and the load started on its way westward.

Killed a Coyote For some time, reports of coyotes raiding hen roosts have been heard. Mrs. Herman Rauth is one of those who have suffered the loss of chickens to these marauders and there the animals were reported to have even chased "Jiggs," the family dog.

Last Saturday Leonard Doty was out in the pasture at the Rauth place and as he was walking along sighted a coyote. Raising his gun quickly, he let go, and now there is one less of these animals to raid the hen roosts of this vicinity.

Corn Picking Tough Walter Sasnussen has been helping gather the fine corn crop raised by Louis Ehlers on the farm north-east of town. For a time he was doing well and making good money, but rain and snow came, making the fields very muddy and slowing up or entirely halting the work. This condition has prevailed for a full two weeks and about the only time one can get into the field with a team and wagon is when the ground is frozen. So Walter has just been marking time, hoping for a return of better weather soon.

Page, who is assisting him with the building of some new cribs to take care of the corn crop. The yield is very satisfactory and will provide ample feed for the drove of Hampshire hogs which he raises.

The first of these meetings for the fall and winter season was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Berger last Sunday. A waffle supper was served and the balance of the evening spent playing pinoche.

Those who were present besides the host couple, Mr. and Mrs. Berger, were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Herbie Kuntz and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lemon.

Bible School Lesson Study!

Sunday, December 1st By L. Neitzel, Murdock, Neb.

"An Exacting Discipleship"

Luke 9:49-62.

While the whole ninth chapter of Luke is given as lesson material, it seems to us not practical to take in so much material, for the lesson period is too short to do justice to the whole chapter—the printed text being more than enough for study.

The time during which the incidents described in this chapter take place is a whole year; it embraces the whole of Jesus' Palestinian ministry.

As an introduction we note the sending of the twelve; Peter's great confession; the transfiguration; the healing of the only son—in the briefest way.

The lesson proper begins with a report by John of a man doing the same as Jesus did, but did not follow him. John says "We forbade him."

(James and John). Jesus did not approve of their act, rather rebuked them, for their intolerance; the act of that man was right, and he had the approval of Jesus. That spirit of narrowmindedness is still with us.

We cannot see any good in the deeds of others because they do not belong to our set. They go by a different name, wear a different garb—but do the same work as we do. Why not give them credit for the good they do and not hinder them, or speak desparingly of them?

Anyone doing a good and kind act is working with Jesus, not against him. That is a hard lesson to learn for a small, narrow selfish soul. The disciples learned their lesson. As Jesus was now leaving Galilee, never to return there again, to go straight to Jerusalem, he intended to go through Samaria, bringing them the good news of the kingdom, but when they learned that he, as the Messiah, was going to Jerusalem and not stop at Gerizim, they would not give him a night's lodging or a meal. Here again James and John show a trait of character that Jesus rebuked. This spirit of revenge shows itself only too often, even among Christians.

The mission of Jesus and his disciples is not to destroy the souls of men, but to save them.

One other lesson is to be learned from this incident and that is: Jesus never forces himself upon man—if they will not receive him, he goes to another village, where they will be glad for his company.

We come now to another episode in Jesus' going to Jerusalem, where a certain man offered himself as a follower, who had not counted the cost. Jesus did not accept him because he knew men; this one would not be a dependable follower; when hardships would have to be endured he would soon tire and leave Christ.

Here is where the masses desert Christ.

The prospect of being led into green pastures and beside still waters, and protected from all harm is very alluring and many are induced to accept all this and enter into his fellowship; but when it comes to taking up the cross daily and following him, they find the gate straight, the way narrow and steep—then it is the cross gets heavy. They accept the bread and fishes—but go into all the world and carry the gospel to all nations—no, let others do that; to give up home comforts, they will not. Let a man stop and count the cost, what is costs to be a Christian, before he says "I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest." (Some scholars say this was Thomas). He wanted to be excused until his father would die and he could see that he was buried. That might have deferred his following Jesus for years. Others could do that, who were not spiritually alive, but still dead. It is not safe to hesitate when God calls men into his service—it is best to do as Saul of Tarsus did, to ask "Lord, what wilt thou have me do?" He was ready there and then to go to work for Christ. It is that kind of men who are a success wherever they are found.

At another time a man came to Jesus to be enrolled for service, but he must consult the family first and say farewell. This man Jesus could not trust. If he was ready to enlist for service, he must go at once. Going to talk it over with the home-folk; they might persuade him to forget it, but the notion of becoming a follower of Christ out of his head, showing him how he would have to give up the
