Just Talk . . .

Had it not been for the steady purr of an airplane the other day our attention would not have called to the blue heavens. What looked to be a tiny glider remained in the wake of the swiftly moving plane, and long after the plane had disappeared from sight our neck remained craned back while we observed the floating object which we reasoned could only be a bird. Such observations are contagious, for in the next minute or two others had looked up to see and follow the movements of the winged thing, though movements here meant only the course taken in the sky. Vision was strained for some time before any sort of wing movement could be detected, and then on the slightest flutter. The bird drifted much as a piece of paper on a body of water. Mostly it worked sideways describing huge arcs, and never seeming to lose height. A fellow watcher ventured the guess that perhaps it was an eagle; maybe so, or maybe just an ordinary bird we've never noticed before. Just the same, we'd like to know.

Many, who once obeyed the slogan "Refresh Yourself" and regularly guzzled the sparkling brown liquid from the familiarly shaped bottle, have not yet learned the true facts surrounding the scarcity of America's most popular drink—just in case there might be a misunderstanding we're referring to Coca Cola. A regional distributor told us this morning that contrary to some beliefs, the trouble is not a difficulty in securing the extract from the all important cola bean. Its the sugar story again; essential in sweetening the syrup, the sugar must be the pure cane variety. Use of beet sugar results in the forming of a foam in the neck of the bottle, we are told. About the cut in supply—that's 30 per cent under last year's figure.

Hunters have been forced to give up or curtail their pursuit of game since the war effort got in full swing. This situation recently came before the public when hunters clamored for ammunition for the coming season. As long as the war effort is not impeded, we can't say we blame the hunters. We are rather prone to think that in these days of meat rationing, roast duck or pheasant on the table would go a long way toward bolstering civilian morale. Of course, if the hunter's getting shells means that manufacturers will have to make a special effort in their behalf, then harm would be done to those hunting bigger game on foreign soil—and we don't want that. But, if an ample supply of shells exists, and is tied up with administrative strings, we think it would be well for someone to go to bat for the hunters.

Pies for Service Men

That home-made pie "like Mother used to make" will probably be served to soldiers from Ft. Crook and the Rifle Range when they attend a dance sponsored by the Victorettes here Friday evening. At least that's the hope of Mrs. Walter Tritsch, sponsor for the girls' club. Mrs. Tritsch believes that if enough mothers, who hope their boys in the service are enjoying home-made pie, respond to the call and donate pies, the refreshment period will be a success. Fifteen pies have been received so far, Mrs. Tritsch said. More are needed. Mrs. Tritsch can be reached by phoning 217.

An Appreciation

Henry Kammann wishes to extend thanks to his many friends for the kindnesses to himself and family during his recent illness. He also gratefully acknowledges the many gifts, cards and flowers.

BOWLING BITS

By Breezy Bumm

Here we are almost to the end of the trail again. One more week of bowling and this period will be over. In fact, this week's bowling will tell the tale. In the mad scramble we won't even have to stick our neck out to make two predictions as to the outcome of the first and last places. The first place will be taken by the boys of Woster Shoe and the last place will be held by the Teachers.

Right now there is a 3-way tie for second place and a 2-way tie for third place. The fireworks will be plenty this week as each team strives to gain the highest spot possible. Nothing exciting happened in last week's bowling. No one entered the "200 Club" but there were two new members in the "500 Club" when Alberta Austin rolled 561 and Faye Spidell a 529.

With the uncertainty of conditions in general everywhere we won't state now whether or not we will have another league next fall. If bowling has to be dropped locally until after the war I believe most of the fellows will remember the 1942-43 season as one of lots of good, clean sport. The standings at the end of last week's bowling are as follows:

Officers Clear Up Several Burglaries In This Community

Carl Bailey Held at County Jail After Being Caught Selling Stolen Chickens Tuesday

Late Tuesday afternoon Sheriff Joe Mrasek, Deputy Sheriff Emory Doody, and Chief of Police Noah Parker, in quick moves, rounded up Carl Bailey and revealed a cache of stolen goods at the Bailey and Rainey homes on Wintersteen hill where they had been hidden.

The officers received a tip that Bailey was stealing chickens from the George Stones place on Wintersteen hill and the search for the man was taken up by the officers. They drove out to the west part of the city to try and locate the man, and then the car he had been driving, was seen parked near the Plattsmouth Creamery. The officers rushing into the building caught Bailey in the act of taking money in payment for the chickens. He was then taken to the county jail and the officers proceeded to Wintersteen hill to visit the place of residence of Bailey.

One of the first objects revealed was a radio and clock that were identified as having been stolen from the office of the Plattsmouth Creamery last fall. A search uncovered a trap door leading to an attic, where was discovered a large box of dishes that had been taken from the George Hasley residence, the loss being reported to the officers on Sunday. A set of glasses and a tea kettle was also found carefully concealed—these also being from the Hasley home.

The articles had been concealed by Bailey apparently without the knowledge of the owners of the premises where they were found.

Car Climbs Curb

The usually imperturbable Murl Jones, employe of the H. M. Soenichsen store, broke all speed records getting out of the path of a car, out of control, this morning. Jones was washing windows at the store when Mrs. N. F. Pifer drove her '37 Ford into a parking space in front of the store. As she did so, she brushed the fender of a car owned by Mrs. Lillian Livingston. Evidently the excitement caused her to step on the accelerator instead of the brake. Before the driver regained control of the machine, three wheels cleared the steep curb. Miraculously no damage was done to the tires.

A call to arms! from everywhere they come.
Young laddies brave—fond Mother's sons—
Strong of Faith, with eyes alight.

Now many have gone to Hawaii
And some to Island—Cold!!

Like the mighty Eagle on wing.
And yet, there are many who guard our land.
While hearts sing "Let freedom ring!"
Each have a task that must be done,
And we know they can do it too—
For every Mother's son of them
"Are Americans brave and true."

Which means protection now
For you and me.
