Industrial Workers Join In Pay Roll Drive

Campaign To Increase the Enrollment of the Workers Into The Drive For More Aid

Today the industrial workers of Nebraska begin a drive which will add further distinction to the outstanding war record they already have established. Our men and women of industry, along with their fellow workers throughout the Nation, today undertake a campaign whose goal is to have every wage earner in the country investing at least 10 per cent of income in war savings bonds by December 31.

We of the Nebraska War Savings Staff look forward with confidence to the final report on Nebraska's record in the drive. Our worker's war production record speaks for itself. Now these men and women of industry are going to demonstrate their ability to pitch in and do an outstanding job in providing the finances of war as well as the tools of war.

Many of our wage earners already are purchasing bonds regularly through payroll savings. Those whose bond deduction does not amount to 10 per cent will be urged to raise it at least to that figure. Those not buying bonds through payroll savings will be brought into the ranks of those who are regularly investing in the preservation of the American way of life.
