MURRAY

By Journal Field Representative

Jimmie Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Morris, was quite ill for several days the past week but is now reported better.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meade and Mr. and Mrs. Olin Morris were at Union Sunday to attend the funeral of Rev. W. A. Taylor.

Visit in Murray

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Brendel, of Franklin, Nebraska, former residents of Murray, were in Omaha and drove to Murray to visit Mrs. W. L. Seybold, a sister of Mr. Brendel. Mrs. Brendel was in Murray at the Seybold home while Mr. Brendel looked after some business in Omaha.

Shows Improvement

Mrs. W. L. Brendel, who has been at a Lincoln hospital for some time, is now home and improving. She will, however, probably remain under treatment at the home for some time.

Mrs. Margaret Brendel was at Weeping Water on Monday of this week to look after business matters.

Dr. Richard Brendel, interne at the Bryan Memorial hospital at Lincoln, was in Omaha to look after a patient that had been under his care and stopped in Murray to visit his mother, Mrs. Margaret Brendel.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Kelsey, the former uncle of Mrs. George Nickles, with Mrs. Mary Perry, all of Shenandoah, Iowa, were in Murray Sunday. They were dinner guests at the George Nickles home.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Merritt were visitors in Union Sunday to attend the funeral of Rev. W. A. Taylor, an old friend; also to be guests in the home of Ed Lewis, brother of Mrs. Merritt.

Harry Plybon was at Dunbar this week where he was called to deliver some prepared feed to a customer.

Edward Noell, who has been living west of Murray, has moved to the Young farm east of Murray that has been occupied by the Guy White family. Mr. White is at the Martin bomber plant and the family has moved to Plattsmouth, and Mr. Noell will farm the place the coming season.

Loy Clarence, tyo disc sharpener, and his son of Union were in Murray Monday to look after some business.

William Sporer and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Sporer, were in Plattsmouth last Saturday to look after some business matters.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Lang entertained on Sunday, Mr. Mike Sedlak, father of Mrs. Lang and also Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fulton and three children, of Plattsmouth.

Elbert Keil and Perl Albin have been butchering hogs in this locality. Fred Drucker having fifteen dressed and Don Horschor nearly as many. They also dressed a beef for Curtis Farris.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Eppings are the parents of a fine eight and a half pound son, born at their home seven miles west of Murray.

Thomas G. Herbert, a member of the U. S. Coast Guard, has been home on a furlough, expecting to be back on duty by Sunday.

Stuart Rylander and Albert Murray were shelling and delivering corn at the Murray elevator Saturday.

Mrs. L. A. Tyson, mother of Dr. R. W. Tyson, who has been making her home in Murray with her son and family, has departed for Elmwood. She will visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marion McCrory, the latter a daughter.

Back from Hospital

William Vest, who has been suffering from an eye affliction, was in Omaha last week where he had several delicate operations on the eyes and has recovered much encouragement as to the outcome and hopes to have the full use of both eyes.

4-H Awards

Announcement has been released recently of the following honors awarded to Cass County 4-H'ers for 1942 accomplishments: James Wolph, Avoca, Doane College Scholarship; Helen Grant, Nehawka, Nebraska Wesleyan Scholarship; Richard Cole, Plattsmouth, Ak-Sar-Ben Medal and Charlotte Ann Rieke, Club Week trip on food production record. One cooking club leader and the high ranking individual of each of the eleven cooking clubs in the county received a ten pound sack of flour awarded by Omar, Inc. This went to: Mrs. Roy Cole, Plattsmouth; Margaret Smith, Plattsmouth; Agnes Marie Hinds, Weeping Water; Joan Engelkemeyer, Louisville; Janice Joyce, Weeping Water; Evelyn Campbell, Nehawka; June Mase-man, Avoca; Corrine Wendt, Louisville; Delores Ebeler, Elmwood; Doloris Smith, Plattsmouth; Alice Engelking, Elmwood; Marvel Rogers, Alvo.

Feeders' Day March 12

Plans for the Third Annual Cass County Feeders' Day to be held at Weeping Water, Friday, March 12 are virtually complete. The one day program in which Extension Specialists of the University of Nebraska, College of Agriculture will present latest information on all main branches of farm and home production methods, starts at 10:00 A. M. Similar farm front meetings are being held throughout the state.

Viewing litters of fall pigs, part of them from inbred sired and a gilt selection demonstration will be an added feature in the men's section. Livestock growers will be interested in records made by litters of pigs sired by boars closely inbred compared with litters out of boars of unrelated matings. Tests have been conducted on the farms of D. L. Brown, Jean Norris, The Norris Brothers and Dave Patterson the past year.

Among the specialists on the program will be D. L. Gross, Agronomy; Ed Janike, beef cattle, hogs and sheep; O. S. Bare, Entomology; M. L. Flack, dairy; Joe Claybough, poultry; Ripzahn Douglass, Home Beautification and Allegra Wilkins, 4-H club work.

Why Join a 4-H Club?

The help to the nation's war effort which can be given through 4-H club work is the most important reason for joining the organization and carrying on the organized production and conservation work during 1943.

However, the 4-H Club work also carries important benefits to the young person that last throughout life as well as through the present emergency. Four-H Club work teaches the production and conservation methods that farmers and the State College of Agriculture have found most efficient, and these methods mean the most profitable possible in any given year.

Members of the 4-H clubs also learn to work with others, which is an important trait under modern conditions. Nebraska 4-H Club ranks include many young people who count this as one of the most important benefits they have gained from being in the work.

Besides these benefits, there is the inspiration to continue to do farm and home work well, that comes from working with other 4-H club members. Regular meetings are a part of the 4-H Club program.

All who are interested in learning more about the 4-H club work for 1943 in Cass county can get full information at the county extension office. New clubs the past week are: Blue Ribbon Swine Club, Mr. Herbert Kuntz, Nehawka, leader and the Four Mile Beef Club, Mr. Elmer E. Tritsch, Plattsmouth, Nebr., leader.

1943 Farm Program
AAA committees will be calling on all Cass county farm operators during the next few days to set up goals for maximum farm production of crops and livestock. The county Extension Office and Agricultural Agent are prepared to furnish farmers timely and practical information in connection with all phases of farming operations. This information will assist farmers to reach production goals.

The Extension Service, under the leadership of the Cass County Farm Bureau, has been assisting farm people with such problems since 1918, nearly 25 years ago.

A few of the many circulars now available for the asking are: S. B. 339—Soybean Production, E. C. 155—Flax Production, E. C. 135—Field Bean Production, S. C. 40—Hog Manual, E. C. 739—Adjustment and Repair of Farm Machinery, E. C. 604—Feeding Dairy Cows, E. C. 1400—Nebraska Poultry Manual, S. C. 48—Farm Sheep Facts, S. C. 58—Feeding and Care of Calves and E. C. 100-2—Boys and Girls 4-H clubs.

Commercially canned food that is transferred into glass jars may cause poisoning, is the warning from Dr. Russell Wilder, of the Food Distribution Administration. Home canned foods do not have to be reported when War Ration Book Two is obtained and reports have come from some parts of the United States that hoarders are re-canning food as a means of representing the commercially canned products.

"Most foods that are removed from cans must be re-processed before they can be preserved in glass jars, just as though they never had been canned," the doctor states. "Reprocessing is unsatisfactory for housewives to undertake, and may be dangerous. The food becomes a soupy mass with decreased food value, and may become dangerous to eat. It is therefore wasteful of food value, as well as dangerous, and is contrary to the intent of the rationing program which is contributing to the winning of the war."

New Income Tax Book Available

Two publications of especial value to farmers in their planning and record-keeping for 1943 are available at the county extension office. One is the new income tax record book just published by the Nebraska Agricultural Extension Service. It contains sections for sales of farm products, other income, farm expenses, and all other items that must be known in figuring out a taxable income for 1943. The figures in the summary can be transferred directly to the income tax statement which will be turned in a year from now. Price of this book is 25 cents.

The other book is the Farm Management Handbook, also published by the Nebraska Agricultural Extension Service. While this book was published in 1941, and no new edition in the near future is planned, it contains much information that is useful in making plans for crop, livestock, and the rest of the farm business.

Back at Base

Sgt. John Cloidt, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cloidt, Sr., is back at his base at the air depot in Oklahoma City after spending his ten-day furlough here with his parents at the time his father was confined with bronchitis and laryngitis. The parents state that he has applied for officers training and is awaiting to be assigned to school.

Deal With World Problems

Washington, Feb. 24. (UP)—The United States today is arranging two conferences of United Nations representatives—one dealing with relief measures during the war, the other with the problem of feeding the world after the war.

President Roosevelt discussed the food conference at his press conference yesterday. He also disclosed that other agencies of the government are planning the relief conversations. A definite line is being drawn between the two subjects, the President said. Relief agencies are caring for the war emergencies of famine and malnutrition, while the post war food administration will be canvassed separately.

The food conference will be held sometime this spring.

Jury on the Job

This morning the petit jury in the district court reported for duty and Judge W. W. Wilson took up the regular jury term postponed from November.

The first case called was that of George F. Rushart, et al. vs. the State Department of Roads and Irrigation, brought here on a change of venue from Sarpy County. A number of the prominent members of the east Nebraska bar are involved in the case, the plaintiff being represented by William Ritchie, of Omaha, Joseph E. Strawn, Papillion and J. Howard Davis of this city. The defendants are represented by Guy Tate, county attorney of Sarpy county, assisted by Walter H. Smith, Cass county attorney.

William Atchison, of Elmwood, veteran bailiff, was on the job as usual and to receive the greetings of the court house officials and members of the bar. Mr. Atchison is in his twentieth year as the district court bailiff, having been appointed by the late Judge James T. Begley as the bailiff for the grand jury in 1923 and has since served as an officer of the court.

Ghandi More Comfortable

Poona, India, Feb. 22. (UP)—Mohandas K. Ghandi rallied from what his doctors called a "crisis" during the night and seemed more cheerful and comfortable in the 13th day of his fast against internment, a medical bulletin revealed today.

The Indian Nationalist leader's heart was growing weaker however and the fear that he might soon die unless he eats had not been allayed.

Ghandi, so weak that a swallow of water exhausted him, apparently was as unmoved as the British government by the seriousness of his condition. There were indications that his death would result in serious difficulties for the British in India.

Birth of Son

On Friday morning, February 19, a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Goehour. The grandparents of the infant are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sheldon and John Goehour. This is the fourth child for the family.
