Boys Get Trapped

Last evening Sheriff Joe Mrasek was aroused from his slumbers by a call from Murdock where Rev. Weber of one of the churches was reporting that four of the Murdock young boys, one being a son of his, had not returned home and as it was late in the evening the community was considerably aroused. The sheriff hurried out to the village of Murdock and just a few minutes before his arrival the boys had been located. They had taken their bicycles and started out for a ride over the countryside the party comprising Carl Weber, 15, Bobby Race, 13, Buddy Race, 11, and Donald Race, 14. The boys had ridden around for some time and then discovered a box car on the railroad siding that they desired to explore. Getting into the box car the boys shut the door to see how dark the car would get and in so doing the door locked and they were imprisoned. The boys removed their shoes and by pounding of the side of the car with the shoes were finally able to attract the attention of one of the searching party and were released.

Attends Group Meeting

Judge A. H. Duxbury, chairman of the State Aid Committee of Nebraska, was at Omaha Monday where one of the most important meetings to be held in the west convened. This was the rehabilitation conference of Area D of the American Legion.

It was roughly estimated that about 32,000 disabled soldiers of the present war will be hospitalized this year, and an additional 44,000 in 1944.

This will necessitate additional veterans' hospital facilities, while schools now existing will be utilized as far as possible for vocational rehabilitation.

Area D Chairman James Burns of Milwaukee, led the discussion. Among those attending were George E. Brown, Washington, claims service director of the veterans administration; Bruce Stubblefield, Washington, executive secretary of the American Legion national rehabilitation committee; Charles W. Stevens, Washington, claims representative of the national rehabilitation committee; Jay Brown, American Legion field secretary and Henry H. Dudley, director of the Legion's national field service. Others to attend included beside Judge Duxbury, John Curtiss, Lincoln, state commander of the American Legion; Ivan Marsh, state service officer of the American Legion, and E. A. Webb, assistant state service director.

Hog Shed Fire

Sunday a hog shed at the farm of Glen Todd, near Murray, was discovered to be on fire and did much damage. The fire was caused from a pile of cobs burning, the wind carrying one burning cob against the side of the hog house.

The family were away from home at the time and the blaze was discovered by a man from Nebraska City who called at the farm for some eggs and the fire reported.

Taxi in Collision

An auto accident resulted early Sunday morning when a south bound car driven by Lenus Meyer collided with a taxi near the intersection at 6th and Pearl streets. Albert Richards was at the wheel of the taxi with two passengers in the back seat. No injuries were sustained. Considerable damage was done to the body running board and right front wheel of the taxi, however.

Opening Meeting of Passion Week Services on Monday

Rev. Walter H. Traub of the Kountze Memorial Church Is the Speaker—Fine Program Arranged

The first of the series of union Lenten services marking passion week was held on Monday at the Cass Theatre, that has been donated by Mr. Griffin for the use of the services.

This series that opened yesterday will run through Friday and each day distinguished speakers will be heard and special musical offerings given and ministers of the protestant churches will participate each day. Monday the meeting was presided over by Clement Woster, president of the Business Men's Ad Club, one of the sponsors of the week of religious service.

The invocation was offered by the Rev. Willard Sherman, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed church.

Mrs. J. R. Reeder, well known local vocalist, chose as her solo for the service, "There's a Green Hill Far Away."

The accompaniment for the hymn singing and solo was played by Mrs. Wiley Sigler, who has served so efficiently in this part of the program for the services last year.

J. Howard Davis local attorney and chairman of the Plattsmouth war bond drive, gave a short talk in which he urged the support of the public for the raising of the funds for the local quota to be used in the war effort.

The speaker was Rev. Walter H. Traub, pastor of the Kountze Memorial Church of Omaha, one of the largest congregations in the state. The attendants at the service had the pleasure of hearing a very inspiring talk on "Expendables," in this the speaker discussed the expendables of life and the use that the individual made of their opportunities to expend their energy and opportunity to the greatest advantage.

The ushers, directed by Miss Catherine Conis, were on the job in fine manner.

Urge Rehabilitation of Missouri River Flooded Areas

Senator Wherry Favors Consideration of the Entire Flooded Sections

Omaha April 20, (UP)—Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry of Nebraska, enroute to Washington today, said here last night that the entire area flooded by the Missouri river should be rehabilitated immediately and permanent satisfactory dikes built with federal funds to prevent any future flood damage.

The said that money and authorization for such work by the federal government is already provided and those affected by the flood need only apply to Col. Lewis A. Pick, army division engineer at Omaha.

Wherry said he would be in Washington tomorrow morning and added that he will "work hand in hand with the proper officials to see that the entire work is accomplished."

The senator said he had inspected the entire river from Rulo, Nebr., to above Omaha, by boat, was of the opinion that the problem is one of flood control, and is an emergency that should be handled promptly by all groups of people, "especially those affected by this untimely catastrophe."

He suggested that all farmers whose levees have been destroyed and who need help to re-establish themselves in the land contact immediately the division engineer. Work must be expedited all along the river to assist families driven from their homes to be rehabilitated on their land as quickly as possible.

"Re-establishment of farmers on their lands is vital to the food production program," he said; "therefore, the levees must be repaired at the earliest possible date so that crops might be planted this year on lands that have been inundated, and certainly this should be done before the seasonal rise of the Missouri river in June."

Senator Wherry pointed out that Public Law 228, passed by the 77th Congress, provides funds for doing flood control work, rescue work or "the maintenance of any flood control work threatened or destroyed by flood."
