Many Attend the Funeral Service of Mrs. Bert Reed

Bigby Chapel Filled by the Old Friends to Pay Their Last Tributes to Her Memory

The funeral services for Mrs. Bert Reed were held Wednesday afternoon at the chapel of the Bigby funeral home at Seventh and Oak street. There was a very large number of the old friends in attendance at the service and to pay their last tributes of respect to her memory.

Rev. E. F. Himes, pastor of the First Christian church where Mrs. Reed had been a member, conducted the services, delaying his departure for the new home in the west to take part in the last rites. In his tribute to Mrs. Reed, Rev. Himes used the following as a testimonial of the life and service of Mrs. Reed: "I'd like to be the sort of friend that you have been to me I'd like to be the help that you've been always glad to be I'd like to mean as much to you each minute of the day As you have meant Dear Friend of mine, to me along life's way."

During the services Mrs. Hal Garnett and David Robinson gave two vocal numbers with Mrs. O. C. Hudson as the accompanist.

The interment was at the Oak Hill cemetery where the husband and daughter are buried.

The pall bearers were all former associates of Mr. Reed and close friends, comprising: Judge A. H. Duxbury, Clerk of the Court C. E. Ledgway, County Treasurer John E. Turner, County Clerk George R. Sayles, Rex Young, J. H. Graves.

WORKERS AT CIVIC MEETING

From Friday's Daily—The luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce at Hotel Plattsmouth, was featured by the presence there of a group of the volunteer workers who were out gathering scrap. The men had just come in from their strenuous work of bringing in the metal scrap, for luncheon and were back on the job after the dinner.

Don Seiver, city chairman of the scrap drive, was called upon for a few remarks and gave a fine tribute to the men that have so excellently carried out the work of gathering up the needed scrap, as well as the persons who had donated the material.

Clement Woster, president of the Ad club gave a short talk also on the parade that will be held in the city Saturday afternoon to climax the drive that has been on in the city and state for the past two weeks. Mr. Woster asked that all that could, join the parade.

APATHY OF THE VOTERS

The primary election of 1942 prompts a very long vote from the reports over the state where the same story is coming of the apathy of the voters.

The candidates themselves have been very earnestly working in the state and county contests but their hard drives fail to stir much of the fire that is usually to be found in the contests.

In the state perhaps the democratic senatorship has created the most interest, the governorship races seemingly pretty well set for Griswold and Bryan. Local interest is felt in the superintendent of public instruction race, L. S. Devoe, local school head being one of the field of candidates.

Locally the chief contest of interest seems to be that for the unicameral as there are nine of these contesting in the district composed of Sarpy and Cass counties.

Hold District Court

From Friday's Daily—Judge W. W. Wilson and court reporter, Glen Woodbury, were here today from Nebraska City, holding a short session of the district court. The time was taken up by the court in disposing of a number of matters pending action.

Judge Wilson has just returned from an outing in the lake country of Wisconsin, spending some time in the Greenbay section of the state.

Camp Wheeler Scene of Very Pleasant Outing

Boys Have Fine Week at the Boy Scout Cabin with Supervised Activities

Under the expert leadership of "Shy" Champlin 14 boys are enjoying a well-rounded week of entertainment at Camp Wheeler. "Shy" is a former Plattsmouth boy whose wonderful work with youngsters is recognized far and wide over the state. He was lent to the local recreation center from Lincoln where he is engaged in similar activities.

Frank Shoemaker, also of Lincoln, is assisting "Shy." Mr. Shoemaker is a natural historian, and imparts much knowledge to the boys as they hike about the countryside. The boys follow a daily outlined program. They are up at 7 for their morning exercise. They breakfast at 7:30, after which they clean up the camp. This consists in making beds, washing dishes and gathering wood. Usually they are finished at 9:30. They take up handicraft work by studying on scout tests, tying knots, photographing, making wooden darts, and casting plaster molds.

At 10:30 Mr. Shoemaker takes the boys for a nature hike. Already the boys have captured and studied every kind of insect to be had in the area. Another part of this hike is the study of the various kinds of birds encountered. The birds are identified and their habits sought. Rock formation, trees, and flowers receive attention too on this regular morning trek.

The boys get back in time to clean up for a delicious dinner prepared by Mrs. Shell, a cook sent over for the camp from Beatrice. With justice done to a dinner the boys rest from 1 till 2, then till 4 they compete in athletic games. They play softball, volley ball, badminton, horseshoes, and they also practice archery. The camp has been divided into two teams, and the team doing best in the sports for the week will be treated to a watermelon feed.

From the finish of the game time till supper at 6 the boys can do as they please. After supper till 9 a campfire program is held during which time the boys tell stories and sing songs.

Several out-of-town boys in the camp are Russel and John Burke from Louisiana, Mo.; Hart and Robert Roy Jenks and Richard McGuire from Omaha; Jim Marshall from Weeping Water. The rest of the boys from Plattsmouth are Ray Tinchler, Glen Wilson, Frank Gaines, Kenneth Fitch, Robert Cappell, Tony Kubicka and ohn Glaze.

Those attending the party were Mr. and Mrs. Ordell Hennings, Edward Lushinsky, Dick Hess, Donald Skalaski, Uorman Eaker and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Barngrover, Phyllis Speck, Shirley Speck and Daisy Dill.

Moving to Nevada

Civilian Defense Training Organization Started

Great Interest Shown at Meeting at High School Friday Evening; Start Lessons Soon

The first meeting of the local civilian defense corps was held last evening in the high school auditorium with between 100 and 150 people present. The meeting was under the direction of Bion Hoffman, who explained the complete organization and the duties of each branch. A prayer by Rev. Willard Sherman of St. Paul's church and the flag salute, led by Robert Tritsch, opened the meeting and dedicated the work of the group to the defense of our country.

Judge A. H. Duxbury, who was introduced as the commander of the Plattsmouth corps, expressed his willingness to accept this position because of the importance of such a program to the safety of the community in spite of the fact that he already has many other responsibilities related to the war effort. He asked for the full cooperation of everyone to prepare for the bombing disasters which may lie ahead of us.

Elmer Hallstrom, the county defense chairman, of Avoca, explained the plan of the county defense committee to have a full civilian defense corps set up over the county with training centers located at Plattsmouth, Weeping Water and Louisville. He said that this group in each community will be trained to take care of any emergency as a result of war or a peace-time disaster, that there is a definite active training part for many people, that this is a peace time organization as well as one for war and that we must have the same organization here in the interior of the country as well as on the coasts.

In his lesson, Mr. Hoffman gave a general review of the background of the OCD, saying that it was created by President Roosevelt on May 20, 1941, with a general director and three major generals at the head of the organization in Washington. This fact proves the importance of the organization to the defense of the civilian population in event of a catastrophe. The entire program is based on studies made by a commission sent to London by our government to study England's civilian defense organization which has been perfected after many disastrous raids made on that country.

He pointed out the objectives of the enemy in making raids and why we must get training to combat them. First, the enemy cripples, or destroys defense plants; second, they disorganize transportation and communications; third, they disperse or destroy concentrations of material; and, fourth, they undermine the morale of the civilian population. Later in the lesson the various kinds of bombs were explained and some of the damages which they create were described. Mr. Hoffman pointed out very definitely that we are in a vulnerable position because of the river. An enemy pilot starting at the Gulf of Mexico, which may offer a haven to enemy aircraft carriers, may follow the river to any point because it is impossible to cover it up. This particular portion of the interior of the country is a good target for enemy bombs because of the great defense industries either under construction or in operation, because of the great farming industry carried on so extensively, and because Omaha is an important railway center.

The meeting closed with an explanation of the entire defense set-up in Plattsmouth and how the work of the various group leaders will coordinate with the office of the commander when orders are issued and how the groups under the leaders will carry on the actual work during an air raid.

Removal of Fruit Stains
Fresh fruits to eat are one of the pleasures of summertime, but they often leave marks on table linen and clothes that become ugly stains unless they are treated promptly and correctly.

As part of the wartime campaign to conserve fabrics, Home Demonstration Agent Miss Baldwin this week furnished some tips on removal of fruit stains from cottons and linens.

Start working on stains while they are still fresh and damp, if possible. In any case, remove them before you launder the fabric. Alkalies, such as in soap, and heat from the iron "set" some fruit and berry stains, making them difficult and sometimes even impossible to get out.

Boiling water will remove most fruit stains from white or colorfast cottons or linens. Stretch the stained cloth over a bowl, and fasten with a string so it cannot slip off. Then pour on the water from a height of 3 or 4 feet. If necessary, rub the fabric between applications of boiling water, to help loosen the stain. Sometimes even warm water will work successfully in removing a stain.

If the stain is not completely gone when you have finished the water treatment, put a little lemon juice on the spot and put it in the sun to bleach. Or you can use one of the chemical bleaches, such as hydrogen

4-H Demonstration and Judging Practice

The Agricultural Building at Weeping Water was the scene of much activity Thursday, July 30th, when one hundred and nine 4-H club members and leaders, from all parts of the county, gathered to participate in practice judging and demonstration.

During the morning five demonstrations were presented showing the various steps necessary in developing a team demonstration. Jane Lorenson and Janice Joyce of Weeping Water demonstrated "Making a Custard". Joan Engelkemeier and Joan Crippen, Louisville, "Peanut Butter Cookies," Corrine Wendt & Glennis Wagoner of Cedar Creek, "Plain Muffins". Cottage Cheese and its place in the meal was presented by Margaret Smith and Eloise Cole of Mynard, while Robert Cole and Paul Ruffner of Plattsmouth discussed egg selection and grading.

The afternoon was devoted to practice judging in livestock, poultry, cooking, girls room and clothing with 87 girls and boys participating. 4-H leaders together with the agents and Miss Wilkens and Mr. Lawritson from College of Agriculture listened to reasons. All in all it was a very busy day but one which Cass County 4-H'ers found to be profitable to them, in judging and demonstration work.

Scrap Iron

Farmers who have not already done so are urged to dispose of all scrap metal and rubber before the close of the state contest which ends August 8th. During the first two weeks of the contest Cass County turned in $21,860 pounds. It is expected that the amount will be doubled by Saturday, August 8th.

4-H Conservation Camp

Miss Imo Heebner, Helen Grant, Dorothy Sand, all of Nehawka and Kathleen Balfour of Union are participating in the four day Wild-Life Conservation Camp now in session at Seward. Camp activities are confined to nature study, hunting and fishing. About two hundred 4-H club members and leaders from over the State avail themselves annually of this opportunity to study wild life, which is made possible by Mr. Charles Horn of Minneapolis.

Burning Stubble is No Remedy

Burning wheat stubble now is of no value in controlling insects such as chinch bugs and army worms. Furthermore, burning the crop residue dries out the soil, reduces its water absorbing capacity and increases erosion. Wheat ground that is to be planted to wheat this fall should either be disced immediately and plowed during August or plowed during the next few days and probably disced later.

Where there is heavy straw it is especially important that the seed bed be prepared early and well packed before seeding time.

There is an increased interest in bindweed eradication in Cass County this summer. Several farmers who have small patches plan to eradicate bindweed by the chemical treatment. Cultivation is more economical for large areas.

State Milling and Baking Contest

The highest quality wheat produced in Nebraska during the 1942 season will be selected in the State Milling and Baking Contest for 1942.

Winners will be determined by actually milling each sample of wheat and baking a loaf of bread from it. Only in this way can the true quality of a sample of wheat be determined, regardless of how high its protein or test weight may be, according to H. D. Clark, Chief Inspector of the Omaha Grain Exchange and one of the judges of the contest. External appearance of the grain will be given only minor consideration in the scoring.

Farmers or 4-H Pure Seed Club members desiring to submit samples should mail 15 pounds of wheat directly to the Nebraska Grain Improvement Association, College of Agriculture, Lincoln, before August 15. The name and address of the sender together with the variety of wheat should accompany the sample.

Willard H. Waldo, County Agricultural Agent Jessie H. Baldwin, Home Demonstration Agent.

CORRECTION

From Friday's Daily—Virgil Stander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Stander, sr., departed Wednesday for Leavenworth, Kansas, for induction into the army instead of Russell Stander as was erroneously stated in yesterday's Journal. The dinner party held at the home of Hugh Stander, sr., last Sunday was in Virgil's honor.

VISIT HOME FOLKS

Pvt. Everett Daniels, USA, is home for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Daniels, sr., as well as his other relatives and friends. He is stationed in the air corps training center at Wichita Falls, Tex., where he has been since joining the army.

peroxide and sodium perborate; hydrosulphite; or javelle water. To remove stains from fresh peaches, pears, and plums, use cold water and glycerine. First, sponge the stain well with cool water. Then put several drops of glycerine, or a soapsless shampoo, on the stain—enough to cover it. Work in by rubbing the fabric between your hands. Let it stand for several hours, then put on a few drops of vinegar or oxalic acid. Allow it to remain for a minute or two, and then rinse well in water.

Additional Prize Money

Additional prize money will be offered in the baby beef classes at the 1942 Nebraska State Fair, according to announcement this week, by Ed Millie, Sec. of the Nebr. State Fair Board.

The Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce is adding $150 to prize money already offered for each baby beef steer and heifer that places in the blue and red ribbon groups of the 3 main beef breeds, Angus, Shorthorn, and Hereford. The announcement was made recently by Sidney Anderson of Lincoln, President of the Chamber.

Prize money for the baby beef classes, including steers and heifers of the breeds named also is to be increased by $850 offered by the State Fair Board. This will boost the total budget for all baby beef classes to $1,850.

Bindweed

Many Nebraska fields which were clean-cultivated in the ordinary way for control of bindweed have been subject to severe erosion and have had their yielding ability cut down. Work now underway at the Nebraska Agricultural Experiment Station indicates that sub-surface tillage will solve this problem of erosion and at the same time will kill the bindweed.

Tillage of bindweed patches means that the roots are cut off below the surface, and eventually the plant is starved out because the food reserve is depleted. Sub-surface tillage was developed as a means of cultivating farm land without disturbing the crop residue on the surface of the ground. A special duckfoot machine with wide sweeps is used. The machine is equipped with rolling coulters and moves through the soil with bunching the crop residue on top of the ground or clogging. The residue conserves moisture by preventing run-off from heavy rains and eliminates much of the soil erosion.

There is an increased interest in bindweed eradication in Cass County this summer. Several farmers who have small patches plan to eradicate bindweed by the chemical treatment. Cultivation is more economical for large areas.
